AFTERMATH OF RIOT — All that remained this morning of a Bank of America branch near the University of California at Santa Barbara were these structural beams after it was ablaze during the night by rioting UCSB students. The confrontation last night was the second in a row near the university which is located in Goleta, just north of Santa Barbara.

Santa Barbara Students Riot

Bank Is Gutted By Fire

GOLETA (UPI)—Thirty-four persons were arrested early today as 450 helmeted law officers swept a small, troubled area following a rock and bottle throwing rampage by 1,500 young persons.

Sheriff's deputies said most of those arrested were charged with unlawful assembly in the second straight night of disturbances in the community of Isla Vista, adjacent to the University of California, Santa Barbara campus.

BANK GUTTED

A branch of the Bank of America and a coin laundry were gutted by fire during the nearly 10 hours of violence, and 16 officers were injured. Four were hospitalized with major injuries.

Officers noved into the area after a helicopter manned by police broadcast warnings the gathering was an unlawful assembly most of the crowd dispersed, but authorities said small bands pelted officers with rocks as they moved through the area.

The demonstrators took control of a shopping area near the bank and hurled rocks and bottles at sheriff's department vehicles that ventured near.

Deputies said a small crowd broke into the bank and started fires in window drapes and counters.

HIT BY ROCKS

Seventy officers moved in to disperse the group but were repelled by a barrage of rocks and bottles as the bank burned. Authorities said the vault was not damaged.

The crowd then captured a police car abandoned by the fleeing officers, overturned it and set it afire.

Authorities said the disturbance began after a speech on the campus by William Kunstler, chief defense attorney for the "Chicago Seven." However, student leaders said the turmoil stemmed from long standing problems and had no connection with Kunstler's talk which attracted 5,500 students of the school's 15,000 enrollment.

Law enforcement agencies in three surrounding counties were called in to aid local police and deputies. They were joined by 150 highway patrolmen.

NOT CALLED

The sheriff's department notified Gov. Ronald Reagan's office of the disturbance, but the National Guard was not called in although Paul Beck, Reagan's press secretary, said the possibility was evaluated.

A four-block area of the Isla Vista business district, which was hard hit by Tuesday's demonstration, was sealed off as crowds roamed through the area breaking windows and

Pessner To Seek State Senate Job

Hubert O. Pessner, owner of a San Rafael lumber company, has announced his candidacy for the Fourth District Senate seat held by John F. McCarthy, who will not seek reelection June 2.

Pessner, 53, who lives at 90 Corte De Sabla, Greenbrae, said yesterday he is running for the Republican nomination because he feels "some things" need to be said.

"People of our district, state and nation are suffering from too much irresponsible and coercive government that is pushing us ever further down the collectivist road and to 100 per cent control of our lives by bureaucrats from Washington," he said.

He said that government, at all levels, should perform only those functions that an individual cannot perform for himself.

"The funding and direction for every program possible should come from the local level," he added, "This will be my goal, if elected."

Pessner is a native of Los Angeles and has been a Marin County resident since 1955. A graduate of Oregon State University, he owns and operates West Coast Timber Products.

O'Brien Declines To Direct Demos

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lawrence F. O'Brien announced today he has informed Hubert H. Humphrey he will not accept the chairmanship of the Democratic National Committee.

In a statement, the 52-year-old O'Brien said he has concluded "There are some within the party structure and some among those with whom the party traditionally has had close relationships who do not share the view that I should return as chairman.

"Therefore, it is clear to me that the consensus I deem vital for the next chairman would not be forthcoming and I will not allow my name to be presented for consideration."

O'Brien's decision, announced while he is on the West Coast on a business trip, throws into confusion the decision on the next chairman, who is due to be elected next Thursday when the national committee meets.

Sen. Fred R. Harris of Oklahoma, who succeeded O'Brien a year ago, has resigned effective that date.

The party's governors are complaining that no one asked their views on the chairmanship.

Economy On Schools, Tea Board?

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon proposed to Congress today the scrapping or reform of 57 federal programs at a saving in the coming year of $2.5 billion.

In a special message, Nixon said congressional action would be required to achieve $1.1 billion of the savings and that he will do the rest through administrative moves.

The pruning operation would include reform of the 20-year-old federal program to aid to schools in areas housing large numbers of federal personnel—a program Nixon has tried without success to cut in the past.

The upshot of the Nixon plan in this field would be to shift more funds from relatively wealthy communities to poorer districts and at the same time cut total annual appropriations by $392 million.

Another item on the Nixon agenda would be elimination of a little-known board of federal tea tasters that has been in operation since 1897 and costs $127,000 a year.

"At one time in the dim past," Nixon said, "there may have been good reason to single out tea for such special taste tests; but that reason no longer exists. Nevertheless, a separate tea-tasting board has gone right along, at the taxpayers' expense, because nobody up to now took the trouble to take a hard look at why it was in existence. The general attitude was it didn't cost much, it provided a few jobs, so why upset the tea cart?"

He also proposed revision of the medicaid program, to emphasize more medical treatment and less custodial care for long term cases.

Nixon estimated this reform, if adopted, would save $235 mil-

FIRST '70 TRANSPLANT

Heart Patient Making Recovery

By DAVID DIETZ

Willem G. Van Buuren—the heart of another person beating in his chest—enthused yesterday over his good health, pedaled his daughter's bicycle up the street for a photographer and expressed a hope to return work soon.

There was a time two years ago when the survival of a heart transplant patient for mere days was cause for wonder and gratitude, but the 40-year-old Van Buuren, who lives in Strawberry, is proof that transplant technology has attained new heights.

Since December 1967, when the heart of an auto crash victim was given to a South African grocer in the world's first human heart transplant, 153 similar operations have been performed. Twenty-three persons survive, and one of them is the doughty Van Buuren, who received on Jan. 3 the heart of a San Leandro youth killed in an auto accident.

The four-and-one-half-hour operation was performed by a veteran transplant team headed by Dr. Norman Shumway. Three days later, Van Buuren left his hospital bed to walk and a little more than six weeks later, on Feb. 21, he departed the hospital—and drove the 45 miles home himself.

"I feel just great," he said in an interview yesterday at his home at 112 East Strawberry Drive. "I feel like I'm 10 years younger."

Van Buuren was the first transplant patient of 1970 and is Marin's initial recipient, but he is cool to the notoriety.

"The whole problem with heart transplants is that there are not enough donors," he said. "There were a couple of people waiting at the hospital while I was there but no donors ever came."

But for the humane decision of an East Bay family to donate their son's heart, Van Buuren probably would not be alive himself today. He said he feels extreme gratitude toward the family of 16-year-old Kenneth Gibson, but has not been in touch with them.

"It might hurt these people," he said. "These things are hard to talk about."

After two heart attacks—the first one 18 months ago and the other last summer—Van Buuren was accepted in December as a patient at Stanford. He had been referred by Dr. James Dahl of Greenbrae, a specialist in internal medicine.

"I could barely walk out to the car," he recalled.

After extensive tests while confined at Stanford Van Buuren said, "I found out that my heart was in such bad shape that any surgery was out of the question. They told me I either might live three months or get a heart transplant. They told me I was a good candidate because the rest of my body was in good shape.

"I felt better after they told

Wholesale Prices Up; Key Indicators Down

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices continued their rise in February, the government reported Thursday, but an index of "leading indicators" of the shape of the economy showed a sharp January decline.

The Labor Department said the wholesale price index, often a portent of retail prices to come, rose three-tenths of 1 per cent in February. The new level was 116.3 per cent of the 1957-59 base period and was 4.7 per cent above the level of a year earlier.

The Commerce Department said its leading indicators index, a composite of a number of things, dropped 1.8 per cent during January to 149.3 per cent of the 1963 level. The decline was much sharper than the December drop of one-tenth of 1 per cent.

The new index was 149.3 per cent of the 1963 figure.

The sharpest change was in initial claims for state unemployment insurance, which increased by 10.5 per cent. The average work week declined 1 per cent and new orders for durable goods industries declined 5.6 per cent.

New building permits declined 23.1 per cent. Stock prices dropped slightly less than 1 per cent while the prices of industrial materials rose 2 per cent.

The trend in wholesale prices was mixed.

The estimate showed that industrial commodities advanced two-tenths of one per cent over the month, the smallest gain since July 1969. But farm products rose a full one per cent, somewhat more than usual for February, while processed foods and animal feeds edged down two-tenths of one per cent.

Metals and metal products again accounted for much of the increase in wholesale prices for industrial materials, with boosts reported for steel mill products, iron and steel scrap, metal containers and fabricated structural metal.

The fuels index rose primarily because of higher prices for liquified petroleum gas, bituminous coal and distillates. Pesticides and mixed fertilizers showed the principal gains among chemicals.

Cattle and hog quotations moved up substantially after dropping in January and fresh fruits were higher.

Wallace Will Seek Governorship Again

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — George C. Wallace announced today that he will run for governor of Alabama again in the May 5 Democratic primary election, saying he feels the most pressing problem is "the present crisis in public education."

Wallace, now 50, was the third party candidate for president in 1968.

He was elected governor of Alabama in 1962. Four years later, prevented by law from succeeding himself, he ran his wife, Lurleen. She defeated nine men without a runoff in the primary election, and then defeated Jim Martin in the general election.

Key Welfare Proposal Moves

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Ways and Means Committee tentatively approved today the keystone of President Nixon's welfare revision proposal—a federal subsistence income for the working as well as the jobless poor.

Rep. John W. Byrnes of Wisconsin, senior Republican member of the committee, said legislation was ordered drafted along these lines. It is subject to review next week, but Byrnes indicated the basic decision has been made.

The provision calls for a $1,600 federally financed family income floor, which could be supplemented by food stamps to bring it to the equivalent of about $2,400.

Senate Panel Backs New HEW Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Appropriations Committee voted today to authorize President Nixon to withhold two per cent of the funds in a new $19.4 billion health and education money bill.

If sustained by the full Senate, and the House, the action could pave the way for the President to sign the reduced measure. He vetoed a costlier version in January as inflationary.

President Says Progress Made In French Talks

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon said today he and French President Georges Pompidou have made "very great progress" toward more friendly relations between France and the United States.

Bidding farewell to his guest after a two-hour long meeting at the White House Nixon acknowledged that differences still remain but, he said, they are much smaller than they were when this week's talks started.

"I can say now," Nixon said in the White House Rose Garden before Pompidou's departure, "that I believe we have made very great progress in restoring that kind of relationship between our nations..."

After discussions with Nixon at the White House, Pompidou and his wife flew to Cape Kennedy for a tour of U.S. space shot facilities before going on to San Francisco tonight. Other stops on his eight-day tour include Chicago and New York.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

To Enter Strike

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI)—The National Education Association (NEA) says it will send its entire legal staff here from Washington to help striking Kentucky public school teachers fight injunctions ordering them back to work.

A circuit court in Paducah, Ky., ordered teachers in that city to return to their jobs today. Indications were that legal actions would be filed elsewhere in the state.

The Jefferson County (Louisville) school board, the state's largest, ordered its 3,800 teachers back to work, but they said they would not return.

An estimated 25,000 of Kentucky's 33,000 teachers have been on strike since Monday, idling more than a half-million pupils.

61 Arrested

OXFORD, Miss. (UPI) — Sixty-one black students at the University of Mississippi were arrested Wednesday night after the group marched onstage at a campus chapel and stopped a concert.

Campus security officers, aided by highway patrolmen, arrested the students, who were charged with disturbing the peace and confined in the Lafayette County Jail.

A university spokesman said the students filed into Fulton Chapel and "disrupted" a performance by an international youth performing group.

It was the second night of demonstrations by black students on the Ole Miss campus. Tuesday night, a group of about 75 students marched to campus security headquarters and to Chancellor Porter Fortune's home protesting what they termed "white racism" on the campus and around the state.

Yablonski Link

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Silous Huddleston, a retired Tennessee coal miner and father of 11 children, faced arraignment today on charges of helping plot the murder of Joseph A. Yablonski.

Huddleston, 61, president of United Mine Workers pensioners Local 3228 at La Follette, Tenn., was indicted Wednesday by a federal grand jury, the fifth person charged with conspiracy in the case.

"I'll be glad to get home," Huddleston told newsmen moments before his arrest in front of the Federal Building. "I don't know how I got dragged into all this." He had just finished testifying to the grand jury.

Murphy Ahead

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The Democrats have a long way to go if they hope to win the U.S. Senate seat now held by Republican George Murphy, according to the California poll.

Pollster Mervin D. Field reported today that in a poll of voters earlier this month Murphy led Rep. John Tunney 53-37 with 10 per cent undecided and Murphy led Rep. George Brown 56-33 with 11 per cent undecided.

Tunney and Brown are the two declared Democratic candidates.

Chemical Sign

TOKYO (AP) — Tokyo's major newspapers published photographs today of a sign at the U.S. Air Force's Yakota Base warning that "this storage site contains Group B toxic and smoke chemical munitions requiring gas mask."

The secretary-general of a Tokyo antinuclear group said this "clearly shows toxic chemical weapons" were being stored at the base.

A U.S. spokesman denied this, saying the storage area "contains chemical smoke markers" used by a rescue and recovery squadron.

"These smoke markers could hardly be called weapons or bombs of any kind," the spokesman added.

Disperse Youth

MANILA (AP) — Several hundred riot police dispersed about 1,000 Filipino youths shouting anti-American slogans in front of the U.S. Embassy tonight. The crowd was inflamed by a court ban on a rally in Manila's major downtown plaza and the killing Wednesday night of a Filipino by a U.S. soldier at Clark Air Base near Manila.

The police, wearing helmets and carrying shields and nightsticks, marched in after the demonstrators hurled a few firecrackers and stones.

Two policemen and 14 demonstrators were reported injured.

Ford Layoffs

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. says it is laying off indefinitely this week an additional 3,000 employes, which will bring its number of persons laid off in the last two months to 10,000.

Ford, however, announced that its U.S. assembly plants would be closed a total of 49 working days in March, copared with 66 in February.

Chrysler Corp. announced Wednesday it had begun recalling laid-off workers to its assembly plants in neighboring Windsor, Ont. The firm has been worst hit among the major automakers by sagging sales and currently has 9,245 production workers laid off at U.S. plants.

General Motors announced Monday it will lay off indefinitely 2,200 and some plants will be closed from two days to a week in March.

Strike Ends

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — A 23-day school strike ended when 2,000 teachers jammed a hotel ballroom to ratify an agreement reached with the school board after five days of continuous negotiations.

All 3,400 teachers in the public school system, the largest in New Jersey, were expected to return to their regular classroom schedules today.

The teachers voted Wednesday night to approve a one-year contract calling for starting salaries to be increased from $6,700 to $8,000, binding arbitration of teachers grievances, limitation of class sizes to 30 students where possible, and a study of what the teachers claim is a need for educational specialists.

Monique Dies

JACKSON, Wyo. (AP) — The first elk died, but scientists say they will try again to track elk migration using a space satellite and a data transmitting collar.

The body of the 500-pound cow elk named Monique was found Tuesday. One of the project directors, Frank C. Craighead Jr., said she died of pneumonia which is common among the herd of 7,000 elk.

The bright red, $25,000 collar which had been fitted around her neck a week ago was recovered.

After the fitting, several attempts to track her movements from the Nimbus 3 weather satellite 700 miles above Wyoming in polar orbit were unsuccessful. On Monday contact was made, but it appeared Monique wasn't moving.

Harry Reynolds, the University of Montana graduate student who tranquilized Monique for the collar fitting found her body.

ABAG Will Study Lab Crime Grant

I- Special Report

BERKELEY—Marin County's application for a $115,913 federal grant to set up a North Bay regional crime laboratory will be reviewed by the Association of Bay Area Governments regional criminal justice advisory board at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow in the Hotel Claremont.

Total cost of the lab would be $193,196 for three years, the county has estimated. It would serve Marin, Sonoma, Napa and Solano counlys.

The regional board's staff has recommended limiting the grant to $62,173 toward the first year's cost of the lab, figured by the county at $103,623.

Also on the agenda is reconsideration of the Marin County Human Rights Commission's application for a $70,327 federal grant toward a $138,031 police community relations training program. State officials have recommended that the grant be trimmed to $25,000.

Israeli Jets Hit Nasser Missile Site

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli planes flashed across the Suez Canal today to strike at an Egyptian missile base 18 miles west of Cairo and made it home safely, the military command announced.

It was the first time Israel has announced strikes that far inside Egypt in the Cairo area since the June 1967 war, informants said. Israeli planes last ranged near Cairo Feb. 17 when they struck at antiaircraft missile sites around Helwan and Sahsjur.

Antiaircraft guns boomed in Cairo and black puffs were seen in the sky but no planes were sighted, said a dispatch from the Egyptian capital.

Air raid sirens were not heard in the center of Cairo, but sounded in the nearby suburb of Heliopolis.

The attack came only four hours after Egyptian planes streaked low across the waterway to strafe Israeli positions along the northern sector.

The Israeli military command said its forces suffered no casualties. Israeli and Egyptian raids across the canal are daily occurrences, and on Wednesday Israel struck Egyptian positions twice, while Egypt hit back once, just at sundown.

In West Germany, a federal prosecutor said an Arab had surrendered to police and asked for $2,000 in exchange for information about an Arab plot to assassinate Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban during his visit to West Germany earlier this week.

West German police reported that one of two Arabs wanted in connection with an explosion aboard an Austrian airliner last weekend has flown to Cairo. The two are suspected of mailing a time bomb that exploded shortly after the plane took off from Frankfurt Saturday. The plane with 38 passengers aboard landed safely.

Police said they still are trying to learn if the second man is in West Germany.

Two More To Vote No On Carswell

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sens. Jacob K. Javits and George S. McGovern said today they will vote against confirmation of G. Harrold Carswell's Supreme Court nomination because of dissatisfaction with his civil rights record.

McGovern, a South Dakota Democrat, considered a possible presidential aspirant in 1972, said in a prepared speech "I am appalled that our President would regard this nominee as a worthy appointment to the nation's highest court."

Javits became the third Republican to announce against President Nixon's second attempt to name a Southerner to the Supreme Court seat vacated last spring by Abe Fortas.

Sen. Charles E. Goodell, Javit's New York colleague, said several weeks ago he would oppose the nomination.

Prime Rate Drop Followup Unlikely

NEW YORK (AP) — Spokesmen for big banks generally doubt that the cut in the prime interest rate from 8½ per cent to 8 per cent by Philadelphia's little Lincoln National Bank is likely to spread soon.

But stock market investors grabbed Wednesday at the news—half an hour before the close—as an indication that tight money policies might be ready for a change. A flood of trading sent the Dow Jones industrial average rocketing to a 13.86 point gain, closing at 768.28.

The prolonged stock market slump has widely been blamed on tight money and credit policies instigated by the Federal Reserve Board to fight inflation and cool the economy.

Banks have progressively increased the prime rate—the rate to their biggest customers—from 6¼ per cent as recently as December 1968 to the historic high of 8½ per cent.

Norman Denny, president of Lincoln National, said the bank lowered its prime rate, effective March 1, "because we don't want the economy of the Delaware Valley to suffer."

In an interview, he said the stock market reaction "shows the frustration of the investor, that he was waiting for some sign, some indication of better times."

"We felt the country was in jeopardy," Denny declared.

Many bankers said they doubted the move by Lincoln National—a comparatively small bank with $50 million in assets—will lead to immediate widespread drop in the prime rate at other banks.

Algiers Motel Four Are Found Innocent

FLINT, Mich. (AP) — An all-white jury has found three white policemen and a Negro private guard innocent of conspiracy in the Algiers Motel incident in which three black youths were killed during Detroit's 1967 riots.

The three suspended police officers—Ronald August, 30, Robert Paille, 34, and David Senak, 25—all said they would seek reinstatement with the Detroit police force. They indicated they might seek full back pay for their two and a half years off duty.

Melvin Dismukes, 26, the Negro private guard, said he feared for his life.

"Every place I go, I go armed," Dismukes told newsmen after the verdict. "This is a great load off my mind, but when I leave here it's just the beginning. I don't know who is waiting for me out in the dark."

The four defendants were accused of conspiring "to injure, oppress, threaten and intimidate" ten occupants of the motel when they raided the building July 26, 1967 in a search for reported snipers.

Witnesses said two white girls and eight Negro youths were beaten with rifle butts or otherwise abused by police and National Guardsmen.

If found guilty, the defendants could have been sentenced to 10 years in prison and fined $10,000.

me that because, first, they told me the truth and, secondly, I knew I had a second chance."

Discharged just before Christmas with word that it might be months before a heart was available, Van Buuren nevertheless remained optimistic.

"They called Saturday afternoon (Jan. 3) at 3:30 p.m. and told me there was a donor," he said. "I went into the operating room at 8 o'clock and came back downstairs at 1:30."

He said he now feels no pain or discomfort. "I've felt better since the second day."

Exercise and a low calorie, no-salt diet have been prescribed, together with consumption of 25 to 30 pills daily. He jogs, works with weights and rides one of his children's bicycles to restore strength to limp muscles. His weight fell from 165 before the operation to 130, but Van Buuren said the doctor wants it that way.

He visits Stanford twice weekly for blood tests, a cardiogram and x-rays. If rejection, the tendency of the body to destroy foreign tissue, sets in, this will detect it, Van Buuren said.

"I'm very optimistic about the whole thing," he said. "My recovery was faster than many of the others. And it was a good 'match' (of tissue, blood type, etc.)

"I was sick for so long and I could feel myself going downhill. Now I have many plans for the future. I'm too glad to be home to think about it (rejection) and I hope to be able to get back to work pretty soon."

Meanwhile, the Van Buurens—a family of five which includes his wife, Corry, and three children, Robert, 13; Martine, 10, and Caroline, 8—are living on disability payments. He has paid nothing for the operation, saying the hospital told him the cost—known to range between $15,000 and $30,000—was absorbed by research funds.

The Van Buuren home has been deluged with messages from well wishers and his mother is visiting from his native Holland, where he lived until emigrating to Marin seven years ago. The sight of slender figure outside the small, pale green home brings exuberant greetings from neighborhood children.

"I'm glad he's back," Mrs. Van Buuren said. "I was more afraid of the transplant than he was. Now I'm pleased to see him doing the things he used to do."

"I'm not sick anymore," said Van Buuren, enjoying the warm air of a late winter day. "I'm just like you."

Ice Skating, Golf Classes For Children

Golf and ice skating classes for youngsters were approved last night by the Rohnert Park Recreation Commission.

Robert Porter, professional at the city golf course, said he would give free lessons for students 8 years and older starting in June. He said that clubs and balls would be provided at no cost as well as free practice time on the driving range.

Porter said he expected the student classes to last six weeks and would also be setting up adult classes later.

Ice skating lessons in cooperation with the Redwood Ice Arena in Santa Rosa will start March 27, Chairman Ronald E. Rasmussen said.

The Rohnert Park Recreation Commission also:

BANDS—Heard Recreation Director Thomas West report that local bands have been invited to practice in the recreation center on Saturday afternoons.

DANCES—Heard that a dance for teen-agers featuring music by the Mind's Eye will be held Friday at 8 p.m. with another scheduled for March 20.

Ventilation Job At Cook School Voted By Board

The San Anselmo School District board last night awarded a $9,390 contract to Allen Heating and Sheet Metal of Greenbrae for rehabilitation of the ventilation system at Isabel Cook School.

Other bidders were Knoles and Co. Novato, $9,733, Bartholow and Co., San Rafael, $9,856, and Wilcox and Co., San Rafael, $12,200.

The board also held a closed meeting to discuss hiring of teaching and classified employees for 1970-71, but took no action. Parodi reported. The closed sessionnwas adjourned to continue at 9:30 a.m. Saturday in the Red Hill School library.

The board also will hold an open meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Red Hill library, an adjourned session from Feb. 17.

Objector's Last Name Is Omitted

The last name of Judy Emis of San Anselmo was omitted in yesterday's Independent-Journal story on the San Anselmo City Council's approval of an application for federal planning funds.

Mrs. Emis objected to statements on housing in the application, saying the intention was to bring more minority people into the city.

McCunniff Resigns His School Post

Marshall J. McCunniff, Lagunitas School District superintendent since 1964, last night submitted his resignation.

McCunniff came to Marin from Modoc County where he had been Alturas School District superintendent for five years.

The trustees appointed Glen E. Twitchell, Judy Fullick and McCunniff to a committee to set up procedures for screening applications for the superintendent post.

A special meeting to announce officially the job vacancy will be held Mar. 2 at 7:30 p.m. at the San Geronimo School, McCunniff said.

The Lagunitas School Board also:

Ecuador Captures U.S. Tuna Vessel

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Ecuador seized another U.S. tuna boat—its 47th since 1961—about 32 miles off that nation's coast late Wednesday night, the American Tunaboat Association said today.

The Day Island, a 190-foot vessel from San Diego, was reported taken to the Ecuadorian port of Guayaquil. There were 15 men aboard.

Mill Valley Candidate Defies Ballot Ruling

Phillip Williams said yesterday he will remain in the Mill Valley City Council race despite warnings by city officials that he will not be seated if elected.

Williams, a pre-law student at San Francisco State College, has lived in that city since September, but state law requires that a candidate for city office live in the community for a year prior to the election. Balloting in Mill Valley is April 14.

"My attorney has advised me to stay in the race," said Williams, who claims the language in the state law is ambiguous.

City officials, who learned of the conflict after Williams declared his candidacy in the press, said they will not force him off the ballot. City Atty. Leland H. Jordan said he has advised Williams he would be ineligible to take office if elected and suggested that he withdraw from the race by signing a statement of residency.

Jordan said the city "has the right to assume" that persons are qualified when they file official candidacy papers. "It is neither our responsibility or prerogative" to investigate candidates' qualifications, Jordan said.

Williams, who lives at 110 Sunnyside Drive, is a former organizer and business agent with the AFL-CIO.

Truck Is Looted

A thief between 7 and 7:45 a.m. yesterday stole a tool box and tools valued at $350 from an unlocked truck owned by Lawrence H. Hinrichs of 714 Lamont Avenue, Novato and parked at Fourth and Cijas Street, San Rafael police have reported.

Cotati To Boost Sewer Bond Vote

A town hall type meeting on the April 14 Cotati sewer bond election will be held at 7:30 p.m. today at the Cotati School.

Members of the citizens committee to promote the bond issue will be on hand as well as city officials to answer questions about the $100,000 bond election.

The bonds would finance construction of new sewer lines and a connection with the Rohnert Park sewage disposal plant.

The state regional Water Pollution Control Board has placed the Cotati plant under a cease and desist order. If the system is not improved, the city could be fined for violations of state requirements.

Joint Training Program Is Set

Novato and Hamilton Air Force Base firemen will have joint training exercises, the Novato Fire District board decided last night, according to Fire Chief Jack Kidder.

Because the two departments often work together on fires under a mutual aid program, they will train together in burning down some old buildings at the base. Date of the training exercise has not been set, Kidder said.

The Novato Fire District board also:

CAR—Authorized the department to draw up specifications for a new four-door sedan to replace a 1960 model station wagon.

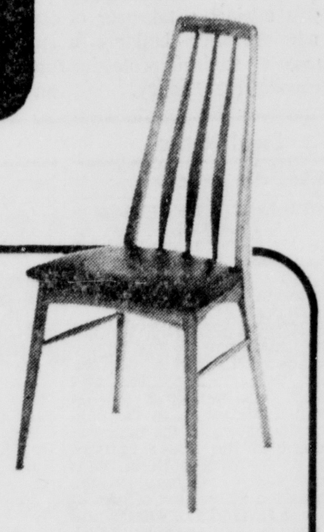

WORKSHOPS—Authorized Assistant Chief Richard W. Beyer to attend a regional workshop on arson and fire investigation in Santa Rosa March 12 and 13, and Lt. Raymond E. Dougherty to attend a fire prevention seminar in Santa Barbara March 15 through 20.

Mill Valley Trustees Eye Muddle On Bids

Supt. James A. Collins reported that Worley K. Wong, a partner in the district architectural firm of Wong and Brocchini and Associates of San Francisco, told the board his firm was still studying bids received by three construction companies last week.

Collins said Wong reported that his firm would suggest alternate plans, including possible rebidding or school redesign, at the board's next meeting March 9. Meantime, the board was told, the firm was negotiating the low bid received by Branagh Inc. of Oakland.

That bid, $3.4 million, is about $800,000 higher than the last unofficial construction estimate given school officials by the architect.

Will Valley School District Board Also:

MARIN VIEW—Adopting the recommendations of the Tamalpais Valley School Parent-Teacher Association, urged that developers of the Marin View subdivision improve traffic safety near the school by dead-ending an existing access road in the first unit of development, building an access road for the other units behind the school and installing a traffic signal at the intersection of the present access road with two other scretes in front of the school.

SAFETY—Heard an interim report from the district P-TA for improved traffic safety at other district schools, including recommended installation of traffic signals at Tam Junction and at East Blithedale Avenue and Camino Alto and placement of a crossing guard on Tiburon Boulevard and Bay Vista and West Strawberry drives.

BONDS—Approved a resolution calling for placement on the June ballot a request for voter permission enabling an increase to 7 per cent in the interest on the sale of school bonds.

PERSONNEL—Accepted the resignations of Harold Welch, a teacher at Homestead School, for personal and health reasons, and of Janet Eddins, a Marin Terrace School instructor, who had been on leave.

EXCHANGE—Approved, subject to federal ratification, the exchange of Victor Dobyns, a teacher at Tam Valley School, with an instructor from Manchester, England.

setting fires in the streets. Windows of at least 10 businesses were shattered and one observer said "the streets were covered with glass."

The campus has been tense since January when a controversial faculty member was fired. The firing led to several days of student protests and confrontations with law officers called onto the campus to support university police.

Unrest was also reported at two other campuses—both in New York State.

About a dozen persons, six of them campus policemen, were injured, but none serious.

The acting president of the university said black student groups had no role in the trouble. But the melee appeared to have been an offshoot of a dispute between university athletic officials and black basketball players.

At Syracuse University today, more than 50 students seized control of the school's student government building in the dawn hours to "reaffirm support" of university officials.

The action was a retaliatory measure against a takeover of the administration building a week ago by students protesting the school's ROTC policy.

Elks Lodge Winners Named

Deborah Ann Olson of San Anselmo and Lee S. Harris of San Rafael have been chosen as winners in the youth leadership competition of San Rafael Elks Lodge 1108.

Deborah, a senior at Sir Francis Drake High School, is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy B. Olson of 50 Mariposa Avenue. Lee, a senior at San Rafael High School, is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson S. Harris Jr. of 153 Robinhood Drive.

Second place winners were Debra Ann Hendricks of Drake High and Richard H. Scatena of San Rafael High.

The winners will each receive a $100 savings bond, and their brochures will be entered in a regional competition, said Alfred J. Dalecio, Elks youth activities chairman. Second place winners will receive $50 savings bonds.

Petaluman Named Scholar Designate

Rita M. Dechene of Petaluma, a senior at the University of San Francisco, has been named a Woodrow Wilson Fellowship designate for 1970-71. Thirty seniors from Northern California were named yesterday by the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation.

The designation carries no cash award but usually enables designates to get financial aid from other sources. The foundation named 1,153 designates nationwide. The designates are students with high scholarship attainment who have expressed an interest in college teaching.

Charges Delayed In Beer, Pot, Gun Case

No charge was filed yesterday in Marin Municipal Court against Richard James Fountain, 22, of Novato, pending further investigation of the case by the district attorney's office.

Fountain was arrested Tuesday by San Rafael police who reported seeing him drinking out of a beer can while stopped at a stop light. They said his car contained a bag of suspected marijuana and a .32 revolver.

Judge Issues Order On I-J Guards

By MARY LEYDECKER

A Marin Superior Court judge today issued a preliminary injunction prohibiting private guards at the Independent Journal plant in San Rafael from making threats of physical harm, using obscenities or violence against pickets.

Judge Thomas F. Keating ruled, however, that two days of testimony produced no evidence that dogs had been displayed by Nor-Cal security guards in a threatening manner against pickets from striking San Francisco Typographical Union 21.

He also denied the union request that guards refrain from making physical contact with picketers saying that there had been no evidence that they had done so.

The judge made his ruling which applies only "in the course of peaceful picketing" after listening to testimony from witnesses from both sides.

Yesterday James Merjano, a San Francisco Printer who pickets at the paper once a week, said that the captain of the guards, Forrest J. Morais, had threatened him during a confrontation on the sidewalk in front of the I-J building on Feb. 4.

Merjano said the threat came after he told Morais to smile and he would take his picture. (Under cross-examination Merjano admitted his camera contained no film)

Morais took the stand later in the day to deny that he had made the threat but said that he told the union president, Leon Olsen, to "go to hell" on that occasion after he allegedly made vulgar remarks about a woman employee of Nor-Cal.

Morais also testified that he did not reach for his gun and club in a threatening manner on Feb. 2 as another picket, Philip Danziger of Millbrae, had said. He denied that he was even wearing a gun and club on that occasion.

Two versions of an incident in which James P. Martin, a Redwood City printer, was arrested on Jan. 28, were also described for the judge.

Martin said he ran after a car leaving the I-J parking lot to get its license number by Morais said that Martin struck the car with his picket sign.

There was also conflict between testimony by a woman printer, Maye McDowell of Novato, and that of I-J employees. Mrs. McDowell denied that she had threatened employees and said that twice guards had threatened her.

Later, I-J employees Jerry Schindel, Patricia Blair and Jack Weese told the judge that Mrs. McDowell had shouted threats at them.

Gloria Nielsen of Novato, whose husband Edward is a striking I-J printer, said that guards had followed her and her three children around the I-J building taking pictures of them.

Morais said that he and other guards attempted to take their pictures because she and the oldest child were "using outlandish profanity."

A Burlingame printer, Warren H. Herkert, who said that he is an official photographer for the union, said that on Feb. 17 when he took a picture of "five strike-breakers" leaving a Fourth Street restaurant that he was followed and threatened by the men until he gave up his film.

Another printer, Douglas C. Smith of Stinson Beach, said that Morais told him on Jan. 20, "When this strike is over, I'm going to take this night stick and shove it down your throat."

ECONOMY

Nixon acknowledged that virtually all the programs he wants to scrap or alter "have the strong support of some special interest group" and in many cases will be resisted.

Summarizing the approach he is taking, Nixon said:

"Too often in the past, 'sacred cows' that have outlived their usefulness or need drastic revamping have been perpetuated because of the influence of special interest groups. Others have hung on because they were 'too small' to be worthy of attention.

To help overcome resistance, Nixon made an unusual suggestion that Congress "examine the possibilities of establishing special arrangements for consideration of this legislation."

Lumped into the economy program was an already announced administration decision to cut space program outlays by $417 million in fiscal 1971, mainly by curbing the number of manned lunar expeditions.

The chief executive also called for a crack down on duplicated veterans benefits, for example making it impossible for survivors of veterans to collect burial benefits both from the Veterans Administration and from Social Security—a $54 million item.

The President also called for scrapping or revamping of "low priority agricultural programs" sale of the government-owned Alaska Railroad, a $65 million savings by replacing hospital construction grants with loan guarantees, elimination of the Coast Guard's selected reserve program and sales of about $750 million from federal stockpiles of commodities.

Corte Madera Park Use Rules

A final draft of regulations for use of town park and other public property was approved and sent to the town council last night by the Corte Madera Park and Recreation Commission.

The rules set out priorities for assigning park use, and ban such misconduct as sleeping in the park and vandalizing or misusing buildings, equipment, and plantings, reported public works director Arthur N. Morrison.

The commission approved an Easter egg hunt to be sponsored by the Corte Madera Chamber of Commerce at 11 a.m. March 28, with a back-up date of April 4 in case of rain.

The Corte Madera Park and Recreation Commission also:

DACHSHUNDS—Approved a request by the Golden Gate Dachshund Club, Inc., to use three acres of town park Sept. 12.

LANDSCAPTING—Approved a request by the Corte Madera Women's Club to allow the club to hire a landscape architect to design more landscaping round the recreation building at town park.

Saturday Show For Bay Model

To commemorate this week as Engineers Week, the Army Corps of Engineers will operate its bay-delta hydraulic model at Sausalito Saturday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The model, usually shown to the public only Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., is located at 2100 Bridgeway Boulevard.

Waters in the $37,000 gallon model move just as they do in the San Francisco Bay and the Sacramento-San Joaquin delta area.

Waterfront Restriction Questioned

A plan to create harbors on all water areas on the Sausalito central waterfront and forbid other development, such as restaurants, over the water was questioned last night by the Sausalito Planning Commission.

According to H. Eric Borgwardt, city planning director, the commission reached no decision on the proposed change in the William E. Spangle plan for the central waterfront, and agreed to discuss the matter further at its March 4 meeting.

The Spangle plan originally allowed more intensive commercial development over the water, Borgwardt said, but the city council has tentatively agreed to restrict such development to land areas.

The planning director said the commission fears such a "split zone" will result in very uniform, uninteresting development of the waterfront, with all the water in one use and all the land in another.

In addition, Borgwardt said the proposal would minimize Spangle's plan to grant commercial developers space credits for leaving open space on their land in exchange for permission to develop over the water.

The commission made only minor changes last night, chiefly in wording, of a dozen of the 37 proposed changes which the council has referred to it for further study, he said.

Plea Sounded For Volunteer Firemen Signups

More volunteer firemen are badly needed in Stinson Beach, volunteer Fire Chief Gorge H. White told persons attending last night's meeting of the Stinson Beach Fire Protection District.

White told the Independent-Journal the lack of volunteers hampered the department's efforts in fighting a fire of unknown origin which caused $100,000 damage to two expensive homes on Seadrift Road Tuesday. Only two of the department's 12 volunteers were in town when the blaze, which destroyed the Lillian Cecil home and heavily damaged a summer house belonging to George Hartmann of San Francisco, began.

"I think we need about 50 volunteers to prevent a recurrence of Tuesday's problem," the chief said, adding he has been seeking more volunteers "all along" but response has been poor.

"I hope this fire will bring home to people the fact that a handful of men who have other jobs can't stand around all day waiting for a fire to start," he said.

Bridge Jumper Is Identified

The unidentified youth, who leaped to his death Tuesday from the Golden Gate Bridge, was identified by two friends yesterday as Evan L. Thomas, 18, of 1356 Haight Street, San Francisco, the San Francisco Coroner's office has reported.

The Coast Guard was notified of the plunge by bridge officials about 6 p.m., and recovered the body about 100 yards from the bridge.

Parents No Closer On Jury's Report

There was little agreement among four Sausalito School District parents who appeared today on radio KTIM's "Marin Sounding Board."

They were discussing the Marin County Grand Jury's report on their school district.

To Delta Christ and Barbara Nelson, both leaders of Citizens for Excellence in Integrated Education, the report was one that deserved action — and that action should be repudiation of the present school board and administration.

To Jackie Kudler of Sausalito, the report was "destructive ... half true," and the grand jury's education committee "must be charged with ignorance." To Lenita McLemore of Marin City, it was "very biased, one-sided," and did not consider black children.

Mrs. Christ charged that the Sausalito school board "has not been honest with the public," but goes into closed session whenever something comes up trustees don't like. She said many of Supt. Phillip W. Schneider's actions have caused polarization in the district.

Mrs. Kudler said the Sausalito district "has been bled dry" by upkeep of outmoded schools, and suffers because Sausalito has very few people interested in public schools. But, she said, "Our school district can point with pride" to its programs in reading and mathematics and its school libraries.

Mrs. Nelson charged the integrated system has become a system in which only one point of view — that of black militants — is permitted.

Mrs. McLemore said the trouble has been that black children "were always on the outside looking in." Now they're not, she said.

Several telephone callers raised a point about reading test scores, which Mrs. Kudler said were low in Sausalito because of the many black children. The callers reported that almost all-black schools in Watts and Hunters Point had shown among the highest reading scores in the state. Mrs. Kudler responded that reading test scores are "really grossly misleading."

In response to a telephoned question, Mrs. Nelson said 10 of the more than 200 members of CEIE are black. Mrs. McLemore commented this hardly made the organization able to speak for parents in Marin City.

Responding to a question about Principal Sidney F. Walton Jr. of Martin Luther King School, identified as a "black revolutionist" by the CEIE speakers, Mrs. Kudler declared: "I think we need a revolution in education."

Mrs. Christ retorted that she thought so, too — "but not a militant revolution."

Marines In New Village Murder Quiz

DA NANG, Vietnam (AP) — Five members of a U.S. Marine combat patrol have been charged with murdering 16 Vietnamese civilians in a village south of Da Nang a week ago, military spokesmen said today.

The Marines, all enlisted men in the 1st Marine Division's 7th Regiment, were not identified, but authorities said they are being held in a brig at Marine headquarters here.

The men are accused of killing 11 children and five women on Feb. 19 in a hamlet of Son Thang village, 27 miles south of Da Nang. The area is classified as a "contested" sector.

Marine officials refused to give any details of how the civilians died. But officers said villagers found the bodies and led another Marine patrol to the scene.

Only scattered Marine patrols and South Vietnamese forces operate in the Son Thang area, authorities said. A headquarters spokesman said Marine patrols in that area had suffered frequent casualties from snipers and booby traps, but it was not known if any sniper fire had come from the hamlet.

There was no immediate comment on the case from South Vietnamese authorities.

Art Sales Tax Charges Face Shop's Owner

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The owner of an exclusive Palo Alto women's shop was indicted by a federal grand jury Wednesday on charges of failing to report $110,661 in money made from the sale of art objects and paintings.

Mrs. Leda Herrald, 50, Atherton, was charged in four counts of evading $64,328 in taxes for 1963 and 1965.

Mrs. Herrald was ordered to appear in federal court March 25 for arraignment on the tax charges. If convicted, she faces maximum penalty of five years in prison and $10,000 fine on each of the four counts.

Mrs. Herrald and her husband Hoyt, who died in July, 1968, reported in June, 1967, that $150,000 in art treasures had been stolen from their Atherton mansion.

Hartford Insurance Group of San Francisco refused to pay. A suit is pending in San Francisco federal court in which the Hartford implies there was no burglary and the art treasures had no value.

SGT. MICHAEL E. FISH
Given Air Force Cross

Night-Long Rescue Earns Hero's Medal

Sgt. Michael E. Fish, newly assigned to Hamilton Air Force Base, has been awarded the Air Force Cross, the nation's second highest award for bravery.

Sergeant Fish, now assigned to the 41st Aerospace Rescue and Recovery Squadron was at Tuy Hoa Air Base on Feb. 18, 1969, when called on to rescue a small army patrol in a crashed helicopter. He and another parescue man were lowered through the jungle to the injured men.

Three of the injured were given emergency medical treatment and lifted into the hovering helicopter. Enemy gunfire started when another helicopter lifted a fourth crew member to safety.

Fish found the pilot seriously injured and pinned in the wreckage. The pilot was given medical aid by Fish who tried to free him. As Fish worked, helicopters shot four enemy soldiers making their way toward the crash site.

When helicopters had to leave because of night, Fish stayed alone with the injured pilot, still trying to free him from the wreckage.

When dawn came, another helicopter came to the rescue through enemy fire. Fish and the new members of the rescue team, freed the pilot and hoisted him to the waiting helicopter. Fish was hoisted to another helicopter.

He is a native of Lake Oswego, Ore. He and his wife, Christine, have a son, Michael.

Three Bay Area Slayings Found

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The bodies of three persons, all victims of brutal attacks, were found Wednesday in the Bay Area.

Deborah Wharton Beeler, a 23-year-old University of California coed, was found strangled in her rented Berkeley apartment. Police said she had been dead at least 24 hours.

The other two victims were San Franciscans.

Louis Drinkmann, a 48-year-old bookkeeper, was found dead in the living room of his home. Authorities said he died of blows to the head, apparently early Sunday morning.

The body of Mrs. Marion Long, 22, a part-time office worker for the Red Cross, was found in a storeroom of her Mission District apartment building. Police said she was raped and strangled, probably Tuesday.

Collision Hurts Two Women

Two women were injured in a two-car accident at 12:30 p.m. Saturday on Lakeville Highway at Stage Gulch Road, Petaluma.

One of the drivers, Verna Arlene Chase, 29, of Cloverdale, was treated at Hillcrest Hospital for fractured ribs, and a passenger, Norma L. Chase, 58, of Modesto, was treated for head cuts, it was reported yesterday.

The California Highway Patrol said the car driven by Mrs. Chase collided with a car driven by D. B. Geroge, 61, of Sacramento.

MacNichols To Seek Reelection

MacNichols, a manufacturer's representative, has served on the board since he was appointed in 1963, and was named board president in January 1969.

Terms of MacNichols and Kenyon Spalding are expiring on the board, which has requested the Marin Municipal Water District to take over district operations.

MacNichols lives at 316 Rydal Avenue.

Sausalito Will Try Closing Thoroughfare

Acting on a request from Fire Chief Charles E. Masten, the Sausalito City Council has agreed to a six-month trial closure of one block of Caledonia Street, between Johnson Street and San Carlos Avenue, according to Wilma Young, deputy city clerk.

The chief, who served as acting city manager at Tuesday's meeting, told the Independent-Journal he believes the closur will cause no traffic problem. "The only buildings on the block are the police and fire stations," he said.

On the positive side, the chief said the street closing, scheduled to begin in early April to coincide with the start of construction of an addition to the city's fire station, would provide more parking for the police department and "greatly assist" in the fire department training program.

Masten said during training the department has trucks and hoses out in the street, which creates a hazard for motorists. "People come flying down off Johnson and turn onto Caledonia and the street is blocked by our equipment; someday, I am afraid, there is going to be an accident," he said.

The construction period was chosen for a trial closure, according to the chief because the contractor's activities would further restrict use of the street by the public.

He said he hopes for a permanent closure if the temporary closing presents no significant problem.

The Sausalito City Council Also:

GARBAGE—Authorized the city attorney to begin legal proceedings against Dr. Smith Ketchum, owner of an apartment house at Turney and Bonita streets, for repeated failure to obey a city ordinance requiring regular garbage pickup for city residences, according to Councilman Robin Sweeny. Mrs. Sweeny said the action was taken after Mrs. Russell Lessig, who operates a day nursery next to the apartments, complained there was no regular pickup at the building and accumulated garbage was attracting flies and rodents.

PARKING—Introduced an ordinance to limit parking on Pine Street, Caledonia Street and Bridgeway, to one hour.

COUNCIL MINUTES—Agreed to adopt on a trial basis an abbreviated form of council minutes, recording only actions by the council.

TREE REMOVAL—Voted to remove four trees at the intersection of Currey Avenue and Monte Mar Drive because the trees are sinking in loose ground and in danger of falling onto the street.

STREET FUNDS—Accepted $11,281 as the city's share of state funds to improve the safety of major streets.

PARKING DISTRICT — Postponed until March 3, the council's next regular meeting, discussion of a plan to establish a city parking authority.

GAS TAX HIKE—Went on record as opposing an increase in Pacific Gas and Electric Co. gas rates.

Prisoner Dies During Transfer

A San Quentin prisoner collapsed and died last night as prison guards were moving him from one cell to another, after he had set fire to his mattrress.

The coroner's office said this morning it had not determined the cause of death for Fred E. Billingslea, 25, formerly of Los Angeles.

Associate Warden James W. L. Park said Billingslea was seen setting the fire and "acting in an irrational manner" at 11 p.m. yesterday.

"Prisoners have died in cell fires," Park said, "so we decided to move him to another cell."

About midnight, Park said, four officers began moving Billingslea to another cell after unsuccessful attempts to calm him.

He was pronounced dead at 1:28 a.m. by prison medical officials.

Billingslea was serving five years to life for armed robbery in 1969 in Los Angeles. He had a history of psychiatric problems, the prison said.

Husband Finds Woman's Body

The body of Marjorie Anne Hawk, 62, was found at her home yesterday at 213 Lower Via Casitas, Greenbrae, apparently the victim of an overdose, the Marin County coroner's office has reported.

The coroner's office has scheduled an autopsy.

Her husband, Marion Arthur Hawk, made the discovery at 5:45 p.m. He said he had last seen her at 7:30 a.m. yesterday, according to the coroner's office.

His wife reportedly had been despondent over an illness. She had lived in the county for three years.

Supervisors Get Return On Lunch

Dianne Feinstein, president of the San Francisco Board of Supervisors, was so pleased with the luncheon she had in Marin three weeks ago that she wants to reciprocate with a luncheon in San Francisco.

In a letter to Chairman John F. McInnis, she invited the Marin County Board of Supervisors to a lunch with the San Francisco board on Friday, April 10.

She expressed hope that "we can once again renew pleasant acquaintanceship and, should the occasion arise, discuss in a purely informal atmosphere, civic affairs of mutual concern."

She and her colleagues were luncheon guests of the Marin County supervisors at Alta Mra Hotel in Sausalito on Feb. 6.

Thieu Foe Is Arrested In The Capitol

SAIGON (UPI) — Police forced their way into the national assenbly today and arrested a lawmaker the government of President Nguyen Van Thieu had convicted of helping the Viet Cong. He was carried off to prison.

Tran Ngoc Chau, 46, whom Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark. said had tried to arrange direct negotiations between South Vietnam and the Viet Cong, was sentenced Wednesday to 20 years at hard labor.

His lawyer had said a few hours before his arrest that the government had agreed to let Chau appeal his sentence and would apparently let him live in his office in the national assembly pending the appeal.

More than 30 police shoved and pushed about 150 newsmen from the building as they rushed into the upper floor of the assembly building. Chau was carried from the building and tossed head-first into a truck, which roared away.

Chau had worn a .38-caliber pistol while sitting in his assembly office, daring police to arrest him since Monday.

He had been convicted of activities harmful to the governnent, specifically of meeting eight times with his brother, a Communist agent.

Paris Talks Downgraded Still More

PARIS (AP) — The Vietnam peace talks slipped another notch today as the Viet Cong lowered their level of representation and the U.S. delegate did not bother to make a prepared statement at the 56th session.

North Vietnam sent its No. 3 man, Nguyen Minh Vy, to replace Ambassador Juan Thuy, who has boycotted 11 straight sessions to protest what he calls American downgrading of the talks.

The Viet Cong's delegation chief, Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh, was replaced by her No. 3, Dinh Ba Thi, to reinforce objections against what they describe as the inadequate status of the U.S. negotiator.

The object of this protest, U.S. Ambassador Philip C. Habib, came to the session for the second week running without a formal statement. He spoke extemporaneously last week, his spokesman said, as a tactic to move away from bitter diatribe.

The only man in the conference room with full No. 1 credentials was South Vietnam's ambassador, Pham Dang Lam. He gave no indication the talks were ready to move out of their verbal quagmire.

U.S. Weekly Casualty List Off; Saigon's Up

SAIGON (AP) — The number of Americans killed in the Vietnam war dropped slightly last week, while the Saigon government's total of battlefield dead increased by 139, and enemy casualties were 303 above those for the week before, the allied commands announced today.

The U.S. Command's weekly casualty report said 83 Americans were killed in action last week and 657 were wounded. The week before 96 dead and 589 wounded were reported.

South Vietnamese headquarters said 361 government troops were killed and 1,123 were wounded last week, compared with 222 and 710 the previous week. The allied commands claimed 2,469 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong killed last week; the week before the total was 2,166.

With the report, total official casualties in the war rose to 40,645 Americans killed in combat, 267,831 Americans wounded, 100,656 government troops killed, 225,525 wounded, and 603,783 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong killed.

South Vietnamese forces reported hard fighting in the Mekong Delta south of Saigon Wednesday and today, with 107 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong killed in half a dozen battles. Field reports said 18 government troops were killed and 43 were wounded.

Other South Vietnamese infantrymen sweeping south of Da Nang uncovered a North Vietnamese field hospital for 300 patients, the third such find in a week. According to captured records, 1,500 enemy soldiers died in the hospital in 1968 and 1969, 1,435 were treated there last year, and another 1,051 were sent to North Vietnam.

U.S. B52s kept up their intensive campaign against enemy base camps and supply depots along the Laotian and Cambodian borders, with about 35 of the big bombers dropping more than 1,000 tons of explosives in two areas inside South Vietnam.

Morshead Seeks Seat On Water District

Jeffory Morshead of Mill Valley, 40-year-old president of Frank Howard Allen and Co., a real estate firm, has taken out petition of candidacy papers for the Division 4 seat on the Marin Municipal Water District in the June 2 election.

Morshead, a native of San Francisco, has been in the real estate business for 10 years, moving from the San Francisco peninsula to Marin in 1965. In 1966, he purchased the 60-year-old firm of Frank Howard Allen and Co.

Morshead is a director of the Marin Child Development Center and the Marin Property Owners Association, is an avid hiker and referees high school soccer games.

He said his interest in serving as a water district director is based primarily on his desire to participate in the "administration of the affairs of Marin County."

Morshead holds a masters degree in business administration from Stanford University, and a degree in geology.

He has four children and lives at 445 Throckmorton Avenue.

Housing Committee Asks Courthouse Rental Space

The Citizens Committee on Low-rent Public Housing wants to lease a portion of the old courthouse building as committee headquarters until June 15.

Ernest N. Kettenhofen, interim chairman of the committee, asked for the lease in a letter to the Marin County Board of Supervisors. The committee is campaigning for a June 2 ballot measure, which will ask the voters to approve more low-rent public housing units to be developed by the Marin County Housing Authority.

The citizens committee wants to lease at nominal cost at least 500 square feet of ground floor space on the Fifth Avenue or Court Street side of the building for use as headquarters, office, and meeting room.

The courthouse has been sold to a group of Marin businessmen, but the county still retains title to the property until the $767,000 purchase price is paid

Bus Tolls Cut On Span Agenda

Cutting bus tolls on the Golden Gate Bridge will be considered by bridge district directors at 9 a.m. tomorrow in district offices at the toll plaza.

Several Marin citizens groups have urged the district to rescind its December decision to hike bus tolls from 26 cents to $2 a round trip, a decision that triggered Greyhound Lines West's pending application to hike Marin commutation books by 95 cents for 20 rides.

Also on the agenda of the directors, meeting as the finance-auditing committee, is a proposal that tolls for pedestrians be eliminated. Elimination of the tolls would mean that no toll would be charged for bicyclists, soon to be allowed use of the west sidewalk.

The bridge board's regular meeting will follow at 10 a.m.

Guilty Plea To LSD Candy Count

Robert Reamer Jackson, 18, of San Anselmo, has pleaded guilty in Marin Superior Court to a charge of possessing LSD which had been used to spike jelly beans.

Judge E. Warren McGuire placed the youth on one year probation Tuesday and sentenced him to 45 days in jail with credit for the time he has served since his arrest Dec. 13.

Police stopped Jackson in San Anselmo because of a traffic warrant and became suspicious of the candy he had with him because a 16-year-old girl treated a few days earlier for a "bad trip" reported eating a jelly bean containing LSD.

Planning, School Items Transposed

Due to a mixup in the composing room, several items regarding actions of the San Rafael Board of Education and San Rafael Planning Commission were misplaced in yesterday's Independent-Journal.

The items headed "swimming coach," "leave," "gifts" and "closed session" which appeared under planning commission action should have been listed under school board action.

The items headed "key-lock system" and "rezoning" which appeared under school board action should have been listed under planning commission action.

Through a type-setting error there was a mistake in a story yesterday about criticism of the school board for lack of decisive action.

The original report of the subcommittee on goals of the San Rafael City Schools Citizens Advisory Committee was made four weeks ago, not four years ago.

Committees To Report

The Marin County Juvenile Delinquency Prevention Commission is slated to hear reports from the Timing and Questions committees when it meets Wednesday at 4 p.m. in Room 255 of the Hall of Justice.

Nixon Administration Plays Semantic Tricks With Us

For instance, the nation's gross national product declined by .4 of one per cent from the third to the fourth quarter of last year, and there are signs that it will show another decline for the present quarter. If that happens, the nation will be in a recession, according to economists.

BUT DON'T EXPECT to hear of a recession from the administration.

William B. Dickinson Jr. of Editorial Research Reports, commenting on the state of the economy, says:

"If the nation does find itself in a recession, the word will remain off limits to Nixon administration officials. Naturally they prefer to talk about 'cooling off,' 'slowdown,' 'squeeze,' 'recedence in output,' of 'readjustment.' "

In this, the administration will follow its well-worked out line that, while a rose by any other name may smell as sweet, a skunk cabbage by another name may not attract so much attention.

This is not a new line, of course. Other administrations have also used semantic tricks to try to make their actions more palatable to the public. But the Nixon administration is doing it exceptionally well.

WE HAVE, for instance, the "Vietnamization" of the Vietnam War.

Those with long memories may recall that the North and South Vietnamese were fighting each other for some years before we put more than a few hundred "advisers" in Saigon. But the Nixon administration refers to reducing the half-million American soldiers there to some unspecified figure (100,000? 50,000?) as "Vietnamization." It has a reassuring sound.

THEN WE HAVE the matter of the arms race.

Every time the United States puts a new missile in production, every time it starts building a launching site for a new missile yet to be produced, it is escalating the arms race by just that much.

But you may be sure the administration will never refer to these things as escalation. They are always "deterrents." It has a reassuring sound.

FOR THAT MATTER, "recession" itself is somewhat of a semantic trick word — a "weasel word." What it means, to economists, is that the nation is not producing as near capacity as it should, with increasing unemployment being the result.

If it goes on long enough, it will depress wages. Eventually, it will depress prices too.

But it is quite possible to have a recession and a price inflation at the same time. This happened, in fact, in 1948-49, when prices shot up as World War II controls were removed, yet the unemployment rate reached 7.9 per cent of the labor force. It happened again in 1957-58, and 1960-61, when decreases in jobs failed to force prices to reverse their upward climb.

AS LONG as the government is spending more than it takes in, and as long interest rates and taxes are pegged high, prices will not go down much even though there are fewer people able to afford them.

In such a situation, any sharp drop in prices is likely to signal that the whole economic structure has collapsed. Then we would have a depression.

Wonder what the administration would call that?

House Sparrows -- Everywhere

English sparrows, or house sparrows as the English call them, seem to be the most adaptable and widespread of all the birds on earth. They are friendly, cocky, little brown and gray fellows. In Marin, they must face formidable competition from the house finches, very similar birds with many of the same habits. But, even so, they are quite numerous.

In Hong Kong, children place a few grains of leftover rice upon the window ledge for this bird. This sparrow nests in the shrines of Japan and the village churches in Italy. It lives on cattle ranches of the Bogota plains in Columbia, South America, and on sheep stations in New Zealand and Australia.

Everywhere one travels, he is reminded of home by this pert little fellow.

Tower Of Babel Has Delayed Impact On California Schools

By HENRY MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO, — (CNS) — When the good Lord messed up the languages of the earth during the Tower of Babel incident some millenium ago, He had no idea what it was going to do to the taxpayers of California in 1970 A.D.

The multiplicity of languages in California is giving the school system nothing but trouble, according to Assemblyman Wadie P. Deddeh, D-Chula Vista.

So he has hit at first troubles first, namely the Spanish language, and has introduced emergency legislation to speed up completion of a Spanish language I.Q. test.

THE MEASURE appropriates $100,000 to the state su- American school children this spring.

School districts in 12 perintendent of public instruction to finance the experimental testing of Mexican- counties have agreed to cooperate in the testing program, Deddeh said.

Non-English speaking children have not been tested properly, and too many of them are being placed in classes for mentally retarded children, he said.

Recently in San Farncisco it was disclosed in a re-testing program that some 45 per cent of the so-called mentally retarded pupils were not retarded at all, but had not been given a break in the tests for the simple reason the tests were conduced in English, rather than in Spanish, which was their native tongue.

But again unfortunately, the state Department of Education, and the elementary and secondary schools of California, and the colleges, for that matter, have never been noted for efficiency in giving instruction in any foreign language. And this is not just lately, but over a long period of time.

Elementary students were not generally considered capable of learning a foreign language and therefore were nott offered courses before they got to high school.

And it might be said that niether did the schools teach English to their English-speaking students with much efficiency, gauging the results on some of the conversation and writings one hears and reads.

Candidate Perry Runs As Independent

Your editorial comment of Feb. 24, dealt with the subject of the city council elections. Your observations as to San Anselmo are quite misleading insofar as the San Anselmo Homeowners' (actually Homes) Association is concerned.

I am an independent candidate, not running on a ticket nor under the sponsorship of any special interest group, organization, nor the S.A. Homes Association. While I am supported by a number of persons who are members of the S.A. Homes I do not have its endorsement, nor does any other candidate as far as I know.

Stewart Says He's Not On 'Ticket'

I was so surprised to read in the I-J last night that I have been teamed on a ticket with two other candidates for San Anselmo City Council that I dropped my cup of coffee on the living room floor.

While I can guess the other two candidates may have been equally astonished, I would like to point out that I am campaigning on a slate with only one person: myself.

Thanks for setting the record straight.

You Missed Harmer? Well He Was Near

I read your editorial Feb. 14, with a great deal of interest, particularly the paragraph which states that John L. Harmer of Glendale, candidate for attorney general, State of California, has not campaigned extensively in northern California. For your information, there is a Harmer county chairman in practically every one of the 48 northern counties and numerous city chairmen, finance chairmen, precinct chairmen, etc. The organization for John Harmer is just about completed in all of the 48, and we are waging an energetic and extensive campaign in the north. Senator Harmer has been on the road both north and south since the first of the year and has appeared at meetings, luncheons, dinners, etc. in 25 counties and 42 cities. . .

The senator will be in Marin County at a reception sponsored by the Republican Central Committee on March 23 at Sabella's Restaurant from 5:30 to 7:30.

Five Brave Men Sentenced Unjustly

Last week in Chicago five brave men were sentenced to five years plus $5,000 for inciting a riot. They had been convicted on their actions during the 1968 Democratic convention in Chicago. I believe that these sentences were completely unjust and too harsh, for advocating some changes in the American system. This country, in all aspects of it, is still functioning on principles of the 19th century.

American people do not seem to realize that they make up less than 1/17 of the world's population, but we firmly believe that we know what's right for the other three-plus billion people on the earth. Unless America changes certain aspects of life, which have been with us since our origin, we may not be around to see the future.

What the Chicago Seven had to say, and all those other brave individuals, who have protested against Vietnam and racial discrimination, has a large amount of creadence (sic). If the change doesn't come within the next few years, and I don't mean a violent change, but a peaceful revolution, then the change might just then be a violent one.

Last of all, I want to commend the seven for standing up for something they believe in, and pointing their noses to the Agnews, Daleys and the Hoffmans. Peace.

Disruption Seems To Go Unpunished

I would like to congratulate Mr. Clifford Lund on his very timely and clear sentiments on our recent invasion, and am sure they are the sentiments of a lot of Marinites.

Yes we also wonder just how much punishment will be meted out to these hoodlums. So far the people seem to get away with all the recent disrespect and disruption they have caused in other cities.

I would like to add a word of congratulations also to Judge Julius Hoffman for his stand on his very recent experience — wish we had more like him.

And why are our students allowed to travel back and forth to Cuba to be trained for the disruption of our society?

Troop Cut Proposal Brings Usual Plaints

(Reprinted from St. Louis Post-Dispatch)

Now that a majority of senators has signed Senator Mansfield's resolution calling for a reduction of American troop strenght in Europe, the State Department has leaped into the breach to lead a campaign for preserving the status quo. Undersecretary Richardson has trotted out the usual arguments against a troop cut, but they are no more persuasive than they used to be. Mainly they show that the State Department, as always, is incapable of imagining a state of things unlike the state of things it has been living with.

Mr. Richardson fears that if we bring home any of the 310,000 men and their dependents who are now maintained in Europe at great expense the European members of NATO might follow suit and reduce their own contributions. But of course our NATO partners have already done that, in the sense that they never fulfilled their quotas in the first place. We doubt that Mr. Richardson takes his own argument seriously, for when he really gets down to shaking the scare symbols what he relies on is precisely the opposite line—that any cut in our troop level might impel the West Germans to fill the vacuum, and that would alarm the Russians, unsettle Eastern Europe and dismay those peace-loving Germans who don't want a big military establishment.

THE UNDERSECRETARY also gets himself into a strange box when he discusses the balance of payments cost of maintaining present U.S. troop levels. The cost, he admits, is 1.5 billion dollars a year, but he points out that this is offset in part by our requirement that the West Germans buy military equipment from us. And then he solemnly warns that if we bring troops home we will lose some military sales, and maybe other exports, to the West Germans! This is like arguing that man must go on hitting himself over the head lest he lose the comfort of the liniment with which he eases his pain.

Eventually the State Department's case boils down to the familiar claim that we must maintain a military presence in Europe in order to convince any would-be aggressor that we are fully committed to Europe's defense. But it is never shown why fewer troops won't accomplish that end quite as well as the present 310,000. Not too long ago, we had 400,000 men in Europe. If reducing that commitment did not lessen Europe's basic security, why would a further reduction lessen it?

PRESIDENT Eisenhower used to say that one American division in Europe would serve the "hostage" function of deterrence quite as well as six. At one stage in his presidency he proposed to do exactly what Senator Mansfield now proposes, but was talked out of it by his military advisers.

The United States does have a commitment to defend Europe, but it is idle to think that 310,000 men on the ground actually deter aggression. The deterrent is our own nuclear power, based in the United States. Our troop strength can be cut without abandoning our commitment to Europe, and many advantages would accrue from doing so without delay.

Laotian 'Twilight War' Gets A Little Daylight

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

The "twilight war" in Laos gradually is coming into full daylight, attracting more discussion about the U.S. commitment there, what it's costing, who is running it and who is fighting it.

The fact that in four out of five recent days U.S. B52s were diverted from other assignments to support Laotian forces retreating from the Plain of Jars suggests the U.S. commitment in the air is about total.

Then comes a shadowland of American advisers of unknown numbers directing the war from a secret headquarters and of "spook" airlines under direction of the Central Intelligence Agency air-dropping food and military supplies.

IT IS NOT a situation designed to make the Nixon administration happy but it is defended as an operation necessary to prevent Laos from falling totally into Communist hands.

A transcript of a secret session of the U.S. Senate released in late January suggested U.S. military and economic aid to Laos this year will come to about $190 million —$90 million for the regular Laotian army, $50 million for economic aid and another $50 million for secret operations not identified.

Most of the latter money, it was assumed, would go to support an army known appropriately enough as the Armee Clandestine.

IT IS AN ARMY of 40,000 full and part-time fighters drawn from the Meo hill people living in the Laotian northeast.

Their commander is Maj. Gen. Vang Pao, a small, wiry flamboyant man who is himself a Meo and rated one of the most effective and honest Laotian generals.

A former sergeant in the French army, he is fluent in barracks-room language in both French and English. His reputation is that when he receives American rifles he uses them against the North Vietnamese and the local Communist Pathet Lao instead of permitting them to slip into the black market.

He not only leads the guerrilla fighters but also is a general in the Laotian regular army with responsibility for a large area of Lao's defense. His leadership and a sharp political sense have won him the following of all the estimated 225,000 Meos in Laos.

His five or six wives have been drawn from influential Meo clans.

HIS MEN are taught to fight and withdraw after exacting as heavy a toll as possible, a pattern apparently followed by Vang Pao and his CIA advisers in the retreat from the Plain of Jars.

The plain is important strategically because it opens onto a crossroads that could lead either to the administrative capital of Vientiane to the south or the royal capital of Luang Prabang in the north.

Politically, it is a card in the Paris peace talks where territory held by either side could be a factor in the final settlement.

What Started Water Pollution?

The Cleanest Shirts In Town

WASHINGTON — Everyone talks about water pollution, but no one seems to know who started it. The history of modern water pollution in the United States dates back to Feb. 28, 1931, when Mrs. Frieda Murphy leaned over her back yard fence and said to Mrs. Sophie Holbrook, "You call those shirts white?"

Mrs. Holbrook blushed and said, "They're as white as I can get them with this ordinary laundry soap."

"What you should use is this Formula Cake soap which guarantees against the dull washtub-gray look that the family wash has always had."

SKEPTICAL but adventurous, Mrs. Holbrook tried the Formula Cake soap, which happily did take the gray out of her husband's shirts. But what Mrs. Holbrook didn't know was that after the water was drained from the tub, it emptied into the sewer, which emptied into the Blue Sky River, killing two fish.

Three years later Mrs. Murphy leaned over the fence and said to Mrs. Holbrook, "It's none of my business, but are you still using that Formula Cake soap?"

"Yes I am."

"I can never get the dirt off the collar," Mrs. Holbrook cried.

"You can if you use Klonk Soap Chips. They were designed especially for collar dirt. Here, you can have my box."

MRS. HOLBROOK used the Klonk and the next time her husband put on his shirt he remarked, "How on earth did you get the collar clean?"

"That's my secret," said Mrs. Holbrook, and then she whispered to no one in particular, "and Mrs. Murphy's."

Four years later, Mrs. Murphy was hanging up her shirts and Mrs. Holbrook said, "How did you ever get your cuffs so white, surely not with Klonk?"

"Not ordinary Klonk," Mrs. Murphy said. "But I did with Super Fortified Klonk with the XLP additive. You see, Super Fortified Klonk attacks dirt and destroys it. Here, try it on your shirts."

MRS. HOLBROOK DID and discovered her husband's shirt cuffs turned pure white. What she couldn't possibly know was that it turned the river water pure white as well.

The years went by, and poor Mrs. Murphy died. Her daughter-in-law took over the house. Mrs. Holbrook noticed how the daughter-in-law used to always sing as she hung up her wash.

"Why do you always sing?" asked Mrs. Holbrook.

"Because of this New Dynamite detergent. It literally dynamites my clothes clean. Here, try it, and then let's go to a movie, since Dynamite detergent takes the drudgery out of washing."

SIX MONTHS LATER the Blue Sky River was declared a health hazard.

Finally, last year Mrs. Murphy's daughter-in-law called over to Mrs. Holbrook, "Have you heard about Zap, the enzyme giant killer?"

A few days later, as Mr. Holbrook was walking home from work, he accidentally fell into the Blue Sky River, swallowed a mouthful of water and died immediately.

At the funeral service the minister said, "You can say anything you want about Holbrook, but no one can deny he had the cleanest shirts in town."

AN EDUCATOR'S VIEW

One Type Of Recruiting Unhampered On Campus

By JOHN W. GILBAUGH
Professor of Education
San Jose State College

Campus left-wing radicals continue to commit violence against recruiters for business, industry, and the armed forces. In some institutions ROTC has been downgraded or abandoned entirely. And some college presidents have surrendered to the militant leftists by suspending all campus recruitment activity.

But there is one kind of recruitment which has flourished in colleges and universities across the nation. And it has had full support of the student radicals. That has been enlistment of comrades for the Communist Party, and recruitment of students for organizations which have openly declared their loyalty to Chinese, Cuban, and Russian Communism.

ONE RADICAL student group ushered in the decade of the 1970s on Jan. 5 by launching a membership drive for an organization that calls itself the American Student Movement. This organization, which has virtually renounced its allegiance to the United States, carried out a recruitment campaign on San Jose State College's Seventh Street Mall. Left-wing radicalism has become so dominant at that location, many students now refer to the mall as San Jose State's "Little Red Square."

To illustrate the extent of determination and the goals to be achieved by the American Student Movement, some random excerpts are extracted from propaganda leaflet disseminated on the SJS campus:

"WE ANNOUNCE the formation of the American Student Movement (anti-imperialist) which comes forward to serve the interests of the working and oppressed people who will totally and completely defeat U. S. imperialism through armed revolution and the establishment of the dictatorship of the proletariat. ASM suports and reognizes the leadership of the American Communist Workers' Movement (Marxist-Leninist) which is creatively applying to Mao Tsetung thought as a guide to action in releasing the initiative of the masses and building a Marxist-Leninist party, the political weapon of the proletariat in defeating U. S. imperialism. The American Student Movement takes as its tasks: (1) to wage mass democratic struggles in the universities against all forms of bourgeois ideology and practice and in particular to combat the rise of fascism by doing vigorous propaganda in support of: Marxism-Leninism-Mao Tsetung thought and the People's Republic of China, great red bastion of world anti-imperialism and socialist revolution, — the struggles of the American working class and of black and brown peoples,— the national liberation struggles, especially those in Palestine and Quebec and the Armed Agrarian Revolution in India. (2) To mobilize students to actively support the struggles of the working class and black and brown peoples against exploitaiton and political repression at the place of work and in the community."

The final entry on the Red recruitment brochure: "Long live Mao Tsetung Thought, Highest Development of Marxism-Leninism and Guide to Victory of the Anti-Imperialist Revolution!"

Lucas Valley Fire Pact Renewed By Marinwood

Marinwood Community Services District board has agreed to renew the fire protection agreement for Lucas Valley community service area charging $27,250 to Lucas Valley residents.

The contract, which was approved by the Lucas Valley Homeowners Association earlier this month, is based on the percentage of assessed evaluation of both areas. As Lucas Valley is 31.5 per cent of the total, the fire department's budget is based on that figure, according to Genevieve T. Bolding, board secretary.

The agreement, for fiscal year 1970-71, must still be approved by the county board of supervisors, she added.

The directors Tuesday night also gave approval to the first phase of a proposed playground at the park on Las Gallinas Avenue.

A detailed plan for the playground was given by Allen Horobin, Maintenance Supervisor, which calls for a $2,100 expenditure.

Because the playground plan had been designed for children of preschool age through 13 years, the board objected to approving the entire plan as there is a decreasing number of preschool children in Marinwood, Mrs. Bolding reported.

However, she added, they finally approved the $450 need for the park's first phase of laying concrete over a washed out area.

Marinwood Community Services Board Also:

APPOINTMENTS — Appointed Charles A. Roach, chairman of the salary and fringe benefits committee; Frank Solomon Jr., liaison director to work with the parks and recreation commission; and Ellis D. Jaquette, liaison director to the fire commission.

BUDGET INCREASE —Approved the expenditure of an additional $1,300 from the reserve fund for fire fighting equipment such as flood lights and fire hoses.

SENIOR CITIZENS — Approved preliminary budget figure of $1,000 for community senior citizens program. Board was told that 50 per cent would be reimbursed by the county.

WATER METER — Approved leasing a water meter from the Marin Municipal Water District, so a planted area not reached by the community center's sprinkler system could be watered.

POOL FEES — Agreed that the fees charged for use of the community swimming pool should remain the same. Charges are: $35 a season for a resident family; $100 a season for non-resident family; and $17.50 a season for single residents.

Redwood Mid-Winter Concert

Beethoven's First Symphony will be the featured arrangement by Redwood High School's orchestra and concert band at the Mid-Winter Concert at 8 p.m. today at the student center.

Proceeds from the varied program, which includes Benjamin Britten's "Five Courtly Dances," and "March with Trumpets" by Bergsma, will go to the travel fund for the marching band's Southern California tour in May.

To Higher Court In Fatal Crash

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — William Miley Hall, 23, of 15 Manzanita Drive, Novato, has been bound over to San Francisco Superior Court on a charge of felony drunken driving in connection with a fatal accident in San Francisco Dec. 15.

A second count of manslaughter was dismissed.

Hall will be arraigned Monday by Judge Robert Drew. Bail has been set at $1,200.

The California Highway Patrol said Hall's pickup truck crossed a center divider on an approach to Golden Gate Bridge and hit a car head-on, killing Hall's passenger, William B. Lewis of Fairfax, and injuring Hall and five others.

Ex-New Careers Aide Held In Jail

I-J SPECIAL REPORT

SAN FRANCISCO — Michael R. James, 28, Marin's former New Careers program coordinator, is being held in San Francisco Jail pending a March 10 preliminary hearing in Municipal Court.

James, arrested Dec. 8 in San Farncisco on suspicion of possession of heroin, was taken into custody Friday on a warrant after he failed to appear for a hearing Jan. 13.

Bail was denied because of previous failure to appear.

San Francisco police said James had several small balloons containing what appeared to be heroin when he was arrested in the Fillmore District Dec. 8.

Following his arrest, James, who had a previous prison record, was fired from his $11,808 per year job with the county. He had been hired Oct. 17 by the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

SACRAMENTO SUMMARY

'Forgotten' Mental Patient Program Alarming To Post

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post contends that mental patients transferred from state hospitals to locally operated community treatment programs are being "forgotten."

The state Department of Mental Hygiene said it doesn't know what he is talking about, and a state lawmaker reported the problem is even bigger than Post indicates.

Post told the Senate Finance Committee Wednesday that in its zeal to virtually replace the mental hospital system with community treatment programs, the state has failed to guarantee that patients will receive the same level of care at local clinics and hospital.

"What has happened in the community program is that you put him (a patient) in a facility and forget him," he asserted during a briefing on Gov. Ronald Reagan's proposed $6.5 billion state budget.

He termed the situation a "blind spot" in such state-subsidized local treatment programs as those provided by the Short-Doyle Act and the Lanterman-Petris-Short Act.

Post recommended that the legislature increase by $500,000 Reagan's spending program for the Department of Mental Hygiene to hire a staff of "monitors." They would check up on discharged patients and make sure they received proper

VIOLENCE

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A Long Beach legislator who told an Assembly committee "the place for due process is the courthouse, not the campus," lost his bid for a bill to force dismissal of teachers who advocate violence.

Assemblyman Mike Cullen, D-Long Beach, told the Assembly Criminal Procedure Committee Wednesday that "due process on campus is a paid vacation."

Cullen's proposal would require immediate dismissal of any public employe who advocates violent overthrow of the government "or the unlawful burning or destroying of property."

Committee Chairman Frank Murphy Jr., R-Santa Cruz, said he feared the proposal could swamp California courts by allowing "anyone who has a political disagreement . . . with any public official . . . to go to court and ask to have his job taken away."

Said Assemblyman Robert W. Crown, D-Alameda, "It's worrisome to me to apply a political test without the mechanism to protect the rights of the individual."

RECORDS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assemblyman William Campbell, R-Hacienda Heights, today proposed three bills to prohibit the sale, distribution or unauthorized inspection of Department of Motor Vehicles records.

Campbell said the legislation resulted from investigations by his office and the legislative analyst's office on the department's longtime practice of selling information on driver's licenses and vehicle registrations to private companies such as mail advertising firms.

ECOLOGY

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A Southern California assemblyman says a typical area of the state ought to be set aside and made the subject of a pilot program on environment management.

John V. Briggs, R-Fullerton, said Wednesday such a project would lead to a statewide environment protection plan and would limit both the cost and the hazards of a statewide trial-and-error approach to environment problems.

Briggs proposal calls for taking $150,000 from legislative contingency funds for a study of the total environment of a particular region.

CONFLICT

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Assemblyman David A. Roberti, D-Los Angeles, Wednesday introduced legislation to prohibit persons with a financial interest in auto manufacturing or any other air contaminating business from holding membership on the State Air Resources Board.

One of those on the 14-member ARB is a trucking executive, David S. Adams.

A previous member appointed by Gov. Reagan but no longer on the board was a California plant manager for General Motors.

Quints' Howling Pleases Doctors

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Kienast quintuplets, exercising the prerogative of all newborn babies, howled lustily throughout their first day of life Wednesday, delighting doctors concerned with breathing problems connected with premature births.

The five children were born six weeks early Tuesday night to Mrs. Margaret Kienast, Far Hills, N.J., who had taken fertility drugs to overcome ovulation problems.

Mrs. Kienast, 27, had also taken the drug Perganol before the birth of her other children, a 4 ½ year-old daughter and an 18-month-old son. She and her salesman husband, William, 38, had been warned to expect triplets and possibly quadruplets.

Named Chairman

James E. Rutledge was chosen chairman of the Mill Valley Parks and Recreation Commission at its meeting Tuesday night. Richard J. Young was named vice chairman.

How Teachers View Classroom Aides

MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

"Education is such a sacred cow — when changes come about, often the public panics," says Mrs. Theodore R. Keiler, teacher aide coordinator for the Mill Valley School District.

Mrs. Keiler was speaking of the criticisms some parents seem to have about the teacher aide program.

"They fear that teachers may be just trying to get rid of the work they are paid to do by passing it off on aides who may be unqualified," she says.

After recommending that the situation might be clarified by talking to three of the teachers who work with the system at the Alto School in Mill Valley, she set up an interview with Mrs. Dee Uyeda and Mrs. Denny O'Brien, team teachers for the second and third grades, and Mrs. Helen De Berry, a first grade teacher who has taught in the Mill Valley School District since 1954 and knows what the old system was like without teacher aides.

WHAT CREATES the need for aides, they all agreed, is the current emphasis on individualized instruction.

Mrs. Uyeda and Mrs. O'Brien are assisted in dealing with 57 children by five mothers, one college senior, one high school student and three junior high school students.

Dee Uyeda says, "We have far more work than we used to because of the great amount of time spent on each student, and we need help from a wide variety of adults and others."

"We fell the individual attention is so worth while," Mrs. O'Brien says, "because it makes learning more personalized. We feel that both the slow learners, who formerly were left behind, and the fast learners, who used to get bored, are benefitted. Perviously we used to hit only about the middle 10 per cent."

Anyone who thinks they are just shoving off their duties on other people should visit the classes, the three teachers suggest.

Some parents come because they feel threatened about what is happening, the teachers say, and some come because they are merely curious. Whatever the reason, parents are welcome, the teachers emphasize, and are even encouraged to come, whereas formerly teachers were not so eager to have them.

AS FOR UNSKILLED people being given things to do that only teachers should do, Mrs. O'Brien says, "they are given things to do for which they are qualified in subject matter. Besides many of our aides are highly educated and some have been teachers."

Mrs. Uyeda poinnts out, "some people have the concept that aides are presenting new material, but they give instruction only under the direction of teachers who have made the original presentation."

If parents do visit the classes, the two teachers both recommend that they should be sure to stay a long enough time to understand what is really going on.

Mrs. De Berry, who remembers the old system all too well, says, "I have never worked as hard in my life as under this system. I still work

DISCUSSING SOME of the common interests in connection with the teacher aide program at Alto School in Mill Valley are three of the teachers. From left, they are first grade teacher Helen De Berry and second/third grade team teachers Denny O'Brien and Dee Ulyeda. Principal Dominic Bobbio said the present program of individualized instruction would be impossible without teacher aides. (Independent-Journal photo)

LT. COL. (ret.) Robert Rankin, helping Alto School first grader Kelly Seaver with her arithmetic, is one of the men who are very welcome as teacher aides. Formerly an instructor at Lehigh University in Pennsylvania, he is one of the many aides who are far from the unskilled helpers some parents fear aides may be. He says, "There is no better way to find out what is happening to your children in the way of education than being a teacher aide."

Experience And A Few Tips May Stretch Food Budget

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures

As food prices rise, young marrieds find it increasingly difficult to make ends meet. There is no substitute for experience in learning how to plan meals to cut food bills, but the new homemaker may want to heed these tried and true tips for beating the budget:

1. Buy a good, old-fashioned well-rounded with basic recipes cookbook. It will be worth the investment.

2. If you have a freezer or freezer compartment in your refrigerator buy meats in quantity and freeze them. Do not take up a small amount of freezer space with items that cost only a few cents.

3. Cut down on foods that aren't necessities—snacks, olives, cherries, expensive prepared frozen foods. Some prepared dinners, however, are worth the price— particularly if two people work. You must decide. Fresh or canned foods may be less expensive than frozen foods, weight by weight.

4. Buy large quantities of sugar, flour, meat. You can repackage these in plastic bags and store them. Bread, oleo, butter may be kept in the freezer. In some areas, you may save 20 cents on a gallon of milk by buying in bulk instead of by the quart.

THERE ARE many ways to cut the meat bill.

Buy meat on sale for two or four weeks at a time. In the beginning this sytem may dent the food budget, but you will get ahead eventually.

If pork is on sale, buy a loin or more and have it cut into chops. Package the number of chops needed for each meal separately and put the extra packages in the freezer.

A leg of lamb, cut in half, should make two Sunday meals. Or you might have one end cut into chops.

BUY STEW veal in quantity. Your cookbook will provide any number of yummy dishes in which it can be used. Try it with tomatoes and peppers, with sour cream, in curry sauce, with vegetables. Divide it for future meals, put it into plastic bags and store.

Enjoy the challenge of making less-expensive cuts of meat taste good. Chuck steak may be marinated and pan-fried or broiled. A thick cut may be pot roasted. Slow cooking is best for chuck.

She offers these pointers for selecting a chicken:

A whole chicken always costs less than cut-up sections, but many people prefer breasts and legs. The following price comparison will help you decide whether to buy chicken parts or the whole chicken.

IF THE WHOLE chicken costs 45 cents a pound, the breasts are a good buy at 63 cents or less a pound, drumsticks 55 cents, wings at 36 cents a pound.

If the price per pound of the whole chicken is 55 cents, you can get equal value by paying 78 cents a pound for breasts, 68 cents a pound for drumsticks and 44 cents a pound for wings.

If you find it makes dollars and cents sense to buy the whole bird, use the less meaty parts for broth, in a casserole, in chicken pie or chicken curry.

One last bit of advice: if you've never before cut up your own chicken, ask your butcher if you can watch him do this chore. Otherwise, you can make a real mess.

FRENCH STYLES IN THE CAPITOL

During a round of social activities in Washington, D.C., Madame Georges Pompidou wore these styles from her Parisian wardrobe. For a luncheon at the Smithsonian Institution she arrived in a matching coat and hat, left. In the late afternoon she wore a three-quarter length solid dress with contrasting trim to a reception in the French Embassy. For the White House dinner she chose a floor-length gown. Her outfits for the reception and dinner both featured center slits. (AP Wirephoto)

HELEN HELP US!

His Friends Speak Of Marriage As Something To Stay Out Of

DEAR HELEN:

I too would like to comment on the knock your mate syndrome. I have many married friends, mainly guys, as I belong to a judo club which seems a mecca for unhappy couples. Maybe they take out their aggressions here?

Most of my friends speak of marriage as something to stay out of, and they do a lot of playing around. Discontent runs the gamut in age, from young to middle-aged and older. They almost consistently downgrade their mates.

The wives are extremely distrustful of their husbands, but they don't do much to make them prefer home life. If you're single and even half way attractive, they close you out. I have no designs on their men, but they'd never believe me.

I'm lucky. I come from a very happy home. My parents care about each other and say so. But I'm beginning to think they're unusual. If it's this abnormal for a man and woman to keep on loving after marriage, then I'm like "Swinging Single"—I'll be one too. DISILLUSIONED TEENAGER

DEAR HELEN:

I've been married seven years to the most wonderful man alive. But none of my friends seem to have this same blessing. So when we girls get together and they start complaining about their mates, I feel guilty about saying good things about my husband. From their looks, they imply I'm not telling the whole truth, or maybe my husband has a good thing going on the side and that's why he's so nice to me. Moreover, it sounds like bragging.

Mostly I just sit quietly and leave early, but sometimes I'm drawn into the nit-picking. You start telling the things that bug you, just to be in the swim.

I hope its this way with my friends—maybe they exaggerate the bad or annoying so they'll have a good story to tell. Surely I couldn't be the only one around with a great guy. — ONE IN A MILLION?

DEAR ONE:

Why don't you start a "Praise your Mate" hour? It might go over big. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

"Swinging Single's" friends have undoubtedly kept chores and responsibilities — perhaps they're a bit envious of her freedom. But what they can't tell her are the little things that make it worth while: The surprise on your husband's face when you've spent all day cooking his favorite meal, or maybe you polished his golf clubs in your spare time. Or the look in his eyes that says "I'm lucky I married you": a wink, a kiss, a touch—signs that say something only you and he understand.

No, marriage isn't all a bed of roses. There are many times during they day when I don't feel like singing its praise. With four loads of wash to do, a stack of ironing staring at me, a dinner to cook and a seven-months old daughter who wants attention, it's not hard to find yourself thinking of your carefree, self-centered single days.

But at night, with the baby tucked in bed and John and I the only two people in the world, somehow I can't remember all the chaos of a few hours earlier. Lying beside him, protected in his loving arms, and soothed by his gentle voice—there is no substitute for this kind of happiness.

Trapped? Yes I'm trapped—in my feelings for my man. I love him, need him, want him. I can't escape these feelings. Thank God they are mutual. — MRS. J.W.S.

AIDES

"People think that having aides is easy, but I have to plan a program for each one of them so that her time is spent to the children's and to my advantage. I have to see that every one has enough work to keep her busy all day.

"Before we had teacher aides every child used to do the same thing at the same time and on the same page. Those children not ready simply became failures and the bright ones become bored."

"There are about 200 aides working the eight Mill Valley schools," Mrs. Keiler says, but many more are needed. If you are curious about the schools, tours are fine. But if you really want to find what is happening, be a teacher aide," she suggests.

"ONE OF THE successful changes in the system is that parents may work in the schools their children attend, formerly not permitted. I find that the advantages of this are "far more interest, enthusiasm and support from parents."

Dominic Bobbio, principal of the Alto School, gave the strongest argument of all for the teacher aide program.

"Our present program of individualization and personalized education could not be done without teacher aides," he stated.

Water District Plans Southern Marin Move

The Marin Municipal Water District board yesterday made clear its determination to get into the Southern Marin waste disposal business when it ordered a resolution prepared declaring its intention to form an improvement district for the trunking and treatment of sewage.

The board had previously put itself on record as favoring such a move, but yesterday's action followed a request from district Gen. Mgr. William R. Seeger that the board formally indicate its intention prior to a March 5 meeting of representatives of the 10 sanitary districts which would be affected.

The districts are Tamalpais Valley, Homestead Valley, Mill Valley, Alto, Richardson Bay, Tiburon, Belvedere, Sausalito-Marin City, Almonte and Kay Park.

The March 5 meeting will be at 8 p.m. at Strawberry Point School.

Seeger told the board that the district should tell the meeting that the district is either in or out as far as sewage is concerned.

"For good government and for Marin County, we should go," he said.

He said the proposal was in line with recommendations of the Brown and Caldwell report on a Marin master sewage plan released last year, and that previous objections should not arise because the district has no intention of getting involved in internal collection systems.

The Marin Water District Board Also:

RELOCATION—Approved an agreement with the state to relocate 820 feet of 12-inch pipeline on the Shoreline Highway, near Richardson Bay Bridge. Directors approved Seeger's recommendation that the pipe be upsized to 16 inches. The state will pay relocation costs and the district, the $5,885 cost of upsizing.

CONTRACT—Accepted the low bid of $9,897 from Maggiora and Ghilotti of Corte Madera for the installation of the relocated 16-inch pipe.

VARIANCES—Granted variance requests for water service to portions of the Glen subdivision off Cazneau Avenue, Sausalito, and to Evelyn Schirado for property at 107 Marina Boulevard.

WATER TANK—Agreed to enlarge from 150,000 gallons to 500,000 gallons the Escalle storage tank above Larkspur. A pipeline extension agreement which the board entered into Jan. 28 with Joseph Pell for the water facilities required to serve the Hilltop Apartment complex, provided that Pell construct a 150,000 gallon tank. The board yesterday agreed to spend the $15,775 necessary to increase the tank capacity.

REFUND—Was advised that a $25,317 refund due the district from the county department of public works in connection with the construction of the Nicasio Road in 1962 would be paid shortly. The money had been held by the state pending settlemen of an unsuccessful claim filed against the county by the contractor, Stecker Co.

MODIFICATION—Approved the payment of $100 to Walter K. Schuckmann for a modification of a district right-of-way on his property near Pine Mountain Tunnel Road, Fairfax.

RIGHT-OF-WAY—Accepted the deed for a right-of-way on Summit Avenue, Corte Madera, from Robert K. Overstreet, and agreed to purchase for $350 a right-of-way near Bolinas Road, Fairfax, from Walter M. Minkel.

LEASES—Agreed to renew the $300-a-year Redwood Gun Club hunting lease on district land with the provision that the club acquire liability insurance to protect the district, and directed Seeger to suggest land appraisers to work on the renegotiation of the district's 44-year-old lease with the Meadow Club. The club presently pays $500 a year for the 160 acres of district land.

FIRELINE EXTENSION—Approved a 250-foot pipeline extension agreement with the City of Fairfax. The $4,730 cost of the extension along Laurel Drive will be split evenly between Fairfax and the district. The board decided on eight-inch, rather than six-inch, pipe and will pay the additional $515 required.

DEMANDS—Approved payment of $33,129 for February demands.

OVERHEAD—Raised the districts materials overhead charges from 5 to 8.5 per cent, but left labor charges at the present 45 per cent.

LANDS USE—Granted request of the San Francisco Unified School District for use of Lake Lagunitas area by 50 people and one automobile March 14, and the request of the Sufi Order, Garden of Inayat, from Novato, for use of the area near Nicasio Lake by 100 people March 21 for a religious spring festival.

ENVIRONMENT — Authorized a $100 district contribution for support of environmental coordination activities of the Irrigation District Association, a state group to which the district belongs.

PURCHASES—Approved purchase of the following items from the low bidders: 920 feet of 16-inch welded steel pipe for $5,818 from Beall Pipe and Tank Corp., Portland, Ore.; 371 gate valves for $26,555 from Water Works Supply Co., Union City; 136 weld fittings for $1,215 from Pacific Pipe Co., San Francisco; 3,050 various copper fittings for $6,565 from Mueller Co., Burlingame; 20 No. 91 hydrant bodies for $4,284, 30 No. 76 steamer hydrant bodies for $7,695, 70 hydrant buries for $3,663, 105 hydrant risers for $2,161 a 24-inch swing type check valve for $2,052, and four 16-inch and four 24-inch welding flanges for $649, all from Groeniger and Co., Oakland; a new checkwriting machine for $745, including $150 trade-in, from F and E Checkwriter Co., San Francisco; two office side chairs for $150 from Rucker-Fuller Co., San Francisco, and two file cabinets and a drafting chair for $203 from Ray's Office Machines, San Rafael.

Sides Still Split About Road's Safety

Developers of the Marin View Subdivision and Tamalpais Valley Parents have failed again to agree on the safety of an access road to the development.

The parents, backed by a petition containing more than 300 signatures, told a meeting of about 100 persons at the Tamalpais Valley Improvement Club hall Tuesday night that the road is too close to Tamalpais Valley School. Suggestions ranged from closing it to installing strict traffic controls, according to Gloria Spencer, president of the Tam Valley Parent-Teacher Association.

Representatives of Allan-Marin, developers of the projected 900-unit subdivision, defended the safety of the street called County View Road, intersecting at Bell Lane and Enterprise Concourse.

They said the road, to be outfitted with various traffic controls, would be among the lightest travelled when compared to streets near other schools in Marin.

The positions fortified statements made by both sides at earlier meetings on the issue.

The Tuesday meeing was also attended by county and Mill Valley School District officials.

Driver Swoons; Riders Halt Bus

6OAKLAND (UPI) — Three men were credited with averting a possible Bay Bridge tragedy Wednesday when they successfully brought an AC Transit bus to a halt after its driver had suffered a fainting spell.

"I was sitting six seats away when a few of us noticed something peculiar about the driver," said Kern Brice, one of the passengers. "Suddenly, he just fell over on the wheel."

Brice, a UPI teletype operator, said he "grabbed the wheel while another man kicked the driver's foot off the accelerator."

A third man, Joel Brooks, steered the bus, which was westbound in the centerlane,to an outside lane and parked it.

The passengers were then transferred to another bus and driven into San Francisco.

The driver, L.F. "Lou" Bone, 58, was taken to Kaiser Hospital where he was reported in good condition.

Freedoms Foundation Honors Marin Man

Vargas, a San Francisco management consultant, received the George Washington Honor Medal for a letter to the editor. Freedoms Foundation is a non profit organization in Valley Foreg, Pa.

Mark Rothke Found Dead In His Studio

NEW YORK (UPI) — Pioneer abstract expressionist Mark Rothko died of apparently self-inflicted wounds in his Manhattan studio Wednesday. Rothko, 66, was considered by many one of the greatest artists of his generation.

Rothko, whose name was Marcus Rothkovitch, was born Sept. 25, 1903, in Russia and immigrated to the United States with his father, a pharmacist in 1913, and settled in Portland, Ore.

He went to Yale in 1921, but left after two years and finally wound up in New York, where he began taking formal artistic training at the Art Students League. His paintings were first shown in a group exhibition in 1929.

It wasn't until the 1940's his work began to absorb surrealistic influence. His first one-man show was at Peggy Guggenheim's Art of This Century Gallery.

By the late 1940's his art had assumed the completely abstract forms it followed until his death.

Rothko also taught art for most of his life. From 1929 until 1952 he taught children at the Center Academy in Brooklyn and in the summers of 1947 and 1949 he taught at the California School of Fine Arts in San Francisco.

Although his early career was marked by struggle and lack of recognition, his fortunes rose as abstract expressionism became better known in the works of Jackson Pollock, Willem de Kooning and Robert Motherwell.

Rothko had a heart attack a year ago and friends said he had been despondent since then. He was found dead in his studio Wednesday with his wrists slashed and the Chief Medical Examiner's office listed his death as suicide.

Cotati School Area Change Hits Snag

New petitions for boundary changes must be circulated because of a legal technicality, the Cotati School District board has been told.

Petitions for the district boundary to include allof the City of Rohnert Park had been circulated by Maruice Fredericks, a board member. Board secretary Miriam Horne said they will be ruled illegal because they should have been circulated by a resident of the new area and not a board member.

The proposed area, which is laregly uninhabited, is now in the rural Bellvue School District. A chief petitioner from among the property owners or residents will be sought.

The Cotati School District also:

AIRPLANE — Heard a report that the proposed airplane ride for kindergarten students has been dropped because of high costs.

Shriver May Run For Governor

WASHINGTON (AP) — R. Sargent Shriver, a member of the politically potent Kennedy family, is giving up his job as ambassador to France and apparently setting his sights on a race for Maryland's governorship.

Sources disclosed Wednesday night that Shriver, brother-in-law of the late President John F. Kennedy, is relinquishing the diplomatic post he has held since the administration of former President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Shriver, contacted at the French Embassy where he was attending a dinner for French President Georges Pompidou, said he submitted his resignation several months ago but declined to say whether he had recently urged Nixon to accept it.

The 54-year-old former director of the Peace Corps and the Office of Economic Opportunity has been under pressure from some Maryland Democrats to seek the nomination for governor and reports have circulated for months that he would make the move.

Shriver, who has a home in Maryland, said last November he would "continue to gauge the situation" in the state and decide by March whether to seek the governorship. The incumbent is Gov. Marvin Mandel, a Democrat who is serving the last two years of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's term as governor.

Mandel is expected to run for re-election but Shriver already is on record as saying he is prepared to fight a primary battle. "One doesn't consider party harmony or serenity in matters of political decisions," Shriver said earlier in Baltimore.

State College Tuition Vote Off Until March

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The State College Board of Trustees Wednesday voted to take up the issue of tuition or increased student fees for the 19-campus system at the board's March meeting.

The vote to delay any action until next month came after the board heard a strong appeal from Gov. Ronald Reagan, an ex officio member and backer of tuition. Afterward, Reagan said the delay came as no surprise to him but said he was "satisfied" to take up the matter at the March 25 meeting.

Last week, the University of California Board of Regents voted the first tuition ever for the UC system. The UC plan called for $150 next fall and $300 the following year.

In other action, the board voted unanimously to continue year-round operations at four campuses.

The board also voted to assign a team of auditors to investigate the possibility of land speculation by consultants hired by the state colleges.

In other action the board:

—Named Dr. Bernard L. Hyink, a professor of political science at Cal State Fullerton since 1960 and vice president for academic affairs since 1964, as president of Sacramento State College.

—Approved use of student fees to pay for draft counseling services, as long as the counseling is done under the auspices of the colleges.

—Increased the materials service fee for part-time student from $27 per semester and $18 per quarter to $54 per semester and $36 per quarter equal to that paid by fulltime students.

—Asked the Coordinating Council for Higher Education to permit the trustees to proceed with a new college in San Mateo County, to handle the enrollment overflow from San Francisco State and San Jose State.

Australia produces 30 percent of the more than three billion pounds of wool shorn from sheep throughout the world yearly.

Plank Seeks Shorter Day Once A Week

San Rafael elementary schools will have one school day each week shortened to the state minimum next year if a proposal by Supt. John F. Plank is approved.

In school newsletters sent home by pupils this week, Plank proposed that one day each week be set apart for teacher in-service training, with the school day shortened to provide time for this.

"Monday morning, for example would be designated as teacher in-service time, and school would begin for the pupils at 10 o'clock," he wrote. "The two morning hours would be used for planning, attending workshops, discussions, and the like."

State law requires a minimum school day of four hours 40 minutes to qualify for state education funds. The shortened day proposed for once each week would meet this minimum requirement.

Such shortened days already are used for teacher training institutes twice each year, and occasionally for other purposes.

The proposal has not been discussed by the San Rafael Board of Education.

Traffic Ticket For Lawmaker

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assemblyman Jerry Lewis, R-Highland, was arrested on a drunken driving charge early Wednesday as he drove a state-owned car near the Capitol.

Police said Lewis, 35, was stopped by officers in a patrol car who reported seeing Lewis driving the wrong way on two one-way streets. He was arrested at about 2:30 a.m.

Lewis, serving his first term in the Assembly, also was charged with driving without a driver's license in his possession. He posted bail of $360.

A 'Sanctions Alert' Sounded By Teachers

I-J Special Report

SONOMA — The Valley of the Moon Teachers Association has voted a "sanctions alert" against Sonoma Valley Unified School District.

The "sanctions alert" was approved by 84 per cent of the membership of the California Teachers Association chapter, according to John W. Trace Jr., president.

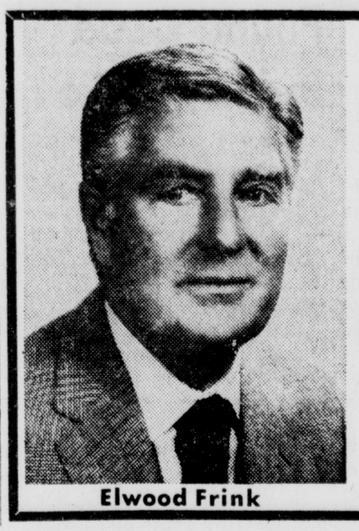

A "sanctions alert" puts the district on notice that unless it rectifies conditions the teacher organization finds objectionable, the CTA will put it on an employment "blacklist," thereby seeking to dry up its source of teachers.

Trace said problems in the district include maintenance, supplies, salaries, class size, and inadequate funding. The organization urged an election to increase the district's operating tax rate, claiming Sonoma Valley is spending $100 less per pupil per year than comparable school districts.

Firm Hired For Library Needs Survey

The San Rafael Library board last night voted to hire the Consulting Organization of San Francisco, headed by Donald R. Hegstrom, to make a survey of San Rafael library needs.

The survey would precede engaging an architect to design whatever additional library facilities it finds to be needed.

Eleanor G. Murray, library board president, will present the recommendation to the city council at its Monday night meeting. The council has $3,000 for the study in this year's budget.

The board acted after hearing a presentation by Neill Smith and Associates, which also sought the contract. Arthur B. Little Co. advised that the $3,000 was insufficient for such a survey under its schedule of fees.

The vote was 4-0, with Hanlon B. Tharp absent.

Missile Fired Into Pacific

VANDENBERG AFB (UPI)— A Minuteman I missile was successfully launched Wednesday by a Strategic Air Command missile combat crew as part of a series of operational test launches selected at random.

A missile wing from Ellsworth AFB, S.C. launched the missile at 5:25 p.m. and it successfully traveled on course down the Air Force's Western Test Range.

The missile and its crew were brought here for the test launch under actual combat conditions.

THE LAST NAME — John D. King, director of personnel, reads the last name handed to him by Dorothy Brown. Of the 38 teachers in the lottery, 17 or less will receive letters of intention to dismiss. King's black eye was caused by a household accident.

THE NUMBERS GAME — Dixie School District teachers seem apprehensive at the start of their job lottery. But they soon relaxed yesterday when told actual dismissal was unlikely. A mimeographed list of the teachers involved made it easy for the audience to follow the drawing.

THE LIST GROWS — Ruth Wilder adds another name to the lottery list. Most of the teachers were hired Sept. 2. Their names go from number seven to 37.

LOTTERY SYSTEM

Dixie's Teacher Crisis

By GEORGE NEVIN

Stressing that the Dixie School District probably won't have to discharge any teachers, district officials held a lottery yesterday to determine the order of dismissal in case any is necessary.

Supt. Clifford W. Campbell told the 38 teachers affected by the drawing that declining enrollment will force the elimination of 12 teaching positions next fall, and that failure of the April 14 tax rate increase election would bring that figure to 25.

"But we ordinarily have 25 or 30 vacancies because of resignations," he said. "If this happens, and we think it will, no one will lose his job."

Campbell said the district already has received eight resignations, so the maximum number of dismissals would be 4 or 17, depending on the fate of the election.

"Let me do the worrying," said John D. King, district personnel manager, and the teachers, most of them young and female, seemed content to let him.

The waited patiently and seemingly unconcernedly while Dorothy Brown, senior member of the Dixie School District board, drew names out of envelopes to establish the list.

Any necessary reduction will be based on seniority, but state law requires that teachers hired on the same day be assigned numbers by lottery.

Three teachers hired this year were the first names on the list, but a drawing was necessary for the fourth and fifth names, because both teachers were hired Dec. 15. Most were hired Sept. 2.

King said the district would do everything it could to aid dismissed teachers "to get jobs in neighboring districts."

"Your job is of concern to us," he said. "We have an obligation to you and we want to support you."

The next step, Campbell said, will come March 15 when the district will send reduction of force letters to the affected teachers. The number of letters will be determined by the number of resignations in the district by that date.

"We'll mail 17 letters or less," King said. "If two more teachers have resigned by then, we'll send out only 15 letters."

He pointed out that these letters are not the actual dismissals, but only notice of intention to dismiss.

Final action will be taken May 15, as required by law.

"But we're expecting, and past experience tells us, that this lottery is just a formality," Campbell said.

Four Accused In Shooting Scrape

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A "pot-shot" safari in the San Bruno Mountains has resulted in detention of four San Francisco youths.

The targets of the hunt Tuesday were a University of San Francisco professor and two students who were on a field trip.

Prof. Theodore F. Niehaus, 32, and students Daren M. Bowers, 22, and William M. Trainor, 20, were fired upon with a rifle and a pistol, according to San Mateo County Deputy Sheriff John C. Cooper.

The victims said they were forced to walk down a trail while bullets pelted the ground around them. None was injured, however.

Arrested on charges of kidnaping and assault with intent to commit murder are Terrence G. Wasson, 20; George A. Trakas, 19; Charles E. Brown, 18; and a juvenile who was taken to a detention home.

Marin Delegation Joins Murphy In Calling For Seashore Funds

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON—Marin's three-man delegation testified today before a Senate subcommittee, urging members to approve a $38 million appropriation to complete the purchase of the Point Reyes National Seashore.

Of 54,000 acres originally designated as seashore boundaries, almost 31,000 acres still remain in private ownership.

Supervisor Louis H. Baar, rancher Boyd Stewart, and County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney presented their prepared statements to the parks and recreation subcommittee of the Senate Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs.

"Marin is one of the last major open-space areas readily accessible to the entire San Francisco Bay Area," said Baar. "But it is directly in the path of enormous population pressures and intensive urbanization."

Stewart said ranchers recognize that their lands can no longer remain theirs to enjoy exclusively, and "its beauty and grandeur must be shared with all Americans."

Maloney pointed out that Marin County supervisors, ever since 1935, have been supporting the creation of the Seashore "at every opportunity and in every way possible." He joined Baar and Stewart in urging approval of the appropriation bill.

Also joining the Marin trio in calling for "prompt action" the authorization was Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif.

In his prepared statement, Murphy said speedy action is needed because land values" continue to escalate dramatically with each passing day."

Murphy warned against amendments that might result in "undue delay" as the committee opened hearings on a bill to raise authorized spending from $19 million to $57 million.

"If this subcommittee should decide, in its wisdom, that certain proposed amendments should be added, and if definite assurances could then be obtained in advance that these amendments would be acceptable to the House, I would not object to the inclusion of proper amendments," Murphy said.

"On the other hand, if the addition of certain amendments would plunge the Point Reyes issue into dispute and delay, it is my feeling that they could well be considered at some later date by having them introduced as individual bills after the passage of a Point Reyes measure that is mutually acceptable now to the Senate and the House."

President Nixon, in his budget message to Congress, said he would seek a supplemental appropriation of $7.5 million in this fiscal year if Congress passes the legislation. Additional funds are to be requested in the fiscal 1971 budget.

Free Skiing Trip Slated For Teeners

Sixty teen-agers from low-income or welfare families in Marin will get a free ski trip to Alpine Meadows this Saturday.

Three busloads of youngsters will leave San Rafael High School parking area at 5 a.m. and plan to be back at 9 p.m.

Transportation, use of all ski equipment, expert instruction, and lunch will be given free to the youngsters.

The all-day snow trip is sponsored jointly by the Marin Volunteer Bureau, Marin YMCA, Marin County Economic Opportunity Council, and Hamilton Air Force Base.

Mrs. James C. Hobart of Ross is chairman of the camp-recreation committee of the Department of Public Social Services, a volunteer group which is coordinating the snow trip.

Mrs. Hobart said the owners of Alpine Meadows offered its facilities free of charge. Hamilton Air Force Base is providing two buses, complete with drivers and counselors, and Marin EOC is providing a third bus. So many youngsters wanted to go that the buses are full, and there is a long waiting list, said Mrs. Hobart.

Teachers Uphold Grand Jury Report

Sausalito School District teachers have rejected, by a narrow margin, a resolution condemning the Marin County Grand Jury's report on the district.

The vote, at a Tuesday meeting of the Sausalito District Teachers Association, was disclosed today by James E. Pockrus association president. The SDTA is the district chapter of the California Teachers Association.

Pockrus said a resolution calling the grand jury report not objective and based on misinformation was voted down 16 to 14 by teachers at the meeting.

District Supt. Phillip W. Schneider has claimed the grand jury report "points up the jury's monumental ignorance of the Sausalito district's problems" and was based on "rumors, innuendo and unsubstantiated charges."

The district board of trustees at its Monday night meeting declined to take up the grand jury's 15 recommendations — one of which was that the district do away with its administrative structure and put its schools temporarily under administration of the county superintendent.

Sidney F. Walton, principal of Martin Luther King School, suggested to the Sausalito Parents' Club Tuesday night that the six administrators be reduced to three who would operate as a troika.

Attending the teachers' meeting at which the vote on the resolution was taken was Quentin Mason, Bay Section field representative of the California Teachers Association. With Richard Watson, CTA Marin-Sonoma representative, and James Lewis, CTA human relations executive, he has been conducting an investigation of teacher complaints in the district the past two weeks.

Pockrus said the investigation was requested by "a number of members" of the CTA local. It was begun before the grand jury's report, he said.

"I only get called in when there is a communications breakdown" between teachers and administration, Mason told the Independent-Journal. "We're working with the board and the administration." He declined to give the nature of the complaints.

Pockrus said one concern of teachers is that they have so far been unable to learn how much staff reduction is planned for next school year. He pointed out that, under state law, teachers who are not to be rehirred must be notified by March 15.

He said the teachers whose complaints resulted in request for the CTA investigation were "principally but not entirely" at Martin Luther King School, where Pockrus is a science teacher.

About 16 per cent —nearly 10 million acres —of the land in Wyoming is forested.

The moon is approaching its last quarter. The morning stars are Mercury and Jupiter. The evening stars are Venus, Mars and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1935 Germany began operation of its air force—the Luftwaffe—under Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering.

A thought for the day: Ralph Waldo Emerson said, "The reward of a thing well done is to have done it."

Big Park Crowd During Holiday

Using traffic countres placed at entrances to the park, and then multiplying by four, they determined that 37,032 people used the park over the three-day weekend.

During the same weekend in 1968, only 11,428 people entered the seashore park, and 10,178 in 1969. However, there was rain on the holiday the previous two years.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Quick Play Does Not Always Bring Home A Winning Trophy

One of my close friends grudges the time spent planning the play when the dummy is first put down. He prefers to barge right ahead, thinking now and then as he goes. He saves a few seconds on some hands but spends several minutes on other hands, explaining just how he managed to go down.

Opening lead — ◇ Q

TRUMP ROUNDS

My friend ruffed the second diamond and drew four rounds of trumps, quick as a wink. East discarded the queen of clubs and a small diamond on the third and fourth trumps.

South then led three top hearts and stopped for thought when West discarded a club on the third heart. By this time dummy was down to K-8 of diamonds and K-10 of clubs, and South didn't know how to proceed.

If South had decided to lead a heart, discarding a diamond, he would have gone down only one. East would have taken one heart, one diamond and one club but would have yielded the jack of clubs to dummy's king.

It would have been no triumph, but South actually led a club and went down two. Then he spent a few minutes refuting North's contention that any butcher's apprentice would have played the hand better.

FEW SECONDS

South could choose the right play if he spent a few seconds examining the dummy and thinking.

The odds are almost 2 to 1 that the six missing hearts will not all fall on the three top hearts. South should therefore take precaution against the normal heart break.

AFTER RUFFING

After ruffing the second diamond South should cash two top not all fall on the three tafter ruffing the second diamond South should cash two top hearts and then lead a low heart with the intention of ruffing with dummy's eight of spades. This plan is safe if the hearts are evenly divided since both opponents will follow suit. It will also work if the opponent with four hearts has the ten of spades. After ruffing the third heart, declarer returns a trump to draw all of the missing trumps, and he can then take his last two hearts to make his game.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two diamonds. Most experts consider the hand not quite worth a response of 2-no-trump (but some would prefer that bid). If you bid the diamonds, you plan to bid no-trump at your next turn.

Mill Valley Hears Land, Wildlife Tie

The City of Mill Valley has been told that a marshy area on Richardson Bay planned for the Miller Avenue extension to Highway 101 is of apparently high value to wildlife.

Conservationists have urged the city in recent months to block development of the marshland areas in East Mill Valley, particularly questioning the city's plans for a small boat harbor.

In a letter to Harvey E. Bragdon, director of Mill Valley's Community Development Department, a Bay Conservation and Development Commission official quoted a BCDC consultant as saying that the Bothin marsh areas planned for the Miller Avenue extension are "much the most valuable" in the area.

The planning commission had asked for BCDC opinion on the ecological value of marshlands in the region as a result of persistent debate over the small boat harbor. Last week, the BCDC consultant, Dr. H. Thomas Harver, professor of biology at San Jose State College, visited the area.

"Dr. Harvey believes that Bothin marsh area to be much the most valuable of those described on the map you sent us," wrote Joseph E. Bodovitz, BCDC executive director. "Cord grass was growing, in reasonably healthy condition . . . indicating that the area receiving tidal flow. . ."

Bodovitz said it was unclear, however, whether BCDC, which must approve any development within an area subject to tidal action, had jurisdiction over the Bothin portion. He said commission staff sought to determine whether the marshland was subject to tidal action when BCDC was created in 1965.

The Mill Valley Coalition, a conservation group which opposes filling in the harbor area, has indicated it will also oppose the Miller Avenue extension because of planned filling.

The BCDC letter was presented to the city planning commission Tuesday night, although not discussed in connection with the Miller Avenue extension.

However, the commission was presented with statements and a petition containing 1,200 signatures urging preservation of East Mill Valley marshlands.

Ecology Becoming The Thing

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Notes to watch television by:

The programs: Video's current absorption with matters concerning the environmental crisis is indicated by NBC-TV's announcement of a whole layout of broadcasts on the subject ... A new half-hour Sunday series, "In Which We Live," is one example, and begins May 3 with Edwin Newman as host ... In addition, the network will offer an hour special on the topic April 7, and the "Today" series will devote the entire week of April 20-24 to a study of the environment.

Furthermore, NBC-TV's "Frontiers of Faith" series will present a series of four discussions about "The Quality of Life" starting March 8 ... And, with all the networks giving considerable time to the state of the environment, NBC-TV adds that "our regularly scheduled news programs will continue to place heavy emphasis on the subject as they have in recent months."

At ABC-TV, meanwhile, there will be an hour March 10 special, "Those Incredible Diving Machines," that examines man's efforts to "Probe the Ocean's Depths" through the centuries ... This hour is part of the distinguished occasional series entitled "The Undersea World of Jacques Cousteau."

And from CBS-TV comes precautions offered by the Eastman Kodak Co. on how persons interested in the March 7 total solar eclipse should watch the remarkable event if they insist on seeing it in person rather than on the broadcasts of all three networks ... says Eastman Kodak:

"Looking at the sun, either directly or through the viewfinder on your camera, can burn your eyes and cause blindness. Never look at the sun without adequate protection ... Always use a filter that will absorb equally and sufficiently the ultra-violet, visible, and infrared energy of the sun ...

"Medical authorities indicate that a neutral density filter of metallic silver, such as developed photographic film, of at least 6.0 density will provide adequate protection for visual use only. Such filters are not suitable for photographic use. Place the filter in front of your eyes before facing the sun. Such a filter can be made with two thicknesses of black-and-white (not color) photographic film which has been completely exposed and developed to maximum density."

The first practical internal-combustion engine using gasoline for fuel was produced in France in 1860.

Indian Valley Sewer Idea Is Revived

The movement to get sewers in the Indian Valley section of West Novato is being revived, Engineer-Manager Charles A. Joseph has reported to the Novato Sanitary District board.

In 1966 an attempt to get a $450,000 project along Indian Valley Road, Wilson Avenue and Mill Road areas failed. Some residents are now interested in connecting to the sewers, Joseph said.

The sanitary board agreed Tuesday to provide the property owners with petitions and a list of former property owners who favored the sewers years ago, Joseph said. No cost estimate or area to be included were discussed by the board, he said. They will wait for the residents to return the petitions, he said.

The Novato Sanitary District board also:

EMERGENCY — Approved a $2,700 expenditure to relocate a portion of a 15-inch trunk sewer on Hamilton Air Force Base property that had been undermined by the winter rains. It also approved the base relocating 160 feet of the same sewer to get it out of the place where the new commissary is to be constructed.

ANNEXATION — Approved the annexation of approximately an acre on the north side of Vineyard Road East of Sun Lane for Robert Hune.

CREEKS — Heard a report from Joseph that high water had exposed several sewers where they cross the creek. This condition must be corrected before the next rainy season, he said.

ABAG — Approved joining as cooperative member at a cost of $100, the assciation of Bay Area Governments.

EASEMENTS — Accepted an easement from Western California Telephone Co. for a main easement across the company corporation yard to Franklin Avenue.

MEETINGS — Set March 16 and 30 for meeting dates next month.

Honor Music Festival Is Set Saturday

Royal Stanton, chairman of the fine arts division of De Anza College at Cupertino, will be guest director at the Petaluma City School District Honor Music Festival Saturday at 7:30 p.m. at Petaluma Senior High School.

Honor students representing the three junior high schools and two high schools in the district will perform as the all-district honor orchestra and 120-piece honor band, according to Elaine Gillespie, general chairman and music teacher at Kenilwroth Junior High School.

Directing the honor band will be Ernest C. Thompson, instructor of wind instruments and director of bands at Diablo Valley College, Pleasant Hill.

Dennis De Cateau, music director at California State College at Hayward, will direct the honor orchestra. He is also director of the San Francisco Chamber Orchestra and the Alameda County Adult Orchestra.

Cities Group Elects Transit Delegates

The Marin Council of Mayors and Councilmen last night elected two new cities' representatives on the Marin County Transit District Board, unseating veteran member Corte Madera Mayor Edward W. Colthurst.

With each city voting for two candidates by secret ballot, the results were Anderson, 7, McAskill, 6, Tiburon Councilman Denis T. Rice, 5, and Colthurst, 4.

Colthurst had served on the transit board since Sept. 1965, and was one of the two first cities' representatives on the board.

The cities' other incumbent on the transit board, Mill Valley Mayor Dean N. Meyer withdrew from the race because he isn't seeking reelection to the Mill Valley City Council.

Council President J. Wayne Womack of Novato reminded the group that it also will have the task of nominating a councilman to succeed Meyer on the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District Board.

The monthly session was held at the Officers Club at Hamilton Air Force Base, and Col. Lee Sarter, base commander, welcomed the group.

Cotati Planners Seek County's Help On Guide

Assistance from the Sonoma County Planning Department in detailing guidelines for architectural control has been requested by the Cotati Planning Commission.

The commissioners said Tuesday that a specific set of rules of what to study was needed. They said that in the past, many delays were created because companies have presented plans without knowing specifically what the commission would want to study.

The Cotati Planning Commission also:

O'Doul's Angels Very Much Alive

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A year before Frank "Lefty" O'Doul died he started a Little League team in Vancouer, B. C., called "O'Doul's Angels of San Francisco."

Wednesday night, at O'Doul's restaurant here, about 100 persons paid $30 apiece to do just that. Charlie Finley, Oakland A's owner, was one of the bigger single contributors, sending a check for $150.

Proceeds from the dinner will go into a savings account and "O'Doul's Angels of San Francisco" will have their expenses paid from the interest the account draws, expected to be $175 a year.

O'Doul died last Dec. 7 at 72. He played for five major league teams, starting out as a pitcher but moved to the outfield when he had arm trouble.

He led the National League in hitting with .398 for the Philadelphia Phillies in 1929 and with .368 for the Brooklyn Dodgers in 1932.

O'Doul had the highest lifetime batting average of any living major league, .349 for 10 seasons, and on his death the honor passed to Ted Williams, whose lifetime average was .344.

In 1931, he was influential in getting baseball started in Japan.

For the next 30 years, he managed the San Francisco Seals, San Diego Padres, Oakland Oaks and Vancouver Mounties in the Pacific Coast League.

He opened his restaurant on Geary Street 12 years ago.

Among those attending the dinner were O'Doul's widow, San Francisco Supervisor Jack Ertola and former New York Yankee and Brooklyn Dodger star Andy Carey.

About 20 Canadian sports writers came down, along with 13-year-old Craig Svalestuen, catcher and captain of "O'Doul's Angels of San Francisco."

Carey, active in Little League work, reminded the audience that "The easiest thing you can do is give money.

STANFORD SCHEDULES GAME WITH ARKANSAS

STANFORD (UPI) — Stanford and Arkansas have scheduled an "11th" football game at Little Rock on the night of Sept. 12.

"The 11th game was added only after considerable study," said Athletic Director Chuck Taylor of Stanford. "Our players and coaches had a lot to say on the subject. They wanted it only if we could get a major opponent. Arkansas is certainly in that category."

This will be the first football game ever between the two schools and the agreement does not provide for a return game at Stanford.

Wilkins Has Reason To Pop Some Buttons

JIM SHORTS:

Paul Wilkins, the young old pro of tennis coaching, has reason to pop a few buttons these days after his San Domenico School for Girls team of San Anselmo won its 37th consecutive match last week. The team hasn't lost since Paul became coach. His current crop includes Pam Winslow, Darby Auerbach, Bee Kilgore, Ann Balcom, Jane Hueber, Winnie Hamilton, Mary Ellen Yates, Mary Ann Dohn and Sandy Stockton.

PRO GRID star Elmer Collett of Mill Valley, who usually jumps at John Brodie's cadence with the 49ers, is hup-tup-three'ing it these days to the tune of a sergeant's baritone in reserve army duty at Fort Ord. Elmer is a very offensive guard and while the Army uses him as a reserve, he's still first string in Coach Dick Nolan's book.

DON'T YOU think it was rather sporty that golfer Bob Pomeroy's recent hole-in-one at the Meadow Club was witnessed by John Hunter and Jim Bowler?

SPEAKING OF aces, Jules G. Prizant of 160 Lower Via Casitas, Greenbrae, holed his tee shot on the 134-yard fifth hole at Mill Valley Muni Sunday. The perfect seven-iron shot was witnessed by Tom Hughes of San Rafael and Barney Power of Daly City.

AND SPEAKING of Washington's Birthday golf feats, John Kleinman of San Rafael won low net honors at Rohnert Park Sunday. His prize was cherry tree, and that's no lie, unplayable or otherwise.

Other San Rafaelites who fared well in the Washington Golf festival at Rohnert: Ted Jones, third, and Loren Olson and Don Klassen, tied for fourth, in the Callaway Flight.

SOMEHOW A "9" became an "0" and San Rafael High School scholar-athlete award winner Dan Jordan was slighted in the publicity accompaning last Friday's Hall of Fame banquet in San Francisco.

A's One Jump Ahead

THE OAKLAND A's already are one jump ahead of the S. F. Giants and the season hasn't even started yet. I mean, the A's have their 1970 Press, Radio and TV Guide published and distributed while the Giants apparently still are waiting for the ink to dry on theirs. But don't hurry, Horace, the season's long enough as it is.

OH, BOY, am I in the canine condominium again, and I just ain't a-woofin'.

Last week the I-J published a photo of San Rafael's Kramer Herzog finishing second in a ski race at Heavenly Valley while the Chronicle ran a pix of Gloria Kelly of Lake Tahoe winning a ladies' event in the same competition. No mention of latter in the I-J.

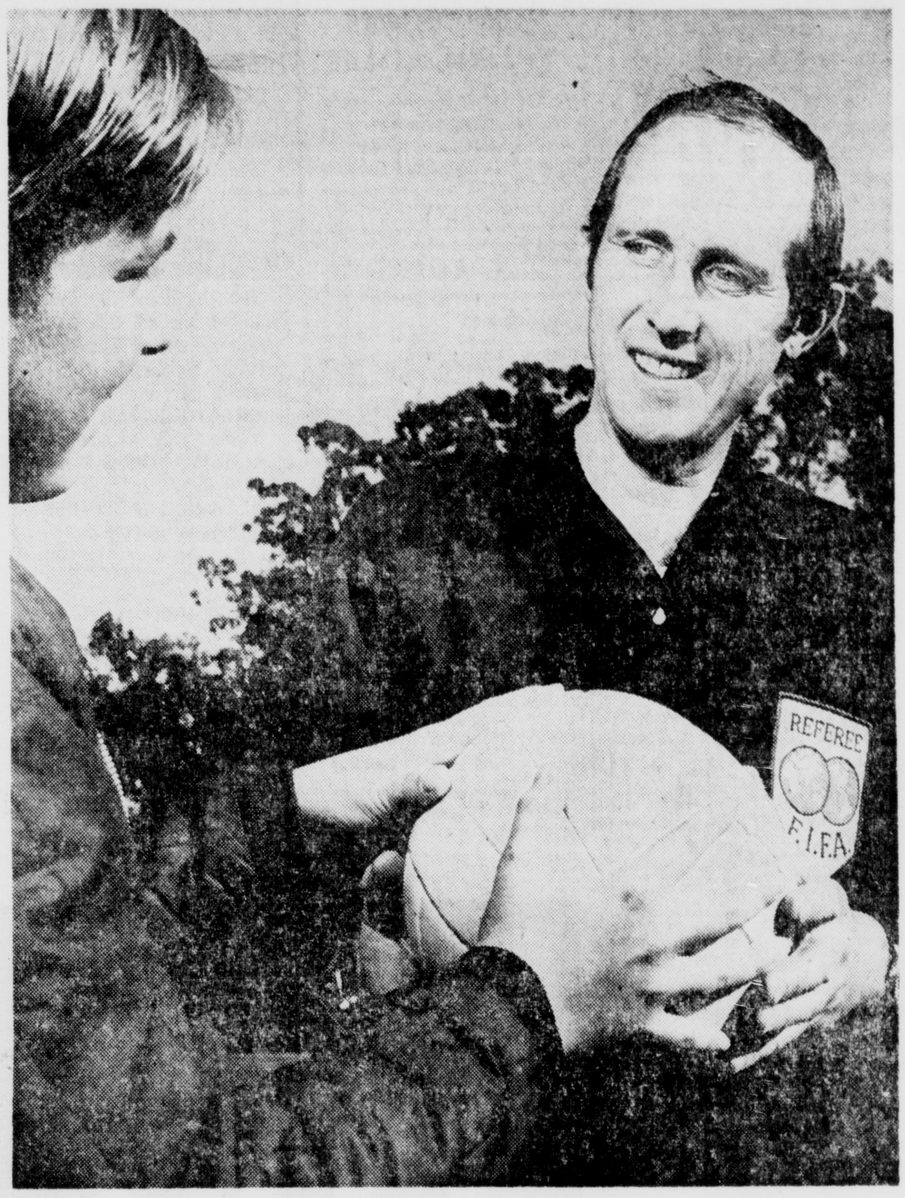

Gloria Kelly is well-known here in Marin. Has several friends and relatives here. Including me. She's my sister-in-law.

"Not even a picture . . . or even a mention. Fine brother-in-law you are!!!"

Not only did they lose their final game of the season, 68-50 to DeAnza College in Cupertino, but their bus broke down in Fremont on the way home and they didn't get back to Kentfield until the wee hours.

BY RALPH CHATOIAN

For Henry Landauer of San Rafael, and anyone else involved in soccer, it is called reaching the top.

It's the summit, the pinnacle, the goal. In just about every country in the world it is THE thing. People in other countries show more interest in it than Americans do when it comes time for the World Series.

It's the World Cup, which comes about only every four years. It will be in Mexico City June 1 through 25, and one of the 30 referees will be Landauer, a German born resident of San Rafael.

A TRIBUTE

To be chosen to referee in the World Cup is a tribute to your talents. He's the only one chosen from the entire North Central American region. Of the 150 countries in the Federation International Football Association (FIFA), each nominate seven referees, making a total of 1,050 nominations. The 30 refs are chosen from this list.

"It's the biggest thing that can happen to me," said Landauer from the other side of the bar at Pier 15 tavern near the San Rafael canal. He spends a lot of time at the bar, but not drinking the merchandise. It's one of two taverns in which he is a partner, the other is Paterson's in Sausalito. That's his partner, Bill Paterson.

A native of Stuttgart, Landauer has known the game of soccer since he was 10. He played soccer in Europe and later in San Francisco until he was 27, then got out of actual playing. Landauer, now 41, became a soccer referee in 1957.

Frank Woods of San Rafael, a past president of the U. S. Soccer Football Association, talked Landauer into going to referee school, a move that has paid off tremendously.

Landauer came to the United States in 1947, then a youngster of 18. He went to night school in San Francisco when he arrived, and got a job with American Can Co. as a tool and dye maker, a trade he learned in Germany. Later he became a meat salesman and didn't move to San Rafael until 1964. Two years later he went back to Europe to watch the World Cup matches being played in England.

HONORED

"I was hoping someday to be able to be a participant in the World Cup," Landauer said. "It is really an honor."

Still with relatives and friends in Germany, Landauer made a trip back to his native land in 1957, not expecting to stay three years and come back with a bride. Henry and Katrin have one son, Jeffrey, 2. Landauer also has a 20-year-old daughter, Vicky, by a previous marriage.

Soccer officiating has taken Landauer all over the globe, as well as throughout the United States. He has been in Honduras, Canada, Costa Rica, Germany, Panama, Mexico.

In explaining what it's like to be a soccer official, in a sport in which fans can become wild and unruly, Landauer said: "You are the timekeeper, policeman. You are all alone out there. You have two linesmen to assist you, but you are responsible."

CLOSE CALL

His only close call was about six years ago while refereeing a game in San Francisco's Balboa Park. Someone jumped out of the stands and started chasing him, "but someone got to the guy first and he never caught me," Landauer laughed.

A very serious man on the field, Henry hits the opposite line behind the bar at his tavern, sporting an unending sense of humor and wit. He's a funny man with a German accent. He's also one of the best soccer referees in the world.

A Lecture On Speed, Contract For Power

By Associated Press

That's what happened in baseball Wednesday when Jesse Owens talked about running at the Orioles spring training camp, slugger Frank Robinson signed with Baltimore and slugger Harmon Killebrew signed with Minnesota.

Robinson, who batted .308 last season, drove in 100 runs and belted 32 homers, received an estimated $125,000 for his 15th major league year. Killebrew, meanwhile, signed for a reported $90,000 after batting .276 with 140 RBI and 49 homers in 1969 when he was voted the American League's Most Valuable Player.

Owens, a winner four gold medals at the 1936 Olympics who now works for the American League, lectured the Orioles on the art of running and conditioning.

"He can do nothing but help some of our players," said Manager Earl Weaver whose Orioles already are known as a team with better than average speed.

Owens is available to any AL team, and the Orioles were quick to accept his services.

Besides Killebrew, the Twins signed outfielder Bob Allison and rookie Herman Hills, leaving three players still unsigned —outfielder Cesar Tovar, first baseman Rich Reese and relief pitcher Ron Perranoski.

Baltimore also still has three unsigned players. They were pitcher Dave McNally, first baseman Boog Powell and second baseman Dave Johnson.

NIT Showcase: Maravich

The floppy-haired sharpshooter from Louisiana State University, the leading scorer in college basketball history, is the only "name" player guaranteed to sell tickets and television exposure for the NIT this year.

The NIT Selection Committee Wednesday named four of the 16 teams—LSU, St. John's, Marquette and Georgia Tech—for this year's tournament, but LSU and Maravich are the main attraction.

The tourney opens on March 13, but LSU is sure to be saved for a national television contest on Saturday afternoon in its opening game. If Maravich could propel the Tigers (17-8) to the semifinals or finals, the NIT will be guaranteed a lot of excitement. Without him, the NIT could lose a lot of luster since tenth-ranked Marquette (19-3) is the only team in the top ten likely to be in the NIT this season.

While Maravich may be good for the NIT, it's also true the NIT could be good for Maravich. The senior has never had a chance to showcase his talents in New York with all the resulting exposrre to be national media. One or two 60-point, record-breaking performances at Madison Square Garden might boost his price in the bidding war between the NBA and the ABA.

"I've always dreamed of playing in Madison Square Garden," Maravich said, "the people in New York really appreciate basketball and I think we can really put a show on for them."

Marin Loses Finale

Marin thus closed the books with a 17-11 won-lost record on the season and 8-6 in league play. DeAnza, 21-9 on the season, finished with an 11-3 conference mark behind champion Contra Costa of San Pablo, 13-1.

Marin had an upset in sight through the first half last night and trailed favored DeAnza by only 31-28 at half. But then the Tars lost the range on the basket, connecting on only 19 per cent of their second half field goal attempts to fall hopelessly behind.

Marin Scoring—Pat Schafer, 2-3-7; Tom Seidenberg, 5-0-10; Bob Tait, 4-4-12; Daryl Ravani, 4-3-11; Tom McCart, 2-1-5; Chip Tyson, 2-0-4; Joe Smith, 0-1-1. Totals: 19-12—50.

Warriors' Third Loss This Week

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The way things are going for the San Francisco Warriors, the three weeks before the National Basketball Association's regular season ends will be a long, long time.

For the third time this week the Warriors bit the dust Wednesday night, losing to the Chicago Bulls, 112-104. San Francisco now has lost eight of its last nine games, with 14 to go.

1½ GAMES

Seattle downed Atlanta 120-112 Wednesday night and now holds fifth place in the NBA Western Division by 1½ games over the Warriors. The Sonics play San Francisco at the Oakland Arena Friday — the third encounter of the two clubs this week. By winning Sunday and Tuesday the Sonics evened the series at 3-3.

The Bulls got off to a 32-30 first-quarter lead Wednesday night, with Bob Love getting half of his individual high point total of 32 in that opening period.

WITHIN FOUR

The Warriors got within four points of the Bulls in the final period, but reserve Shaler Halimon came off the bench to score nine of his 10 points in that quarter and safeguard the Bulls' lead.

Jerry Lucas led San Francisco with 20, and Joe Ellis had 19 for the losers.

Namath Joins Philharmonic

NEW YORK (AP) — Quarterback Joe Namath, director of the New York Jets attack, will will team with conductor Andre Kostelanetz and the New York Philharmonic, the orchestra announced Wednesday.

Namath will narate a New work, specially written for him and the Philharmonic, at its world premiere performance May 29 and 30 during the 1970 Promenades Concerts, Philharmonic said.

The late Carl Sandburg and New York Mayor John V. Lindsay have been guest narrators with the Philharmonic in the past.

HIS LAST CHANCE

Stoneham Gives Hart A Warning

COMBINED AP & UPI

Owner Horace Stoneman of the San Francisco Giants said Wednesday the likeable utility man, who owns a lifetime batting average of .282, would be shipped to the minors unless he shapes up. However, Hart would hang onto his $35,000 salary this season whether he plays with San Francisco or Phoenix.

FINAL CHANCE

Stoneham announced during the Giants workout that Hart, who is slow in coming around from a painful shoulder injury that sidelined him for most of last season, is being given a final chance to make the varsity this spring.

The boss of the Giants explained that Hart became expendable when the Giants acquired Steve Whitaker and Jim Gosger from Seattle last winter.

"It's hard to believe but we've got waicers on Jimmy," said Stoneham. "We put him on the waiver list this spring and nobody claimed him."

MAYS BACK

Meanwhile, Willie Mays got into the swing of things Wednesday by clubbing two balls over the leftfield fence off Don McMahon.

The day was not as fruitful for another Giant, though. Rookie pitcher Jim Moyer became the first casualty of the training camp by doing nothing more dangerous than sitting on a bench along the first base line.

A batted ball by Japanese college player Takahashi Arakawa sliced down where Moyer was sitting and hit him in the left shoulder, raising a nasty bruise. Moyer will be out of action for a day or two.

Arakawa is one of several Japanese players in the Giants' camp for a couple of weeks to pick up pointers prior to the club's exhibition tour of Japan later next month.

A's Magic Number Now Down To Four

MESA, Ariz. (AP) — The magic number for the Oakland Athletics now is four, but No. 7 is still the big one.

Athletics' owner Charles O. Finley, dealing from his La Porte, Ind., home, came to terms with two more of his players Wednesday and that left him with four to go. The latest to sign were Don Mincher and Diego Segui.

WEARS NO. 7

The top holdout, of course, is Reggie Jackson, who wears No. 7 and who hit 47 home runs last season. He is seeking more than the estimated $40,000 that Finley has offered.

Others still unsigned are infielders Dick Green and Ramon Webster and pitcher Juan Pizarro.

Mincher and Segui were obtained during the winter from Seattle. Both are believed to have signed for substantially more money than they earned last season.

FIRST BASE

Mincher, 31, is expected to take over fulltime first-base duties since Danny Cater was traded to the New York Yankees. Last season, Mincher hit .246, but slammed 25 home runs and drove in 78 runs.

Segui, was the ace of the Athletics' relief corps in 1968, but went to the Pilots in the 1969 expansion draft. Finley has said he believes the A's would have won the American League's Western Division pennant with Segui.

With the Pilots, the 32-year-old right-hander appeared in 66 games—fourth in the league—and had a 12-6 record with a 3.36 earned-run average and 12 saves.

Really A Challenge In Schussing Slope

For me, there's a real challenge, a special thrill, in going straight down a ski slope. You don't make any turns, you just go all out in a sort of power dive. Skiers call this schussing. It's a German word and it is quite appropriate for it means to shoot.

Of course, ... schussing a slope can be dangerous, but only for the foolhardy. And I would call foolhardy anybody who exceeds his capabilities by too much. For those who go about schussing with care and consideration rewards are there in terms of improved skills, greater confidence and thrills.

For me, schussing is easiest and safest when I keep my feet and skis apart about the same width as my hips. When I go really fast — over 45 miles per hour — I don't try to ski with perfect form. Then I am too busy concentrating on balance, keeping my weight as evenly distributed as possible on each foot. My ankles, knees and waist bend and unbend constantly, compensating for changes in snow and terrain.

As a beginner, learn to schuss on very gentle slopes even if you go no faster than 5 miles per hour. Look for obstacle-free slopes which have a flat runout so you will come to a natural stop. Stand on your skis in much the same fashion you see me doing here.

If you're an intermediate, seek out a similar slope. Of course, it should be pitched at a steeper angle.

To become an advanced or expert skier you must develop the confidence and ability to ski fast. Once you have mastered the basic christies, then by all means seek out places to practice fast skiing. An excellent place is at the bottom of a steep slope. First, practice schussing the last 10-20 yards of the slope. Then gradually work your way into starting higher and higher up-slope. I am sure this will enhance your skiing enjoyment as you learn to enjoy the taste of more speed in your skiing.

A Confident Bonds Not Looking Back

CASA GRANDE—Bobby Bonds took a long stride towards top stardom last season in his first full major league campaign. But the 23-year-old rightfielder of the Giants and Willie Mays' centerfield understudy is not looking back on past accomplishments.

Bonds is looking ahead to the new baseball season with quiet confidence. He isn't disturbed by the fact that he set a major league record in 1969 when he struck out 187 times. He hasn't lightly dismissed the strikeout problem either. Indeed, he has evaluated it carefully and worked hard during the winter to improve his hitting against curves.

IN BATTING sessions this spring I'm going to ask for nothing but curves," he said. "I firmly believe if you work hard enough to correct a weakness you can make it a strength."

Bonds has no trouble whatsoever with the fast ball as indicated by his total of 161 hits last season, including 32 homers, 25 doubles, six triples and 90 RBIs. His 161 hits were more than any other Giant in 1969.

This spring Bonds can concentrate almost exclusively on the curve because he will not find it necessary to devote as much time as he did last spring on other fundamentals, such as the art of playing the outfield properly and mastering a classic slide into second bass on steals.

THE HOURS spent in the sliding pit last spring paid off handsomely when Bonds stole 45 bases in 49 attempts in 1969. At 23 Bonds became the youngest player and only the fourth in baseball history to hit more than 30 homers and steal more than 30 bases in a season. The others were Ken Williams of the St. Louis Browns in 1922, Mays of the Giants and Hank Aaron of the Braves.

Bonds' 45 thefts last season were the most by a Giant since 1921 when Frankie Frisch stole 49, a mark that he very well could top this year.

Doing spectacular things seems to come naturally to Bonds whether he is setting a strikeout record or hitting a homer. His first major league homer was as spectacular as they come. It was a grand slammer off the Dodgers' John Purdin June 25, 1968, for his first big time hit.

NO OTHER ROOKIE since the turn of the century hit a grand slam in his debut. And there was only one other in all baseball history who did it. He was a fellow named William J. Duggelby who did it for the Philadelphia Nationals April 21, 1898.

Bonds comes from an athletic family. His sister, Rosie, was United States women's hurdle champ and a member of the 1964 Olympic Games team.

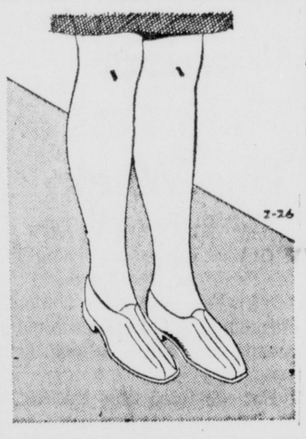

IN HIS SENIOR year of high school at Riverside Bonds was California state broad jump champion at 25 feet 3 inches, second best in the country, and was named to the High School All-American track team. He ran the 100-yard dash in 9.5 and the 220 in 21 seconds flat.

In football Bonds was southern California's high school "Athlete of the Year" and led his league in passing and running as a tailback.

Whatever he does he does well and he has a deep desire to excel.

BOWLING TIPS

By MARION LADEWIG

The approach is very much like a rather fast walk. It should come more or less naturally. To get started, I think it's best to have the left foot slightly ahead of the right at address for the four-step delivery. Then it becomes natural to move the right foot into that slow, first step.

Seals Will Need Faster Start Against Detroit

Against the Toronto Maple Leafs on Wednesday, the Seals gae up three goals in the first period and lost by 4-1.

Bob Pulford, Britt Selby and Mike Walton scored the first Toronto points.

Oakland's only tally came in the second period on a shot by Carol Vadnais and Toronto's Dave Keon scored in the last period.

Raiders Complete 1970 Home Exhibition Schedule

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Oakland Raiders completed their home exhibition season schedule yesterday by announcing a game against the Pittsburgh Steelers in the Oakland Coliseum Saturday night, Sept. 12.

Previously announced home exhibition games were against Baltimore Colts on Aug. 8, Los Angeles Rams on Aug. 22 and the Green Bay Packers on Aug. 29. All four are National Conference teams.

Other professional football news yesterday involved coaching staffs.

From Miami, it was announced that Howard Schnellenberger was hired away from the Los Angeles Rams to coach the Miami Dolphin receivers.

The former Kentucky star was the second aide named by new head coach Don Shula, who left the Baltimore Colts to become a part owner, vice president and field boss of the Dolphins. Bill Arnsparger was signed to coach the defensive line of the NFL team. All three men coached at the University of Kentucky in 1959.

From Pittsburgh came the announcement that the Steelers had added former pro star Lionel Taylor to their coaching staff. Taylor, 33, will tutor the receivers, the mob formerly held by Max Coley who has been switched to back field coach.

Taylor played seven seasons for the Denver Broncos and two for the Houston Oilers, during which time he set the American Football League all-time pass reception record with 5676 reception record with 567 in 1968.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL

Some Specifics Concerning Alimony, Separate Maintenance

Alimony and separate maintenance payments are deductible by the husband and must be included in the wife's income if:

1. The payments are made under a decree of divorce or legal separation, or they are made under a written separation agreement made after August 16, 1954, or under a court decree for support made after March 1, 1954, and for payments made after August 16, 1954, under such decree.

2. The payments must be made after such decree or agreement.

3. The payments must cover a legal obligation arising out of marital or family relationship.

4. The payments must not be for the support of children. Child support does not count.

5. Only periodic payments count: Lump sum payments do not count.

Periodic payments are those which extend over a period of time greater than ten years, or where it is impossible to figure the total amount that will be paid, such as where the payments cease on death or remarriage.

LUMP SUMS

Lump sum payments are those where a fixed definite amount is payable immediately following the decree, or where fixed amounts can be figured from the terms of the decree that is payable over a period of ten years or less.

Temporary payments pending divorce or legal separation do not count. Neither do payments intended to repay loans received previously from the wife, or to induce her to turn over community property. Payments for attorneys' fees or court costs do not count.

Provided that all payments qualify, a husband can deduct all payments made to all previous wives during the year, regardless of the number of such previous wives.

The husband cannot deduct attorneys' fees.

NOT TAXABLE

The wife can deduct the cost of collecting taxable alimony.

However, attorneys' fees which might be for getting child support would not be deductible.

Any child support received is not income to the wife.

There is a new rule for determining who gets the dependency credit for children of divorced parents.

It applies only to people who are divorced, legally separated or separated pursuant to a written agreement and who file separate returns. Also, the parents together must furnish more than one-half of the total support of the child for the year and the child must be in custody of either or both parents for more than one-half of the year.

CHILD CUSTODY

Generally speaking, the parent having custody of the child for the greater period of the year will normally be entitled to the dependency credit.

There are two exceptions to this:

1. If a parent who does not have custody of the child contributed at least $600 towards the child's support and the decree of divorce or separate maintenance or written agreement between the parties states that he is entitled to the exemption, or

2. If he contributed more than $1,200 in child support regardless of the number of children for the year and the parent having custody for the greater period during the year does not clearly establish that his share of child support was greater.

If thec hild lives with you and you do not furnish over one-half of the child's support, you still may be accorded treatment as the "head of household" which would give you a tax advantage if your net income is over $500.

Alimony, separate maintenance, child support and divorce are tricky questions. You and your spouse should be in agreement as to who is going to pay the taxes and claim the dependency on your tax returns. An amicable agreement between you can save you both a great deal of trouble and misunderstanding later.

Poultry, Egg Outlook Fair

WASHINGTON (AP) — Poultry and egg producers will find rougher going this year after some of the best prices in years during 1969, says an Agriculture Department economist.

William E. Cathcart of the Economic Research Service told the National Agricultural Outlook Conference recently that rising production costs and indications of some reduction in prices for poultry products may rip profits from last year.

The cost of producing poultry and eggs this year will likely rise," Cathcart said in a prepared talk.

Thus, he said, if prices received by poultry producers average near or slightly less than a year earlier, net returns will be lower.

Egg production last year was down slightly but large consumer demand helped push prices to the highest marks since the early 1950s. Cathcart said broiler chickens increased 9 per cent last year but prices were more than in 1968.

Over-all, he said, combined gross cash receipts from poultry and eggs increased 15 per cent last year. Another rise in total marketings is expected for 1970, but not as much as last year's, he said.

Growth Of 'Go-Go' Funds Seen

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. - We bought Eaton & Howard Special Fund during 1968-69 at prices of $16 to $18 a share. Its performance has been one of the worst. What should we do now?—J.C.

A. Try to be patient. In 1968 Eaton & Howard brought out two new growth funds, the Special being the more speculative of the two. Two other funds have been under Eaton & Howard Management since 1932, and within the limits of each fund's stated objectives they have performed well.

Since the Special Fund is relatively new, no assessment can be made on the basis of past performance. A study of the fund's portfolio reveals a diversified list with emphasis on office equipment, mortgage investment trusts, Canadian oils and technology issues. Recent purchases have been somewhat more conservative than those of a year ago. Speculative go-go funds, because of the basic nature of their holdings, are highly vulnerable in a bear market. However, in an extended bull market their portfolios usually move far faster than their more conservative counterparts. Now trading about 45 per cent below its high, Eaton & Howard Special Fund could offer interesting appreciation possibilities in an up-market.

Q. - It seems I have lost or mislaid my stock certificates. I have the certificate numbers and I know I have to put a stop order on them. Who do I write to for new certificates? — T.K.

A. Your broker will supply the names and addresses of the transfer agents for each security. Write to these agents stating the name of the companies involved, the number on each certificate and the name in which they are registered. You should request that the transfer agent put a stop on the missing shares, in case they do turn up. The agent will forward to you a form to fill out requesting new certificates. If after a six-month period your shares are not located, you will be required to post a bond covering the value of the lost certificates.

Wall Street On The Low Side Again

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks finished lower today despite a good comeback late in the session. Trading was moderately active.

Analysts said much of the list attracted profit taking following Wednesday's big rise in the closing minutes after a small Philadelphia bank cut its prime interest rate to 8 per cent from 8½ per cent. They noted that investors generally were disappointed that major banks had not followed the prime rate reduction.

Shortly before the close, the UPI Marketwide Indicator was off 0.30 per cent on 1,596 issues traded. Declines topped advances, 743 to 572.

A turnover of around 11½-million shares compared with 13,130,000 shares Wednesday.

AFTERMATH OF RIOT — All that remained this morning of a Bank of America branch near the University of California at Santa Barbara were these structural beams after it was ablaze during the night by rioting UCSB students. The confrontation last night was the second in a row near the university which is located in Goleta, just north of Santa Barbara.

Santa Barbara Students Riot

Bank Is Gutted By Fire

GOLETA (UPI)—Thirty-four persons were arrested early today as 450 helmeted law officers swept a small, troubled area following a rock and bottle throwing rampage by 1,500 young persons.

Sheriff's deputies said most of those arrested were charged with unlawful assembly in the second straight night of disturbances in the community of Isla Vista, adjacent to the University of California, Santa Barbara campus.

BANK GUTTED

A branch of the Bank of America and a coin laundry were gutted by fire during the nearly 10 hours of violence, and 16 officers were injured. Four were hospitalized with major injuries.

Officers noved into the area after a helicopter manned by police broadcast warnings the gathering was an unlawful assembly most of the crowd dispersed, but authorities said small bands pelted officers with rocks as they moved through the area.

The demonstrators took control of a shopping area near the bank and hurled rocks and bottles at sheriff's department vehicles that ventured near.

Deputies said a small crowd broke into the bank and started fires in window drapes and counters.

HIT BY ROCKS

Seventy officers moved in to disperse the group but were repelled by a barrage of rocks and bottles as the bank burned. Authorities said the vault was not damaged.

The crowd then captured a police car abandoned by the fleeing officers, overturned it and set it afire.

Authorities said the disturbance began after a speech on the campus by William Kunstler, chief defense attorney for the "Chicago Seven." However, student leaders said the turmoil stemmed from long standing problems and had no connection with Kunstler's talk which attracted 5,500 students of the school's 15,000 enrollment.

Law enforcement agencies in three surrounding counties were called in to aid local police and deputies. They were joined by 150 highway patrolmen.

NOT CALLED

The sheriff's department notified Gov. Ronald Reagan's office of the disturbance, but the National Guard was not called in although Paul Beck, Reagan's press secretary, said the possibility was evaluated.

A four-block area of the Isla Vista business district, which was hard hit by Tuesday's demonstration, was sealed off as crowds roamed through the area breaking windows and

Pessner To Seek State Senate Job

Hubert O. Pessner, owner of a San Rafael lumber company, has announced his candidacy for the Fourth District Senate seat held by John F. McCarthy, who will not seek reelection June 2.

Pessner, 53, who lives at 90 Corte De Sabla, Greenbrae, said yesterday he is running for the Republican nomination because he feels "some things" need to be said.

"People of our district, state and nation are suffering from too much irresponsible and coercive government that is pushing us ever further down the collectivist road and to 100 per cent control of our lives by bureaucrats from Washington," he said.

He said that government, at all levels, should perform only those functions that an individual cannot perform for himself.

"The funding and direction for every program possible should come from the local level," he added, "This will be my goal, if elected."

Pessner is a native of Los Angeles and has been a Marin County resident since 1955. A graduate of Oregon State University, he owns and operates West Coast Timber Products.

O'Brien Declines To Direct Demos

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lawrence F. O'Brien announced today he has informed Hubert H. Humphrey he will not accept the chairmanship of the Democratic National Committee.

In a statement, the 52-year-old O'Brien said he has concluded "There are some within the party structure and some among those with whom the party traditionally has had close relationships who do not share the view that I should return as chairman.

"Therefore, it is clear to me that the consensus I deem vital for the next chairman would not be forthcoming and I will not allow my name to be presented for consideration."

O'Brien's decision, announced while he is on the West Coast on a business trip, throws into confusion the decision on the next chairman, who is due to be elected next Thursday when the national committee meets.

Sen. Fred R. Harris of Oklahoma, who succeeded O'Brien a year ago, has resigned effective that date.

Economy On Schools, Tea Board?

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon proposed to Congress today the scrapping or reform of 57 federal programs at a saving in the coming year of $2.5 billion.

In a special message, Nixon said congressional action would be required to achieve $1.1 billion of the savings and that he will do the rest through administrative moves.

The pruning operation would include reform of the 20-year-old federal program to aid to schools in areas housing large numbers of federal personnel—a program Nixon has tried without success to cut in the past.

The upshot of the Nixon plan in this field would be to shift more funds from relatively wealthy communities to poorer districts and at the same time cut total annual appropriations by $392 million.

Another item on the Nixon agenda would be elimination of a little-known board of federal tea tasters that has been in operation since 1897 and costs $127,000 a year.

"At one time in the dim past," Nixon said, "there may have been good reason to single out tea for such special taste tests; but that reason no longer exists. Nevertheless, a separate tea-tasting board has gone right along, at the taxpayers' expense, because nobody up to now took the trouble to take a hard look at why it was in existence. The general attitude was it didn't cost much, it provided a few jobs, so why upset the tea cart?"

He also proposed revision of the medicaid program, to emphasize more medical treatment and less custodial care for long term cases.

FIRST '70 TRANSPLANT

Heart Patient Making Recovery

By DAVID DIETZ

Willem G. Van Buuren—the heart of another person beating in his chest—enthused yesterday over his good health, pedaled his daughter's bicycle up the street for a photographer and expressed a hope to return work soon.

There was a time two years ago when the survival of a heart transplant patient for mere days was cause for wonder and gratitude, but the 40-year-old Van Buuren, who lives in Strawberry, is proof that transplant technology has attained new heights.

Since December 1967, when the heart of an auto crash victim was given to a South African grocer in the world's first human heart transplant, 153 similar operations have been performed. Twenty-three persons survive, and one of them is the doughty Van Buuren, who received on Jan. 3 the heart of a San Leandro youth killed in an auto accident.

The four-and-one-half-hour operation was performed by a veteran transplant team headed by Dr. Norman Shumway. Three days later, Van Buuren left his hospital bed to walk and a little more than six weeks later, on Feb. 21, he departed the hospital—and drove the 45 miles home himself.

"I feel just great," he said in an interview yesterday at his home at 112 East Strawberry Drive. "I feel like I'm 10 years younger."

Van Buuren was the first transplant patient of 1970 and is Marin's initial recipient, but he is cool to the notoriety.

"The whole problem with heart transplants is that there are not enough donors," he said. "There were a couple of people waiting at the hospital while I was there but no donors ever came."

But for the humane decision of an East Bay family to donate their son's heart, Van Buuren probably would not be alive himself today. He said he feels extreme gratitude toward the family of 16-year-old Kenneth Gibson, but has not been in touch with them.

"It might hurt these people," he said. "These things are hard to talk about."

After two heart attacks—the first one 18 months ago and the other last summer—Van Buuren was accepted in December as a patient at Stanford. He had been referred by Dr. James Dahl of Greenbrae, a specialist in internal medicine.

"I could barely walk out to the car," he recalled.

After extensive tests while confined at Stanford Van Buuren said, "I found out that my heart was in such bad shape that any surgery was out of the question. They told me I either might live three months or get a heart transplant. They told me I was a good candidate because the rest of my body was in good shape.

"I felt better after they told

Wholesale Prices Up; Key Indicators Down

The Labor Department said the wholesale price index, often a portent of retail prices to come, rose three-tenths of 1 per cent in February. The new level was 116.3 per cent of the 1957-59 base period and was 4.7 per cent above the level of a year earlier.

The Commerce Department said its leading indicators index, a composite of a number of things, dropped 1.8 per cent during January to 149.3 per cent of the 1963 level. The decline was much sharper than the December drop of one-tenth of 1 per cent.

The new index was 149.3 per cent of the 1963 figure.

The sharpest change was in initial claims for state unemployment insurance, which increased by 10.5 per cent. The average work week declined 1 per cent and new orders for durable goods industries declined 5.6 per cent.

New building permits declined 23.1 per cent. Stock prices dropped slightly less than 1 per cent while the prices of industrial materials rose 2 per cent.

The trend in wholesale prices was mixed.

The estimate showed that industrial commodities advanced two-tenths of one per cent over the month, the smallest gain since July 1969. But farm products rose a full one per cent, somewhat more than usual for February, while processed foods and animal feeds edged down two-tenths of one per cent.

Metals and metal products again accounted for much of the increase in wholesale prices for industrial materials, with boosts reported for steel mill products, iron and steel scrap, metal containers and fabricated structural metal.

The fuels index rose primarily because of higher prices for liquified petroleum gas, bituminous coal and distillates. Pesticides and mixed fertilizers showed the principal gains among chemicals.

Cattle and hog quotations moved up substantially after dropping in January and fresh fruits were higher.

Wallace Will Seek Governorship Again

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — George C. Wallace announced today that he will run for governor of Alabama again in the May 5 Democratic primary election, saying he feels the most pressing problem is "the present crisis in public education."

Wallace, now 50, was the third party candidate for president in 1968.

He was elected governor of Alabama in 1962. Four years later, prevented by law from succeeding himself, he ran his wife, Lurleen. She defeated nine men without a runoff in the primary election, and then defeated Jim Martin in the general election.

Key Welfare Proposal Moves

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Ways and Means Committee tentatively approved today the keystone of President Nixon's welfare revision proposal—a federal subsistence income for the working as well as the jobless poor.

Rep. John W. Byrnes of Wisconsin, senior Republican member of the committee, said legislation was ordered drafted along these lines. It is subject to review next week, but Byrnes indicated the basic decision has been made.

The provision calls for a $1,600 federally financed family income floor, which could be supplemented by food stamps to bring it to the equivalent of about $2,400.

Senate Panel Backs New HEW Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Appropriations Committee voted today to authorize President Nixon to withhold two per cent of the funds in a new $19.4 billion health and education money bill.

If sustained by the full Senate, and the House, the action could pave the way for the President to sign the reduced measure. He vetoed a costlier version in January as inflationary.

President Says Progress Made In French Talks

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon said today he and French President Georges Pompidou have made "very great progress" toward more friendly relations between France and the United States.

Bidding farewell to his guest after a two-hour long meeting at the White House Nixon acknowledged that differences still remain but, he said, they are much smaller than they were when this week's talks started.

"I can say now," Nixon said in the White House Rose Garden before Pompidou's departure, "that I believe we have made very great progress in restoring that kind of relationship between our nations..."

After discussions with Nixon at the White House, Pompidou and his wife flew to Cape Kennedy for a tour of U.S. space shot facilities before going on to San Francisco tonight. Other stops on his eight-day tour include Chicago and New York.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

To Enter Strike

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI)—The National Education Association (NEA) says it will send its entire legal staff here from Washington to help striking Kentucky public school teachers fight injunctions ordering them back to work.

A circuit court in Paducah, Ky., ordered teachers in that city to return to their jobs today. Indications were that legal actions would be filed elsewhere in the state.

The Jefferson County (Louisville) school board, the state's largest, ordered its 3,800 teachers back to work, but they said they would not return.

An estimated 25,000 of Kentucky's 33,000 teachers have been on strike since Monday, idling more than a half-million pupils.

61 Arrested

OXFORD, Miss. (UPI) — Sixty-one black students at the University of Mississippi were arrested Wednesday night after the group marched onstage at a campus chapel and stopped a concert.

Campus security officers, aided by highway patrolmen, arrested the students, who were charged with disturbing the peace and confined in the Lafayette County Jail.

A university spokesman said the students filed into Fulton Chapel and "disrupted" a performance by an international youth performing group.

It was the second night of demonstrations by black students on the Ole Miss campus. Tuesday night, a group of about 75 students marched to campus security headquarters and to Chancellor Porter Fortune's home protesting what they termed "white racism" on the campus and around the state.

Yablonski Link

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Silous Huddleston, a retired Tennessee coal miner and father of 11 children, faced arraignment today on charges of helping plot the murder of Joseph A. Yablonski.

Huddleston, 61, president of United Mine Workers pensioners Local 3228 at La Follette, Tenn., was indicted Wednesday by a federal grand jury, the fifth person charged with conspiracy in the case.

"I'll be glad to get home," Huddleston told newsmen moments before his arrest in front of the Federal Building. "I don't know how I got dragged into all this." He had just finished testifying to the grand jury.

Murphy Ahead

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The Democrats have a long way to go if they hope to win the U.S. Senate seat now held by Republican George Murphy, according to the California poll.

Pollster Mervin D. Field reported today that in a poll of voters earlier this month Murphy led Rep. John Tunney 53-37 with 10 per cent undecided and Murphy led Rep. George Brown 56-33 with 11 per cent undecided.

Tunney and Brown are the two declared Democratic candidates.

Chemical Sign

TOKYO (AP) — Tokyo's major newspapers published photographs today of a sign at the U.S. Air Force's Yakota Base warning that "this storage site contains Group B toxic and smoke chemical munitions requiring gas mask."

The secretary-general of a Tokyo antinuclear group said this "clearly shows toxic chemical weapons" were being stored at the base.

A U.S. spokesman denied this, saying the storage area "contains chemical smoke markers" used by a rescue and recovery squadron.

"These smoke markers could hardly be called weapons or bombs of any kind," the spokesman added.

Disperse Youth

MANILA (AP) — Several hundred riot police dispersed about 1,000 Filipino youths shouting anti-American slogans in front of the U.S. Embassy tonight. The crowd was inflamed by a court ban on a rally in Manila's major downtown plaza and the killing Wednesday night of a Filipino by a U.S. soldier at Clark Air Base near Manila.

The police, wearing helmets and carrying shields and nightsticks, marched in after the demonstrators hurled a few firecrackers and stones.

Two policemen and 14 demonstrators were reported injured.

Ford Layoffs

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. says it is laying off indefinitely this week an additional 3,000 employes, which will bring its number of persons laid off in the last two months to 10,000.

Ford, however, announced that its U.S. assembly plants would be closed a total of 49 working days in March, copared with 66 in February.

Chrysler Corp. announced Wednesday it had begun recalling laid-off workers to its assembly plants in neighboring Windsor, Ont. The firm has been worst hit among the major automakers by sagging sales and currently has 9,245 production workers laid off at U.S. plants.

General Motors announced Monday it will lay off indefinitely 2,200 and some plants will be closed from two days to a week in March.

Strike Ends

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — A 23-day school strike ended when 2,000 teachers jammed a hotel ballroom to ratify an agreement reached with the school board after five days of continuous negotiations.

All 3,400 teachers in the public school system, the largest in New Jersey, were expected to return to their regular classroom schedules today.

The teachers voted Wednesday night to approve a one-year contract calling for starting salaries to be increased from $6,700 to $8,000, binding arbitration of teachers grievances, limitation of class sizes to 30 students where possible, and a study of what the teachers claim is a need for educational specialists.

Monique Dies

JACKSON, Wyo. (AP) — The first elk died, but scientists say they will try again to track elk migration using a space satellite and a data transmitting collar.

The body of the 500-pound cow elk named Monique was found Tuesday. One of the project directors, Frank C. Craighead Jr., said she died of pneumonia which is common among the herd of 7,000 elk.

The bright red, $25,000 collar which had been fitted around her neck a week ago was recovered.

After the fitting, several attempts to track her movements from the Nimbus 3 weather satellite 700 miles above Wyoming in polar orbit were unsuccessful. On Monday contact was made, but it appeared Monique wasn't moving.

Harry Reynolds, the University of Montana graduate student who tranquilized Monique for the collar fitting found her body.

Israeli Jets Hit Nasser Missile Site

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli planes flashed across the Suez Canal today to strike at an Egyptian missile base 18 miles west of Cairo and made it home safely, the military command announced.

It was the first time Israel has announced strikes that far inside Egypt in the Cairo area since the June 1967 war, informants said. Israeli planes last ranged near Cairo Feb. 17 when they struck at antiaircraft missile sites around Helwan and Sahsjur.

Antiaircraft guns boomed in Cairo and black puffs were seen in the sky but no planes were sighted, said a dispatch from the Egyptian capital.

Air raid sirens were not heard in the center of Cairo, but sounded in the nearby suburb of Heliopolis.

The attack came only four hours after Egyptian planes streaked low across the waterway to strafe Israeli positions along the northern sector.

The Israeli military command said its forces suffered no casualties. Israeli and Egyptian raids across the canal are daily occurrences, and on Wednesday Israel struck Egyptian positions twice, while Egypt hit back once, just at sundown.

In West Germany, a federal prosecutor said an Arab had surrendered to police and asked for $2,000 in exchange for information about an Arab plot to assassinate Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban during his visit to West Germany earlier this week.

West German police reported that one of two Arabs wanted in connection with an explosion aboard an Austrian airliner last weekend has flown to Cairo. The two are suspected of mailing a time bomb that exploded shortly after the plane took off from Frankfurt Saturday. The plane with 38 passengers aboard landed safely.

Police said they still are trying to learn if the second man is in West Germany.

President Tito of Yugoslavia, who concluded a visit to Egypt Wednesday and flew to Libya, issued a communique with Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser accusing Israel of an "aggressive stand."...

Two More To Vote No On Carswell

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sens. Jacob K. Javits and George S. McGovern said today they will vote against confirmation of G. Harrold Carswell's Supreme Court nomination because of dissatisfaction with his civil rights record.

McGovern, a South Dakota Democrat, considered a possible presidential aspirant in 1972, said in a prepared speech "I am appalled that our President would regard this nominee as a worthy appointment to the nation's highest court."

Javits became the third Republican to announce against President Nixon's second attempt to name a Southerner to the Supreme Court seat vacated last spring by Abe Fortas.

Sen. Charles E. Goodell, Javit's New York colleague, said several weeks ago he would oppose the nomination.

Prime Rate Drop Followup Unlikely

NEW YORK (AP) — Spokesmen for big banks generally doubt that the cut in the prime interest rate from 8½ per cent to 8 per cent by Philadelphia's little Lincoln National Bank is likely to spread soon.

But stock market investors grabbed Wednesday at the news —half an hour before the close —as an indication that tight money policies might be ready for a change. A flood of trading sent the Dow Jones industrial average rocketing to a 13.86 point gain, closing at 768.28.

The prolonged stock market slump has widely been blamed on tight money and credit policies instigated by the Federal Reserve Board to fight inflation and cool the economy.

Banks have progressively increased the prime rate—the rate to their biggest customers —from 6¼ per cent as recently as December 1968 to the historic high of 8½ per cent.

Norman Denny, president of Lincoln National, said the bank lowered its prime rate, effective March 1, "because we don't want the economy of the Delaware Valley to suffer."

In an interview, he said the stock market reaction "shows the frustration of the investor, that he was waiting for some sign, some indication of better times."

"We felt the country was in jeopardy," Denny declared.

Many bankers said they doubted the move by Lincoln National—a comparatively small bank with $50 million in assets—will lead to immediate widespread drop in the prime rate at other banks.

Algiers Motel Four Are Found Innocent

FLINT, Mich. (AP) — An all-white jury has found three white policemen and a Negro private guard innocent of conspiracy in the Algiers Motel incident in which three black youths were killed during Detroit's 1967 riots.

The three suspended police officers—Ronald August, 30, Robert Paille, 34, and David Senak, 25—all said they would seek reinstatement with the Detroit police force. They indicated they might seek full back pay for their two and a half years off duty.

Melvin Dismukes, 26, the Negro private guard, said he feared for his life.

"Every place I go, I go armed," Dismukes told newsmen after the verdict. "This is a great load off my mind, but when I leave here it's just the beginning. I don't know who is waiting for me out in the dark."

The four defendants were accused of conspiring "to injure, oppress, threaten and intimidate" ten occupants of the motel when they raided the building July 26, 1967 in a search for reported snipers.

Witnesses said two white girls and eight Negro youths were beaten with rifle butts or otherwise abused by police and National Guardsmen.

If found guilty, the defendants could have been sentenced to 10 years in prison and fined $10,000.

ABAG Will Study Lab Crime Grant

I- Special Report

BERKELEY—Marin County's application for a $115,913 federal grant to set up a North Bay regional crime laboratory will be reviewed by the Association of Bay Area Governments regional criminal justice advisory board at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow in the Hotel Claremont.

Total cost of the lab would be $193,196 for three years, the county has estimated. It would serve Marin, Sonoma, Napa and Solano counlys.

The regional board's staff has recommended limiting the grant to $62,173 toward the first year's cost of the lab, figured by the county at $103,623.

Also on the agenda is reconsideration of the Marin County Human Rights Commission's application for a $70,327 federal grant toward a $138,031 police community relations training program. State officials have recommended that the grant be trimmed to $25,000.

me that because, first, they told me the truth and, secondly, I knew I had a second chance."

Discharged just before Christmas with word that it might be months before a heart was available, Van Buuren nevertheless remained optimistic.

"They called Saturday afternoon (Jan. 3) at 3:30 p.m. and told me there was a donor," he said. "I went into the operating room at 8 o'clock and came back downstairs at 1:30."

He said he now feels no pain or discomfort. "I've felt better since the second day."

Exercise and a low calorie, no-salt diet have been prescribed, together with consumption of 25 to 30 pills daily. He jogs, works with weights and rides one of his children's bicycles to restore strength to limp muscles. His weight fell from 165 before the operation to 130, but Van Buuren said the doctor wants it that way.

He visits Stanford twice weekly for blood tests, a cardiogram and x-rays. If rejection, the tendency of the body to destroy foreign tissue, sets in, this will detect it, Van Buuren said.

"I'm very optimistic about the whole thing," he said. "My recovery was faster than many of the others. And it was a good 'match' (of tissue, blood type, etc.)

"I was sick for so long and I could feel myself going downhill. Now I have many plans for the future. I'm too glad to be home to think about it (rejection) and I hope to be able to get back to work pretty soon."

Meanwhile, the Van Buurens—a family of five which includes his wife, Corry, and three children, Robert, 13; Martine, 10, and Caroline, 8—are living on disability payments. He has paid nothing for the operation, saying the hospital told him the cost—known to range between $15,000 and $30,000—was absorbed by research funds.

The Van Buuren home has been deluged with messages from well wishers and his mother is visiting from his native Holland, where he lived until emigrating to Marin seven years ago. The sight of slender figure outside the small, pale green home brings exuberant greetings from neighborhood children.

"I'm glad he's back," Mrs. Van Buuren said. "I was more afraid of the transplant than he was. Now I'm pleased to see him doing the things he used to do."

"I'm not sick anymore," said Van Buuren, enjoying the warm air of a late winter day. "I'm just like you."

Ice Skating, Golf Classes For Children

Golf and ice skating classes for youngsters were approved last night by the Rohnert Park Recreation Commission.

Robert Porter, professional at the city golf course, said he would give free lessons for students 8 years and older starting in June. He said that clubs and balls would be provided at no cost as well as free practice time on the driving range.

Porter said he expected the student classes to last six weeks and would also be setting up adult classes later.

Ice skating lessons in cooperation with the Redwood Ice Arena in Santa Rosa will start March 27, Chairman Ronald E. Rasmussen said.

The Rohnert Park Recreation Commission also:

BANDS—Heard Recreation Director Thomas West report that local bands have been invited to practice in the recreation center on Saturday afternoons.

DANCES—Heard that a dance for teen-agers featuring music by the Mind's Eye will be held Friday at 8 p.m. with another scheduled for March 20.

MEETING—Scheduled the next commission meeting for March 9 at 7:30 p.m.

Ventilation Job At Cook School Voted By Board

The San Anselmo School District board last night awarded a $9,390 contract to Allen Heating and Sheet Metal of Greenbrae for rehabilitation of the ventilation system at Isabel Cook School.

Other bidders were Knoles and Co. Novato, $9,733, Bartholow and Co., San Rafael, $9,856, and Wilcox and Co., San Rafael, $12,200.

The board also held a closed meeting to discuss hiring of teaching and classified employees for 1970-71, but took no action. Parodi reported. The closed sessionnwas adjourned to continue at 9:30 a.m. Saturday in the Red Hill School library.

The board also will hold an open meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Red Hill library, an adjourned session from Feb. 17.

Objector's Last Name Is Omitted

The last name of Judy Emis of San Anselmo was omitted in yesterday's Independent-Journal story on the San Anselmo City Council's approval of an application for federal planning funds.

Mrs. Emis objected to statements on housing in the application, saying the intention was to bring more minority people into the city.

McCunniff Resigns His School Post

Marshall J. McCunniff, Lagunitas School District superintendent since 1964, last night submitted his resignation.

McCunniff came to Marin from Modoc County where he had been Alturas School District superintendent for five years.

The trustees appointed Glen E. Twitchell, Judy Fullick and McCunniff to a committee to set up procedures for screening applications for the superintendent post.

A special meeting to announce officially the job vacancy will be held Mar. 2 at 7:30 p.m. at the San Geronimo School, McCunniff said.

The Lagunitas School Board also:

Ecuador Captures U.S. Tuna Vessel

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Ecuador seized another U.S. tuna boat—its 47th since 1961—about 32 miles off that nation's coast late Wednesday night, the American Tunaboat Association said today.

The Day Island, a 190-foot vessel from San Diego, was reported taken to the Ecuadorian port of Guayaquil. There were 15 men aboard.

Mill Valley Candidate Defies Ballot Ruling

Phillip Williams said yesterday he will remain in the Mill Valley City Council race despite warnings by city officials that he will not be seated if elected.

Williams, a pre-law student at San Francisco State College, has lived in that city since September, but state law requires that a candidate for city office live in the community for a year prior to the election. Balloting in Mill Valley is April 14.

"My attorney has advised me to stay in the race," said Williams, who claims the language in the state law is ambiguous.

City officials, who learned of the conflict after Williams declared his candidacy in the press, said they will not force him off the ballot. City Atty. Leland H. Jordan said he has advised Williams he would be ineligible to take office if elected and suggested that he withdraw from the race by signing a statement of residency.

Jordan said the city "has the right to assume" that persons are qualified when they file official candidacy papers. "It is neither our responsibility or prerogative" to investigate candidates' qualifications, Jordan said.

Williams, who lives at 110 Sunnyside Drive, is a former organizer and business agent with the AFL-CIO.

Truck Is Looted

A thief between 7 and 7:45 a.m. yesterday stole a tool box and tools valued at $350 from an unlocked truck owned by Lawrence H. Hinrichs of 714 Lamont Avenue, Novato and parked at Fourth and Cijas Street, San Rafael police have reported.

Cotati To Boost Sewer Bond Vote

A town hall type meeting on the April 14 Cotati sewer bond election will be held at 7:30 p.m. today at the Cotati School.

Members of the citizens committee to promote the bond issue will be on hand as well as city officials to answer questions about the $100,000 bond election.

The bonds would finance construction of new sewer lines and a connection with the Rohnert Park sewage disposal plant.

The state regional Water Pollution Control Board has placed the Cotati plant under a cease and desist order. If the system is not improved, the city could be fined for violations of state requirements.

Joint Training Program Is Set

Novato and Hamilton Air Force Base firemen will have joint training exercises, the Novato Fire District board decided last night, according to Fire Chief Jack Kidder.

Because the two departments often work together on fires under a mutual aid program, they will train together in burning down some old buildings at the base. Date of the training exercise has not been set, Kidder said.

The Novato Fire District board also:

CAR—Authorized the department to draw up specifications for a new four-door sedan to replace a 1960 model station wagon.

WORKSHOPS—Authorized Assistant Chief Richard W. Beyer to attend a regional workshop on arson and fire investigation in Santa Rosa March 12 and 13, and Lt. Raymond E. Dougherty to attend a fire prevention seminar in Santa Barbara March 15 through 20.

Mill Valley Trustees Eye Muddle On Bids

Supt. James A. Collins reported that Worley K. Wong, a partner in the district architectural firm of Wong and Brocchini and Associates of San Francisco, told the board his firm was still studying bids received by three construction companies last week.

Collins said Wong reported that his firm would suggest alternate plans, including possible rebidding or school redesign, at the board's next meeting March 9. Meantime, the board was told, the firm was negotiating the low bid received by Branagh Inc. of Oakland.

That bid, $3.4 million, is about $800,000 higher than the last unofficial construction estimate given school officials by the architect.

Will Valley School District Board Also:

MARIN VIEW—Adopting the recommendations of the Tamalpais Valley School Parent-Teacher Association, urged that developers of the Marin View subdivision improve traffic safety near the school by deadending an existing access road in the first unit of development, building an access road for the other units behind the school and installing a traffic signal at the intersection of the present access road with two other secretes in front of the school.

SAFETY—Heard an interim report from the district P-TA for improved traffic safety at other district schools, including recommended installation of traffic signals at Tam Junction and at East Blithedale Avenue and Camino Alto and placement of a crossing guard on Tiburon Boulevard and Bay Vista and West Strawberry drives.

BONDS—Approved a resolution calling for placement on the June ballot a request for voter permission enabling an increase to 7 per cent in the interest on the sale of school bonds.

PERSONNEL—Accepted the resignations of Harold Welch, a teacher at Homestead School, for personal and health reasons, and of Janet Eddins, a Marin Terrace School instructor, who had been on leave.

EXCHANGE—Approved, subject to federal ratification, the exchange of Victor Dobyns, a teacher at Tam Valley School, with an instructor from Manchester, England.

setting fires in the streets. Windows of at least 10 businesses were shattered and one observer said "the streets were covered with glass."

The campus has been tense since January when a controversial faculty member was fired. The firing led to several days of student protests and confrontations with law officers called onto the campus to support university police.

Unrest was also reported at two other campuses—both in New York State.

About a dozen persons, six of them campus policemen, were injured, but none serious.

The acting president of the university said black student groups had no role in the trouble. But the melee appeared to have been an offshoot of a dispute between university athletic officials and black basketball players.

At Syracuse University today, more than 50 students seized control of the school's student government building in the dawn hours to "reaffirm support" of university officials.

The action was a retaliatory measure against a takeover of the administration building a week ago by students protesting the school's ROTC policy.

Elks Lodge Winners Named

Deborah Ann Olson of San Anselmo and Lee S. Harris of San Rafael have been chosen as winners in the youth leadership competition of San Rafael Elks Lodge 1108.

Deborah, a senior at Sir Francis Drake High School, is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy B. Olson of 50 Mariposa Avenue. Lee, a senior at San Rafael High School, is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson S. Harris Jr. of 153 Robinhood Drive.

Second place winners were Debra Ann Hendricks of Drake High and Richard H. Scatena of San Rafael High.

The winners will each receive a $100 savings bond, and their brochures will be entered in a regional competition, said Alfred J. Dalecio, Elks youth activities chairman. Second place winners will receive $50 savings bonds.

Petaluman Named Scholar Designate

Rita M. Dechene of Petaluma, a senior at the University of San Francisco, has been named a Woodrow Wilson Fellowship designate for 1970-71. Thirty seniors from Northern California were named yesterday by the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation.

The designation carries no cash award but usually enables designates to get financial aid from other sources. The foundation named 1,153 designates nationwide. The designates are students with high scholarship attainment who have expressed an interest in college teaching.

Charges Delayed In Beer, Pot, Gun Case

No charge was filed yesterday in Marin Municipal Court against Richard James Fountain, 22, of Novato, pending further investigation of the case by the district attorney's office.

Fountain was arrested Tuesday by San Rafael police who reported seeing him drinking out of a beer can while stopped at a stop light. They said his car contained a bag of suspected marijuana and a .32 revolver.

Judge Issues Order On I-J Guards

By MARY LEYDECKER

A Marin Superior Court judge today issued a preliminary injunction prohibiting private guards at the Independent Journal plant in San Rafael from making threats of physical harm, using obscenities or violence against pickets.

Judge Thomas F. Keating ruled, however, that two days of testimony produced no evidence that dogs had been displayed by Nor-Cal security guards in a threatening manner against pickets from striking San Francisco Typographical Union 21.

He also denied the union request that guards refrain from making physical contact with picketers saying that there had been no evidence that they had done so.

The judge made his ruling which applies only "in the course of peaceful picketing" after listening to testimony from witnesses from both sides.

Yesterday James Merjano, a San Francisco Printer who pickets at the paper once a week, said that the captain of the guards, Forrest J. Morais, had threatened him during a confrontation on the sidewalk in front of the I-J building on Feb. 4.

Merjano said the threat came after he told Morais to smile and he would take his picture. (Under cross-examination Merjano admitted his camera contained no film)

Morais took the stand later in the day to deny that he had made the threat but said that he told the union president, Leon Olsen, to "go to hell" on that occasion after he allegedly made vulgar remarks about a woman employee of Nor-Cal.

Morais also testified that he did not reach for his gun and club in a threatening manner on Feb. 2 as another picket, Philip Danziger of Millbrae, had said. He denied that he was even wearing a gun and club on that occasion.

Two versions of an incident in which James P. Martin, a Redwood City printer, was arrested on Jan. 28, were also described for the judge.

Martin said he ran after a car leaving the I-J parking lot to get its license number by Morais said that Martin struck the car with his picket sign.

There was also conflict between testimony by a woman printer, Maye McDowell of Novato, and that of I-J employees. Mrs. McDowell denied that she had threatened employees and said that twice guards had threatened her.

Later, I-J employees Jerry Schindel, Patricia Blair and Jack Weese told the judge that Mrs. McDowell had shouted threats at them.

Gloria Nielsen of Novato, whose husband Edward is a striking I-J printer, said that guards had followed her and her three children around the I-J building taking pictures of them.

Morais said that he and other guards attempted to take their pictures because she and the oldest child were "using outlandish profanity."

A Burlingame printer, Warren H. Herkert, who said that he is an official photographer for the union, said that on Feb. 17 when he took a picture of "five strikebreakers" leaving a Fourth Street restaurant that he was followed and threatened by the men until he gave up his film.

Another printer, Douglas C. Smith of Stinson Beach, said that Morais told him on Jan. 20, "When this strike is over, I'm going to take this night stick and shove it down your throat."

ECONOMY

Nixon acknowledged that virtually all the programs he wants to scrap or alter "have the strong support of some special interest group" and in many cases will be resisted.

Summarizing the approach he is taking, Nixon said:

"Too often in the past, 'sacred cows' that have outlived their usefulness or need drastic revamping have been perpetuated because of the influence of special interest groups. Others have hung on because they were 'too small' to be worthy of attention.

To help overcome resistance, Nixon made an unusual suggestion that Congress "examine the possibilities of establishing special arrangements for consideration of this legislation."

Lumped into the economy program was an already announced administration decision to cut space program outlays by $417 million in fiscal 1971, mainly by curbing the number of manned lunar expeditions.

The chief executive also called for a crack down on duplicated veterans benefits, for example making it impossible for survivors of veterans to collect burial benefits both from the Veterans Administration and from Social Security—a $54 million item.

The President also called for scrapping or revamping of "low priority agricultural programs" sale of the government-owned Alaska Railroad, a $65 million savings by replacing hospital construction grants with loan guarantees, elimination of the Coast Guard's selected reserve program and sales of about $750 million from federal stockpiles of commodities.

Corte Madera Park Use Rules

A final draft of regulations for use of town park and other public property was approved and sent to the town council last night by the Corte Madera Park and Recreation Commission.

The rules set out priorities for assigning park use, and ban such misconduct as sleeping in the park and vandalizing or misusing buildings, equipment, and plantings, reported public works director Arthur N. Morrison.

The commission approved an Easter egg hunt to be sponsored by the Corte Madera Chamber of Commerce at 11 a.m. March 28, with a back-up date of April 4 in case of rain.

The Corte Madera Park and Recreation Commission also:

DACHSHUNDS—Approved a request by the Golden Gate Dachshund Club, Inc., to use three acres of town park Sept. 12.

LANDSCAPTING—Approved a request by the Corte Madera Women's Club to allow the club to hire a landscape architect to design more landscaping round the recreation building at town park.

Saturday Show For Bay Model

To commemorate this week as Engineers Week, the Army Corps of Engineers will operate its bay-delta hydraulic model at Sausalito Saturday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The model, usually shown to the public only Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., is located at 2100 Bridgeway Boulevard.

Waterfront Restriction Questioned

A plan to create harbors on all water areas on the Sausalito central waterfront and forbid other development, such as restaurants, over the water was questioned last night by the Sausalito Planning Commission.

According to H. Eric Borgwardt, city planning director, the commission reached no decision on the proposed change in the William E. Spangle plan for the central waterfront, and agreed to discuss the matter further at its March 4 meeting.

The Spangle plan originally allowed more intensive commercial development over the water, Borgwardt said, but the city council has tentatively agreed to restrict such development to land areas.

The planning director said the commission fears such a "split zone" will result in very uniform, uninteresting development of the waterfront, with all the water in one use and all the land in another.

In addition, Borgwardt said the proposal would minimize Spangle's plan to grant commercial developers space credits for leaving open space on their land in exchange for permission to develop over the water.

The commission made only minor changes last night, chiefly in wording, of a dozen of the 37 proposed changes which the council has referred to it for further study, he said.

Plea Sounded For Volunteer Firemen Signups

More volunteer firemen are badly needed in Stinson Beach, volunteer Fire Chief Gorge H. White told persons attending last night's meeting of the Stinson Beach Fire Protection District.

White told the Independent-Journal the lack of volunteers hampered the department's efforts in fighting a fire of unknown origin which caused $100,000 damage to two expensive homes on Seadrift Road Tuesday. Only two of the department's 12 volunteers were in town when the blaze, which destroyed the Lillian Cecil home and heavily damaged a summer house belonging to George Hartmann of San Francisco, began.

"I think we need about 50 volunteers to prevent a recurrence of Tuesday's problem," the chief said, adding he has been seeking more volunteers "all along" but response has been poor.

"I hope this fire will bring home to people the fact that a handful of men who have other jobs can't stand around all day waiting for a fire to start," he said.

Bridge Jumper Is Identified

The unidentified youth, who leaped to his death Tuesday from the Golden Gate Bridge, was identified by two friends yesterday as Evan L. Thomas, 18, of 1356 Haight Street, San Francisco, the San Francisco Coroner's office has reported.

The Coast Guard was notified of the plunge by bridge officials about 6 p.m., and recovered the body about 100 yards from the bridge.

Parents No Closer On Jury's Report

There was little agreement among four Sausalito School District parents who appeared today on radio KTIM's "Marin Sounding Board."

They were discussing the Marin County Grand Jury's report on their school district.

To Delta Christ and Barbara Nelson, both leaders of Citizens for Excellence in Integrated Education, the report was one that deserved action — and that action should be repudiation of the present school board and administration.

To Jackie Kudler of Sausalito, the report was "destructive ... half true," and the grand jury's education committee "must be charged with ignorance." To Lenita McLemore of Marin City, it was "very biased, one-sided," and did not consider black children.

Mrs. Christ charged that the Sausalito school board "has not been honest with the public," but goes into closed session whenever something comes up trustees don't like. She said many of Supt. Phillip W. Schneider's actions have caused polarization in the district.

Mrs. Kudler said the Sausalito district "has been bled dry" by upkeep of outmoded schools, and suffers because Sausalito has very few people interested in public schools. But, she said, "Our school district can point with pride" to its programs in reading and mathematics and its school libraries.

Mrs. Nelson charged the integrated system has become a system in which only one point of view — that of black militants — is permitted.

Mrs. McLemore said the trouble has been that black children "were always on the outside looking in." Now they're not, she said.

Several telephone callers raised a point about reading test scores, which Mrs. Kudler said were low in Sausalito because of the many black children. The callers reported that almost all-black schools in Watts and Hunters Point had shown among the highest reading scores in the state. Mrs. Kudler responded that reading test scores are "really grossly misleading."

In response to a telephoned question, Mrs. Nelson said 10 of the more than 200 members of CEIE are black. Mrs. McLemore commented this hardly made the organization able to speak for parents in Marin City.

Responding to a question about Principal Sidney F. Walton Jr. of Martin Luther King School, identified as a "black revolutionist" by the CEIE speakers, Mrs. Kudler declared: "I think we need a revolution in education."

Mrs. Christ retorted that she thought so, too — "but not a militant revolution."

Marines In New Village Murder Quiz

DA NANG, Vietnam (AP) — Five members of a U.S. Marine combat patrol have been charged with murdering 16 Vietnamese civilians in a village south of Da Nang a week ago, military spokesmen said today.

The Marines, all enlisted men in the 1st Marine Division's 7th Regiment, were not identified, but authorities said they are being held in a brig at Marine headquarters here.

The men are accused of killing 11 children and five women on Feb. 19 in a hamlet of Son Thang village, 27 miles south of Da Nang. The area is classified as a "contested" sector.

Marine officials refused to give any details of how the civilians died. But officers said villagers found the bodies and led another Marine patrol to the scene.

Only scattered Marine patrols and South Vietnamese forces operate in the Son Thang area, authorities said. A headquarters spokesman said Marine patrols in that area had suffered frequent casualties from snipers and booby traps, but it was not known if any sniper fire had come from the hamlet.

There was no immediate comment on the case from South Vietnamese authorities.

Art Sales Tax Charges Face Shop's Owner

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The owner of an exclusive Palo Alto women's shop was indicted by a federal grand jury Wednesday on charges of failing to report $110,661 in money made from the sale of art objects and paintings.

Mrs. Leda Herrald, 50, Atherton, was charged in four counts of evading $64,328 in taxes for 1963 and 1965.

Mrs. Herrald was ordered to appear in federal court March 25 for arraignment on the tax charges. If convicted, she faces maximum penalty of five years in prison and $10,000 fine on each of the four counts.

Mrs. Herrald and her husband Hoyt, who died in July, 1968, reported in June, 1967, that $150,000 in art treasures had been stolen from their Atherton mansion.

Hartford Insurance Group of San Francisco refused to pay. A suit is pending in San Francisco federal court in which the Hartford implies there was no burglary and the art treasures had no value.

Trial is set for March 30 before U.S. District Judge Stanley A. Weigel.

SGT. MICHAEL E. FISH
Given Air Force Cross

Night-Long Rescue Earns Hero's Medal

Sgt. Michael E. Fish, newly assigned to Hamilton Air Force Base, has been awarded the Air Force Cross, the nation's second highest award for bravery.

Sergeant Fish, now assigned to the 41st Aerospace Rescue and Recovery Squadron was at Tuy Hoa Air Base on Feb. 18, 1969, when called on to rescue a small army patrol in a crashed helicopter. He and another pararescue man were lowered through the jungle to the injured men.

Three of the injured were given emergency medical treatment and lifted into the hovering helicopter. Enemy gunfire started when another helicopter lifted a fourth crew member to safety.

Fish found the pilot seriously injured and pinned in the wreckage. The pilot was given medical aid by Fish who tried to free him. As Fish worked, helicopters shot four enemy soldiers making their way toward the crash site.

When helicopters had to leave because of night, Fish stayed alone with the injured pilot, still trying to free him from the wreckage.

When dawn came, another helicopter came to the rescue through enemy fire. Fish and the new members of the rescue team, freed the pilot and hoisted him to the waiting helicopter. Fish was hoisted to another helicopter.

He is a native of Lake Oswego, Ore. He and his wife, Christine, have a son, Michael.

Three Bay Area Slayings Found

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The bodies of three persons, all victims of brutal attacks, were found Wednesday in the Bay Area.

Deborah Wharton Beeler, a 23-year-old University of California coed, was found strangled in her rented Berkeley apartment. Police said she had been dead at least 24 hours.

The other two victims were San Franciscans.

Louis Drinkmann, a 48-year-old bookkeeper, was found dead in the living room of his home. Authorities said he died of blows to the head, apparently early Sunday morning.

The body of Mrs. Marion Long, 22, a part-time office worker for the Red Cross, was found in a storeroom of her Mission District apartment building. Police said she was raped and strangled, probably Tuesday.

Collision Hurts Two Women

Two women were injured in a two-car accident at 12:30 p.m. Saturday on Lakeville Highway at Stage Gulch Road, Petaluma.

One of the drivers, Verna Arlene Chase, 29, of Cloverdale, was treated at Hillcrest Hospital for fractured ribs, and a passenger, Norma L. Chase, 58, of Modesto, was treated for head cuts, it was reported yesterday.

The California Highway Patrol said the car driven by Mrs. Chase collided with a car driven by D. B. Geroge, 61, of Sacramento.

MacNichols To Seek Reelection

MacNichols, a manufacturer's representative, has served on the board since he was appointed in 1963, and was named board president in January 1969.

Terms of MacNichols and Kenyon Spalding are expiring on the board, which has requested the Marin Municipal Water District to take over district operations.

MacNichols lives at 316 Rydal Avenue.

Sausalito Will Try Closing Thoroughfare

Acting on a request from Fire Chief Charles E. Masten, the Sausalito City Council has agreed to a six-month trial closure of one block of Caledonia Street, between Johnson Street and San Carlos Avenue, according to Wilma Young, deputy city clerk.

The chief, who served as acting city manager at Tuesday's meeting, told the Independent-Journal he believes the closur will cause no traffic problem. "The only buildings on the block are the police and fire stations," he said.

On the positive side, the chief said the street closing, scheduled to begin in early April to coincide with the start of construction of an addition to the city's fire station, would provide more parking for the police department and "greatly assist" in the fire department training program.

Masten said during training the department has trucks and hoses out in the street, which creates a hazard for motorists. "People come flying down off Johnson and turn onto Caledonia and the street is blocked by our equipment; someday, I am afraid, there is going to be an accident," he said.

The construction period was chosen for a trial closure, according to the chief because the contractor's activities would further restrict use of the street by the public.

He said he hopes for a permanent closure if the temporary closing presents no significant problem.

The Sausalito City Council Also:

GARBAGE—Authorized the city attorney to begin legal proceedings against Dr. Smith Ketchum, owner of an apartment house at Turney and Bonita streets, for repeated failure to obey a city ordinance requiring regular garbage pickup for city residences, according to Councilman Robin Sweeny. Mrs. Sweeny said the action was taken after Mrs. Russell Lessig, who operates a day nursery next to the apartments, complained there was no regular pickup at the building and accumulated garbage was attracting flies and rodents.

PARKING—Introduced an ordinance to limit parking on Pine Street, Caledonia Street and Bridgeway, to one hour.

COUNCIL MINUTES—Agreed to adopt on a trial basis an abbreviated form of council minutes, recording only actions by the council.

TREE REMOVAL—Voted to remove four trees at the intersection of Currey Avenue and Monte Mar Drive because the trees are sinking in loose ground and in danger of falling onto the street.

STREET FUNDS—Accepted $11,281 as the city's share of state funds to improve the safety of major streets.

PARKING DISTRICT — Postponed until March 3, the council's next regular meeting, discussion of a plan to establish a city parking authority.

GAS TAX HIKE—Went on record as opposing an increase in Pacific Gas and Electric Co. gas rates.

Prisoner Dies During Transfer

A San Quentin prisoner collapsed and died last night as prison guards were moving him from one cell to another, after he had set fire to his mattrress.

The coroner's office said this morning it had not determined the cause of death for Fred E. Billingslea, 25, formerly of Los Angeles.

Associate Warden James W. L. Park said Billingslea was seen setting the fire and "acting in an irrational manner" at 11 p.m. yesterday.

"Prisoners have died in cell fires," Park said, "so we decided to move him to another cell."

About midnight, Park said, four officers began moving Billingslea to another cell after unsuccessful attempts to calm him.

He was pronounced dead at 1:28 a.m. by prison medical officials.

Billingslea was serving five years to life for armed robbery in 1969 in Los Angeles. He had a history of psychiatric problems, the prison said.

Husband Finds Woman's Body

The body of Marjorie Anne Hawk, 62, was found at her home yesterday at 213 Lower Via Casitas, Greenbrae, apparently the victim of an overdose, the Marin County coroner's office has reported.

The coroner's office has scheduled an autopsy.

Her husband, Marion Arthur Hawk, made the discovery at 5:45 p.m. He said he had last seen her at 7:30 a.m. yesterday, according to the coroner's office.

His wife reportedly had been despondent over an illness. She had lived in the county for three years.

Supervisors Get Return On Lunch

Dianne Feinstein, president of the San Francisco Board of Supervisors, was so pleased with the luncheon she had in Marin three weeks ago that she wants to reciprocate with a luncheon in San Francisco.

In a letter to Chairman John F. McInnis, she invited the Marin County Board of Supervisors to a lunch with the San Francisco board on Friday, April 10.

She expressed hope that "we can once again renew pleasant acquaintanceship and, should the occasion arise, discuss in a purely informal atmosphere, civic affairs of mutual concern."

She and her colleagues were luncheon guests of the Marin County supervisors at Alta Mra Hotel in Sausalito on Feb. 6.

Thieu Foe Is Arrested In The Capitol

SAIGON (UPI) — Police forced their way into the national assenbly today and arrested a lawmaker the government of President Nguyen Van Thieu had convicted of helping the Viet Cong. He was carried off to prison.

Tran Ngoc Chau, 46, whom Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark. said had tried to arrange direct negotiations between South Vietnam and the Viet Cong, was sentenced Wednesday to 20 years at hard labor.

His lawyer had said a few hours before his arrest that the government had agreed to let Chau appeal his sentence and would apparently let him live in his office in the national assembly pending the appeal.

More than 30 police shoved and pushed about 150 newsmen from the building as they rushed into the upper floor of the assembly building. Chau was carried from the building and tossed head-first into a truck, which roared away.

Chau had worn a .38-caliber pistol while sitting in his assembly office, daring police to arrest him since Monday.

He had been convicted of activities harmful to the governnent, specifically of meeting eight times with his brother, a Communist agent.

Paris Talks Downgraded Still More

PARIS (AP) — The Vietnam peace talks slipped another notch today as the Viet Cong lowered their level of representation and the U.S. delegate did not bother to make a prepared statement at the 56th session.

North Vietnam sent its No. 3 man, Nguyen Minh Vy, to replace Ambassador Juan Thuy, who has boycotted 11 straight sessions to protest what he calls American downgrading of the talks.

The Viet Cong's delegation chief, Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh, was replaced by her No. 3, Dinh Ba Thi, to reinforce objections against what they describe as the inadequate status of the U.S. negotiator.

The object of this protest, U.S. Ambassador Philip C. Habib, came to the session for the second week running without a formal statement. He spoke extemporaneously last week, his spokesman said, as a tactic to move away from bitter diatribe.

The only man in the conference room with full No. 1 credentials was South Vietnam's ambassador, Pham Dang Lam. He gave no indication the talks were ready to move out of their verbal quagmire.

U.S. Weekly Casualty List Off; Saigon's Up

SAIGON (AP) — The number of Americans killed in the Vietnam war dropped slightly last week, while the Saigon government's total of battlefield dead increased by 139, and enemy casualties were 303 above those for the week before, the allied commands announced today.

The U.S. Command's weekly casualty report said 83 Americans were killed in action last week and 657 were wounded. The week before 96 dead and 589 wounded were reported.

South Vietnamese headquarters said 361 government troops were killed and 1,123 were wounded last week, compared with 222 and 710 the previous week. The allied commands claimed 2,469 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong killed last week; the week before the total was 2,166.

With the report, total official casualties in the war rose to 40,645 Americans killed in combat, 267,831 Americans wounded, 100,656 government troops killed, 225,525 wounded, and 603,783 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong killed.

South Vietnamese forces reported hard fighting in the Mekong Delta south of Saigon Wednesday and today, with 107 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong killed in half a dozen battles. Field reports said 18 government troops were killed and 43 were wounded.

Other South Vietnamese infantrymen sweeping south of Da Nang uncovered a North Vietnamese field hospital for 300 patients, the third such find in a week. According to captured records, 1,500 enemy soldiers died in the hospital in 1968 and 1969, 1,435 were treated there last year, and another 1,051 were sent to North Vietnam.

U.S. B52s kept up their intensive campaign against enemy base camps and supply depots along the Laotian and Cambodian borders, with about 35 of the big bombers dropping more than 1,000 tons of explosives in two areas inside South Vietnam.

Holdup Suspect Held On Three Counts

John Charles Batts, 18, of San Rafael, has been bound over to Marin Superior Court on charges of holding up a San Anselmo service station attendant Feb. 11 and having a switchblade knife and hypodermic needle when arrested Feb. 15. He is to appear in court Monday for arraignment.

Battis is accused of being the person who held up an employee of the Minto and Son station at 805 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and escaped with $150.

Morshead Seeks Seat On Water District

Jeffory Morshead of Mill Valley, 40-year-old president of Frank Howard Allen and Co., a real estate firm, has taken out petition of candidacy papers for the Division 4 seat on the Marin Municipal Water District in the June 2 election.

Morshead, a native of San Francisco, has been in the real estate business for 10 years, moving from the San Francisco peninsula to Marin in 1965. In 1966, he purchased the 60-year-old firm of Frank Howard Allen and Co.

Morshead is a director of the Marin Child Development Center and the Marin Property Owners Association, is an avid hiker and referees high school soccer games.

He said his interest in serving as a water district director is based primarily on his desire to participate in the "administration of the affairs of Marin County."

Morshead holds a masters degree in business administration from Stanford University, and a degree in geology.

He has four children and lives at 445 Throckmorton Avenue.

Housing Committee Asks Courthouse Rental Space

The Citizens Committee on Low-rent Public Housing wants to lease a portion of the old courthouse building as committee headquarters until June 15.

Ernest N. Kettenhofen, interim chairman of the committee, asked for the lease in a letter to the Marin County Board of Supervisors. The committee is campaigning for a June 2 ballot measure, which will ask the voters to approve more low-rent public housing units to be developed by the Marin County Housing Authority.

The citizens committee wants to lease at nominal cost at least 500 square feet of ground floor space on the Fifth Avenue or Court Street side of the building for use as headquarters, office, and meeting room.

The courthouse has been sold to a group of Marin businessmen, but the county still retains title to the property until the $767,000 purchase price is paid

Bus Tolls Cut On Span Agenda

Cutting bus tolls on the Golden Gate Bridge will be considered by bridge district directors at 9 a.m. tomorrow in district offices at the toll plaza.

Several Marin citizens groups have urged the district to rescind its December decision to hike bus tolls from 26 cents to $2 a round trip, a decision that triggered Greyhound Lines West's pending application to hike Marin commutation books by 95 cents for 20 rides.

Also on the agenda of the directors, meeting as the finance-auditing committee, is a proposal that tolls for pedestrians be eliminated. Elimination of the tolls would mean that no toll would be charged for bicyclists, soon to be allowed use of the west sidewalk.

The bridge board's regular meeting will follow at 10 a.m.

Guilty Plea To LSD Candy Count

Robert Reamer Jackson, 18, of San Anselmo, has pleaded guilty in Marin Superior Court to a charge of possessing LSD which had been used to spike jelly beans.

Judge E. Warren McGuire placed the youth on one year probation Tuesday and sentenced him to 45 days in jail with credit for the time he has served since his arrest Dec. 13.

Police stopped Jackson in San Anselmo because of a traffic warrant and became suspicious of the candy he had with him because a 16-year-old girl treated a few days earlier for a "bad trip" reported eating a jelly bean containing LSD.

Planning, School Items Transposed

Due to a mixup in the composing room, several items regarding actions of the San Rafael Board of Education and San Rafael Planning Commission were misplaced in yesterday's Independent-Journal.

The items headed "swimming coach," "leave," "gifts" and "closed session" which appeared under planning commission action should have been listed under school board action.

The items headed "key-lock system" and "rezoning" which appeared under school board action should have been listed under planning commission action.

Through a type-setting error there was a mistake in a story yesterday about criticism of the school board for lack of decisive action.

The original report of the subcommittee on goals of the San Rafael City Schools Citizens Advisory Committee was made four weeks ago, not four years ago.

Committees To Report

The Marin County Juvenile Delinquency Prevention Commission is slated to hear reports from the Timing and Questions committees when it meets Wednesday at 4 p.m. in Room 255 of the Hall of Justice.

Nixon Administration Plays Semantic Tricks With Us

For instance, the nation's gross national product declined by .4 of one per cent from the third to the fourth quarter of last year, and there are signs that it will show another decline for the present quarter. If that happens, the nation will be in a recession, according to economists.

BUT DON'T EXPECT to hear of a recession from the administration.

William B. Dickinson Jr. of Editorial Research Reports, commenting on the state of the economy, says:

"If the nation does find itself in a recession, the word will remain off limits to Nixon administration officials. Naturally they prefer to talk about 'cooling off,' 'slowdown,' 'squeeze,' 'recedence in output,' of 'readjustment.' "

In this, the administration will follow its well-worked out line that, while a rose by any other name may smell as sweet, a skunk cabbage by another name may not attract so much attention.

This is not a new line, of course. Other administrations have also used semantic tricks to try to make their actions more palatable to the public. But the Nixon administration is doing it exceptionally well.

WE HAVE, for instance, the "Vietnamization" of the Vietnam War.

Those with long memories may recall that the North and South Vietnamese were fighting each other for some years before we put more than a few hundred "advisers" in Saigon. But the Nixon administration refers to reducing the half-million American soldiers there to some unspecified figure (100,000? 50,000?) as "Vietnamization." It has a reassuring sound.

THEN WE HAVE the matter of the arms race.

Every time the United States puts a new missile in production, every time it starts building a launching site for a new missile yet to be produced, it is escalating the arms race by just that much.

But you may be sure the administration will never refer to these things as escalation. They are always "deterrents." It has a reassuring sound.

FOR THAT MATTER, "recession" itself is somewhat of a semantic trick word — a "weasel word." What it means, to economists, is that the nation is not producing as near capacity as it should, with increasing unemployment being the result.

If it goes on long enough, it will depress wages. Eventually, it will depress prices too.

But it is quite possible to have a recession and a price inflation at the same time. This happened, in fact, in 1948-49, when prices shot up as World War II controls were removed, yet the unemployment rate reached 7.9 per cent of the labor force. It happened again in 1957-58, and 1960-61, when decreases in jobs failed to force prices to reverse their upward climb.

AS LONG as the government is spending more than it takes in, and as long interest rates and taxes are pegged high, prices will not go down much even though there are fewer people able to afford them.

In such a situation, any sharp drop in prices is likely to signal that the whole economic structure has collapsed. Then we would have a depression.

Wonder what the administration would call that?

House Sparrows -- Everywhere

English sparrows, or house sparrows as the English call them, seem to be the most adaptable and widespread of all the birds on earth. They are friendly, cocky, little brown and gray fellows. In Marin, they must face formidable competition from the house finches, very similar birds with many of the same habits. But, even so, they are quite numerous.

In Hong Kong, children place a few grains of leftover rice upon the window ledge for this bird. This sparrow nests in the shrines of Japan and the village churches in Italy. It lives on cattle ranches of the Bogota plains in Columbia, South America, and on sheep stations in New Zealand and Australia.

Tower Of Babel Has Delayed Impact On California Schools

By HENRY MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO, — (CNS) — When the good Lord messed up the languages of the earth during the Tower of Babel incident some millenium ago, He had no idea what it was going to do to the taxpayers of California in 1970 A.D.

The multiplicity of languages in California is giving the school system nothing but trouble, according to Assemblyman Wadie P. Deddeh, D-Chula Vista.

So he has hit at first troubles first, namely the Spanish language, and has introduced emergency legislation to speed up completion of a Spanish language I.Q. test.

THE MEASURE appropriates $100,000 to the state superintendent of public instruction to finance the experimental testing of Mexican-American school children this spring.

School districts in 12 counties have agreed to cooperate in the testing program, Deddeh said.

Non-English speaking children have not been tested properly, and too many of them are being placed in classes for mentally retarded children, he said.

Recently in San Farncisco it was disclosed in a re-testing program that some 45 per cent of the so-called mentally retarded pupils were not retarded at all, but had not been given a break in the tests for the simple reason the tests were conduced in English, rather than in Spanish, which was their native tongue.

But again unfortunately, the state Department of Education, and the elementary and secondary schools of California, and the colleges, for that matter, have never been noted for efficiency in giving instruction in any foreign language. And this is not just lately, but over a long period of time.

Elementary students were not generally considered capable of learning a foreign language and therefore were nott offered courses before they got to high school.

And it might be said that niether did the schools teach English to their English-speaking students with much efficiency, gauging the results on some of the conversation and writings one hears and reads.

Candidate Perry Runs As Independent

Your editorial comment of Feb. 24, dealt with the subject of the city council elections. Your observations as to San Anselmo are quite misleading insofar as the San Anselmo Homeowners' (actually Homes) Association is concerned.

I am an independent candidate, not running on a ticket nor under the sponsorship of any special interest group, organization, nor the S.A. Homes Association. While I am supported by a number of persons who are members of the S.A. Homes I do not have its endorsement, nor does any other candidate as far as I know.

Stewart Says He's Not On 'Ticket'

I was so surprised to read in the I-J last night that I have been teamed on a ticket with two other candidates for San Anselmo City Council that I dropped my cup of coffee on the living room floor.

While I can guess the other two candidates may have been equally astonished, I would like to point out that I am campaigning on a slate with only one person: myself.

Thanks for setting the record straight.

You Missed Harmer? Well He Was Near

I read your editorial Feb. 14, with a great deal of interest, particularly the paragraph which states that John L. Harmer of Glendale, candidate for attorney general, State of California, has not campaigned extensively in northern California. For your information, there is a Harmer county chairman in practically every one of the 48 northern counties and numerous city chairmen, finance chairmen, precinct chairmen, etc. The organization for John Harmer is just about completed in all of the 48, and we are waging an energetic and extensive campaign in the north. Senator Harmer has been on the road both north and south since the first of the year and has appeared at meetings, luncheons, dinners, etc. in 25 counties and 42 cities. . .

The senator will be in Marin County at a reception sponsored by the Republican Central Committee on March 23 at Sabella's Restaurant from 5:30 to 7:30.

Five Brave Men Sentenced Unjustly

Last week in Chicago five brave men were sentenced to five years plus $5,000 for inciting a riot. They had been convicted on their actions during the 1968 Democratic convention in Chicago. I believe that these sentences were completely unjust and too harsh, for advocating some changes in the American system. This country, in all aspects of it, is still functioning on principles of the 19th century.

American people do not seem to realize that they make up less than 1/17 of the world's population, but we firmly believe that we know what's right for the other three-plus billion people on the earth. Unless America changes certain aspects of life, which have been with us since our origin, we may not be around to see the future.

What the Chicago Seven had to say, and all those other brave individuals, who have protested against Vietnam and racial discrimination, has a large amount of creadence (sic). If the change doesn't come within the next few years, and I don't mean a violent change, but a peaceful revolution, then the change might just then be a violent one.

Last of all, I want to commend the seven for standing up for something they believe in, and pointing their noses to the Agnews, Daleys and the Hoffmans. Peace.

Disruption Seems To Go Unpunished

I would like to congratulate Mr. Clifford Lund on his very timely and clear sentiments on our recent invasion, and am sure they are the sentiments of a lot of Marinites.

Yes we also wonder just how much punishment will be meted out to these hoodlums. So far the people seem to get away with all the recent disrespect and disruption they have caused in other cities.

I would like to add a word of congratulations also to Judge Julius Hoffman for his stand on his very recent experience — wish we had more like him.

And why are our students allowed to travel back and forth to Cuba to be trained for the disruption of our society?

WORTH SAYING AGAIN

Many of our problems stem from adult unwillingness to assert authority because it is often irksome to the young. Of course it is irksome and always has been, for it is the nature of youth to chafe under restraint. Troop Cut Proposal Brings Usual Plaints

(Reprinted from St. Louis Post-Dispatch)

Now that a majority of senators has signed Senator Mansfield's resolution calling for a reduction of American troop strenght in Europe, the State Department has leaped into the breach to lead a campaign for preserving the status quo. Undersecretary Richardson has trotted out the usual arguments against a troop cut, but they are no more persuasive than they used to be. Mainly they show that the State Department, as always, is incapable of imagining a state of things unlike the state of things it has been living with.

Mr. Richardson fears that if we bring home any of the 310,000 men and their dependents who are now maintained in Europe at great expense the European members of NATO might follow suit and reduce their own contributions. But of course our NATO partners have already done that, in the sense that they never fulfilled their quotas in the first place. We doubt that Mr. Richardson takes his own argument seriously, for when he really gets down to shaking the scare symbols what he relies on is precisely the opposite line—that any cut in our troop level might impel the West Germans to fill the vacuum, and that would alarm the Russians, unsettle Eastern Europe and dismay those peace-loving Germans who don't want a big military establishment.

THE UNDERSECRETARY also gets himself into a strange box when he discusses the balance of payments cost of maintaining present U.S. troop levels. The cost, he admits, is 1.5 billion dollars a year, but he points out that this is offset in part by our requirement that the West Germans buy military equipment from us. And then he solemnly warns that if we bring troops home we will lose some military sales, and maybe other exports, to the West Germans! This is like arguing that man must go on hitting himself over the head lest he lose the comfort of the liniment with which he eases his pain.

Eventually the State Department's case boils down to the familiar claim that we must maintain a military presence in Europe in order to convince any would-be aggressor that we are fully committed to Europe's defense. But it is never shown why fewer troops won't accomplish that end quite as well as the present 310,000. Not too long ago, we had 400,000 men in Europe. If reducing that commitment did not lessen Europe's basic security, why would a further reduction lessen it?

PRESIDENT Eisenhower used to say that one American division in Europe would serve the "hostage" function of deterrence quite as well as six. At one stage in his presidency he proposed to do exactly what Senator Mansfield now proposes, but was talked out of it by his military advisers.

The United States does have a commitment to defend Europe, but it is idle to think that 310,000 men on the ground actually deter aggression. The deterrent is our own nuclear power, based in the United States. Our troop strength can be cut without abandoning our commitment to Europe, and many advantages would accrue from doing so without delay.

Laotian 'Twilight War' Gets A Little Daylight

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

The "twilight war" in Laos gradually is coming into full daylight, attracting more discussion about the U.S. commitment there, what it's costing, who is running it and who is fighting it.

The fact that in four out of five recent days U.S. B52s were diverted from other assignments to support Laotian forces retreating from the Plain of Jars suggests the U.S. commitment in the air is about total.

Then comes a shadowland of American advisers of unknown numbers directing the war from a secret headquarters and of "spook" airlines under direction of the Central Intelligence Agency air-dropping food and military supplies.

IT IS NOT a situation designed to make the Nixon administration happy but it is defended as an operation necessary to prevent Laos from falling totally into Communist hands.

A transcript of a secret session of the U.S. Senate released in late January suggested U.S. military and economic aid to Laos this year will come to about $190 million —$90 million for the regular Laotian army, $50 million for economic aid and another $50 million for secret operations not identified.

Most of the latter money, it was assumed, would go to support an army known appropriately enough as the Armee Clandestine.

IT IS AN ARMY of 40,000 full and part-time fighters drawn from the Meo hill people living in the Laotian northeast.

Their commander is Maj. Gen. Vang Pao, a small, wiry flamboyant man who is himself a Meo and rated one of the most effective and honest Laotian generals.

A former sergeant in the French army, he is fluent in barracks-room language in both French and English. His reputation is that when he receives American rifles he uses them against the North Vietnamese and the local Communist Pathet Lao instead of permitting them to slip into the black market.

He not only leads the guerrilla fighters but also is a general in the Laotian regular army with responsibility for a large area of Lao's defense. His leadership and a sharp political sense have won him the following of all the estimated 225,000 Meos in Laos.

His five or six wives have been drawn from influential Meo clans.

HIS MEN are taught to fight and withdraw after exacting as heavy a toll as possible, a pattern apparently followed by Vang Pao and his CIA advisers in the retreat from the Plain of Jars.

The plain is important strategically because it opens onto a crossroads that could lead either to the administrative capital of Vientiane to the south or the royal capital of Luang Prabang in the north.

Politically, it is a card in the Paris peace talks where territory held by either side could be a factor in the final settlement.

What Started Water Pollution?

The Cleanest Shirts In Town

WASHINGTON — Everyone talks about water pollution, but no one seems to know who started it. The history of modern water pollution in the United States dates back to Feb. 28, 1931, when Mrs. Frieda Murphy leaned over her back yard fence and said to Mrs. Sophie Holbrook, "You call those shirts white?"

Mrs. Holbrook blushed and said, "They're as white as I can get them with this ordinary laundry soap."

"What you should use is this Formula Cake soap which guarantees against the dull washtub-gray look that the family wash has always had."

SKEPTICAL but adventurous, Mrs. Holbrook tried the Formula Cake soap, which happily did take the gray out of her husband's shirts. But what Mrs. Holbrook didn't know was that after the water was drained from the tub, it emptied into the sewer, which emptied into the Blue Sky River, killing two fish.

Three years later Mrs. Murphy leaned over the fence and said to Mrs. Holbrook, "It's none of my business, but are you still using that Formula Cake soap?"

"Yes I am."

"I can never get the dirt off the collar," Mrs. Holbrook cried.

"You can if you use Klonk Soap Chips. They were designed especially for collar dirt. Here, you can have my box."

MRS. HOLBROOK used the Klonk and the next time her husband put on his shirt he remarked, "How on earth did you get the collar clean?"

"That's my secret," said Mrs. Holbrook, and then she whispered to no one in particular, "and Mrs. Murphy's."

Four years later, Mrs. Murphy was hanging up her shirts and Mrs. Holbrook said, "How did you ever get your cuffs so white, surely not with Klonk?"

"Not ordinary Klonk," Mrs. Murphy said. "But I did with Super Fortified Klonk with the XLP additive. You see, Super Fortified Klonk attacks dirt and destroys it. Here, try it on your shirts."

MRS. HOLBROOK DID and discovered her husband's shirt cuffs turned pure white. What she couldn't possibly know was that it turned the river water pure white as well.

The years went by, and poor Mrs. Murphy died. Her daughter-in-law took over the house. Mrs. Holbrook noticed how the daughter-in-law used to always sing as she hung up her wash.

"Why do you always sing?" asked Mrs. Holbrook.

"Because of this New Dynamite detergent. It literally dynamites my clothes clean. Here, try it, and then let's go to a movie, since Dynamite detergent takes the drudgery out of washing."

SIX MONTHS LATER the Blue Sky River was declared a health hazard.

Finally, last year Mrs. Murphy's daughter-in-law called over to Mrs. Holbrook, "Have you heard about Zap, the enzyme giant killer?"

A few days later, as Mr. Holbrook was walking home from work, he accidentally fell into the Blue Sky River, swallowed a mouthful of water and died immediately.

At the funeral service the minister said, "You can say anything you want about Holbrook, but no one can deny he had the cleanest shirts in town."

AN EDUCATOR'S VIEW

One Type Of Recruiting Unhampered On Campus

By JOHN W. GILBAUGH
Professor of Education
San Jose State College

Campus left-wing radicals continue to commit violence against recruiters for business, industry, and the armed forces. In some institutions ROTC has been downgraded or abandoned entirely. And some college presidents have surrendered to the militant leftists by suspending all campus recruitment activity.

But there is one kind of recruitment which has flourished in colleges and universities across the nation. And it has had full support of the student radicals. That has been enlistment of comrades for the Communist Party, and recruitment of students for organizations which have openly declared their loyalty to Chinese, Cuban, and Russian Communism.

ONE RADICAL student group ushered in the decade of the 1970s on Jan. 5 by launching a membership drive for an organization that calls itself the American Student Movement. This organization, which has virtually renounced its allegiance to the United States, carried out a recruitment campaign on San Jose State College's Seventh Street Mall. Left-wing radicalism has become so dominant at that location, many students now refer to the mall as San Jose State's "Little Red Square."

To illustrate the extent of determination and the goals to be achieved by the American Student Movement, some random excerpts are extracted from propaganda leaflet disseminated on the SJS campus:

"WE ANNOUNCE the formation of the American Student Movement (anti-imperialist) which comes forward to serve the interests of the working and oppressed people who will totally and completely defeat U. S. imperialism through armed revolution and the establishment of the dictatorship of the proletariat. ASM suports and reognizes the leadership of the American Communist Workers' Movement (Marxist-Leninist) which is creatively applying to Mao Tsetung thought as a guide to action in releasing the initiative of the masses and building a Marxist-Leninist party, the political weapon of the proletariat in defeating U. S. imperialism. The American Student Movement takes as its tasks: (1) to wage mass democratic struggles in the universities against all forms of bourgeois ideology and practice and in particular to combat the rise of fascism by doing vigorous propaganda in support of: Marxism-Leninism-Mao Tsetung thought and the People's Republic of China, great red bastion of world anti-imperialism and socialist revolution, — the struggles of the American working class and of black and brown peoples,— the national liberation struggles, especially those in Palestine and Quebec and the Armed Agrarian Revolution in India. (2) To mobilize students to actively support the struggles of the working class and black and brown peoples against exploitaiton and political repression at the place of work and in the community."

The final entry on the Red recruitment brochure: "Long live Mao Tsetung Thought, Highest Development of Marxism-Leninism and Guide to Victory of the Anti-Imperialist Revolution!"

Lucas Valley Fire Pact Renewed By Marinwood

Marinwood Community Services District board has agreed to renew the fire protection agreement for Lucas Valley community service area charging $27,250 to Lucas Valley residents.

The contract, which was approved by the Lucas Valley Homeowners Association earlier this month, is based on the percentage of assessed evaluation of both areas. As Lucas Valley is 31.5 per cent of the total, the fire department's budget is based on that figure, according to Genevieve T. Bolding, board secretary.

The agreement, for fiscal year 1970-71, must still be approved by the county board of supervisors, she added.

The directors Tuesday night also gave approval to the first phase of a proposed playground at the park on Las Gallinas Avenue.

A detailed plan for the playground was given by Allen Horobin, Maintenance Supervisor, which calls for a $2,100 expenditure.

Because the playground plan had been designed for children of preschool age through 13 years, the board objected to approving the entire plan as there is a decreasing number of preschool children in Marinwood, Mrs. Bolding reported.

However, she added, they finally approved the $450 need for the park's first phase of laying concrete over a washed out area.

Marinwood Community Services Board Also:

APPOINTMENTS — Appointed Charles A. Roach, chairman of the salary and fringe benefits committee; Frank Solomon Jr., liaison director to work with the parks and recreation commission; and Ellis D. Jaquette, liaison director to the fire commission.

BUDGET INCREASE —Approved the expenditure of an additional $1,300 from the reserve fund for fire fighting equipment such as flood lights and fire hoses.

SENIOR CITIZENS — Approved preliminary budget figure of $1,000 for community senior citizens program. Board was told that 50 per cent would be reimbursed by the county.

WATER METER — Approved leasing a water meter from the Marin Municipal Water District, so a planted area not reached by the community center's sprinkler system could be watered.

POOL FEES — Agreed that the fees charged for use of the community swimming pool should remain the same. Charges are: $35 a season for a resident family; $100 a season for non-resident family; and $17.50 a season for single residents.

A second count of manslaughter was dismissed.

Hall will be arraigned Monday by Judge Robert Drew. Bail has been set at $1,200.

The California Highway Patrol said Hall's pickup truck crossed a center divider on an approach to Golden Gate Bridge and hit a car head-on, killing Hall's passenger, William B. Lewis of Fairfax, and injuring Hall and five others.

Ex-New Careers Aide Held In Jail

I-J SPECIAL REPORT

SAN FRANCISCO — Michael R. James, 28, Marin's former New Careers program coordinator, is being held in San Francisco Jail pending a March 10 preliminary hearing in Municipal Court.

James, arrested Dec. 8 in San Farncisco on suspicion of possession of heroin, was taken into custody Friday on a warrant after he failed to appear for a hearing Jan. 13.

Bail was denied because of previous failure to appear.

San Francisco police said James had several small balloons containing what appeared to be heroin when he was arrested in the Fillmore District Dec. 8.

Following his arrest, James, who had a previous prison record, was fired from his $11,808 per year job with the county. He had been hired Oct. 17 by the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

SACRAMENTO SUMMARY

'Forgotten' Mental Patient Program Alarming To Post

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post contends that mental patients transferred from state hospitals to locally operated community treatment programs are being "forgotten."

The state Department of Mental Hygiene said it doesn't know what he is talking about, and a state lawmaker reported the problem is even bigger than Post indicates.

Post told the Senate Finance Committee Wednesday that in its zeal to virtually replace the mental hospital system with community treatment programs, the state has failed to guarantee that patients will receive the same level of care at local clinics and hospital.

"What has happened in the community program is that you put him (a patient) in a facility and forget him," he asserted during a briefing on Gov. Ronald Reagan's proposed $6.5 billion state budget.

He termed the situation a "blind spot" in such state-subsidized local treatment programs as those provided by the Short-Doyle Act and the Lanterman-Petris-Short Act.

Post recommended that the legislature increase by $500,000 Reagan's spending program for the Department of Mental Hygiene to hire a staff of "monitors." They would check up on discharged patients and make sure they received proper

VIOLENCE

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A Long Beach legislator who told an Assembly committee "the place for due process is the courthouse, not the campus," lost his bid for a bill to force dismissal of teachers who advocate violence.

Assemblyman Mike Cullen, D-Long Beach, told the Assembly Criminal Procedure Committee Wednesday that "due process on campus is a paid vacation."

Cullen's proposal would require immediate dismissal of any public employe who advocates violent overthrow of the government "or the unlawful burning or destroying of property."

Committee Chairman Frank Murphy Jr., R-Santa Cruz, said he feared the proposal could swamp California courts by allowing "anyone who has a political disagreement . . . with any public official . . . to go to court and ask to have his job taken away."

Said Assemblyman Robert W. Crown, D-Alameda, "It's worrisome to me to apply a political test without the mechanism to protect the rights of the individual."

RECORDS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assemblyman William Campbell, R-Hacienda Heights, today proposed three bills to prohibit the sale, distribution or unauthorized inspection of Department of Motor Vehicles records.

Campbell said the legislation resulted from investigations by his office and the legislative analyst's office on the department's longtime practice of selling information on driver's licenses and vehicle registrations to private companies such as mail advertising firms.

ECOLOGY

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A Southern California assemblyman says a typical area of the state ought to be set aside and made the subject of a pilot program on environment management.

John V. Briggs, R-Fullerton, said Wednesday such a project would lead to a statewide environment protection plan and would limit both the cost and the hazards of a statewide trial-and-error approach to environment problems.

Briggs proposal calls for taking $150,000 from legislative contingency funds for a study of the total environment of a particular region.

CONFLICT

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Assemblyman David A. Roberti, D-Los Angeles, Wednesday introduced legislation to prohibit persons with a financial interest in auto manufacturing or any other air contaminating business from holding membership on the State Air Resources Board.

One of those on the 14-member ARB is a trucking executive, David S. Adams.

A previous member appointed by Gov. Reagan but no longer on the board was a California plant manager for General Motors.

Quints' Howling Pleases Doctors

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Kienast quintuplets, exercising the prerogative of all newborn babies, howled lustily throughout their first day of life Wednesday, delighting doctors concerned with breathing problems connected with premature births.

The five children were born six weeks early Tuesday night to Mrs. Margaret Kienast, Far Hills, N.J., who had taken fertility drugs to overcome ovulation problems.

Mrs. Kienast, 27, had also taken the drug Perganol before the birth of her other children, a 4 ½ year-old daughter and an 18-month-old son. She and her salesman husband, William, 38, had been warned to expect triplets and possibly quadruplets.

How Teachers View Classroom Aides

MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

"Education is such a sacred cow — when changes come about, often the public panics," says Mrs. Theodore R. Keiler, teacher aide coordinator for the Mill Valley School District.

Mrs. Keiler was speaking of the criticisms some parents seem to have about the teacher aide program.

"They fear that teachers may be just trying to get rid of the work they are paid to do by passing it off on aides who may be unqualified," she says.

After recommending that the situation might be clarified by talking to three of the teachers who work with the system at the Alto School in Mill Valley, she set up an interview with Mrs. Dee Uyeda and Mrs. Denny O'Brien, team teachers for the second and third grades, and Mrs. Helen De Berry, a first grade teacher who has taught in the Mill Valley School District since 1954 and knows what the old system was like without teacher aides.

WHAT CREATES the need for aides, they all agreed, is the current emphasis on individualized instruction.

Mrs. Uyeda and Mrs. O'Brien are assisted in dealing with 57 children by five mothers, one college senior, one high school student and three junior high school students.

Dee Uyeda says, "We have far more work than we used to because of the great amount of time spent on each student, and we need help from a wide variety of adults and others."

"We fell the individual attention is so worth while," Mrs. O'Brien says, "because it makes learning more personalized. We feel that both the slow learners, who formerly were left behind, and the fast learners, who used to get bored, are benefitted. Perviously we used to hit only about the middle 10 per cent."

Anyone who thinks they are just shoving off their duties on other people should visit the classes, the three teachers suggest.

Some parents come because they feel threatened about what is happening, the teachers say, and some come because they are merely curious. Whatever the reason, parents are welcome, the teachers emphasize, and are even encouraged to come, whereas formerly teachers were not so eager to have them.

AS FOR UNSKILLED people being given things to do that only teachers should do, Mrs. O'Brien says, "they are given things to do for which they are qualified in subject matter. Besides many of our aides are highly educated and some have been teachers."

Mrs. Uyeda poinnts out, "some people have the concept that aides are presenting new material, but they give instruction only under the direction of teachers who have made the original presentation."

If parents do visit the classes, the two teachers both recommend that they should be sure to stay a long enough time to understand what is really going on.

Mrs. De Berry, who remembers the old system all too well, says, "I have never worked as hard in my life as under this system. I still work

DISCUSSING SOME of the common interests in connection with the teacher aide program at Alto School in Mill Valley are three of the teachers. From left, they are first grade teacher Helen De Berry and second/third grade team teachers Denny O'Brien and Dee Ulyeda. Principal Dominic Bobbio said the present program of individualized instruction would be impossible without teacher aides. (Independent-Journal photo)

LT. COL. (ret.) Robert Rankin, helping Alto School first grader Kelly Seaver with her arithmetic, is one of the men who are very welcome as teacher aides. Formerly an instructor at Lehigh University in Pennsylvania, he is one of the many aides who are far from the unskilled helpers some parents fear aides may be. He says, "There is no better way to find out what is happening to your children in the way of education than being a teacher aide."

Experience And A Few Tips May Stretch Food Budget

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures

As food prices rise, young marrieds find it increasingly difficult to make ends meet. There is no substitute for experience in learning how to plan meals to cut food bills, but the new homemaker may want to heed these tried and true tips for beating the budget:

1. Buy a good, old-fashioned well-rounded with basic recipes cookbook. It will be worth the investment.

2. If you have a freezer or freezer compartment in your refrigerator buy meats in quantity and freeze them. Do not take up a small amount of freezer space with items that cost only a few cents.

3. Cut down on foods that aren't necessities—snacks, olives, cherries, expensive prepared frozen foods. Some prepared dinners, however, are worth the price— particularly if two people work. You must decide. Fresh or canned foods may be less expensive than frozen foods, weight by weight.

4. Buy large quantities of sugar, flour, meat. You can repackage these in plastic bags and store them. Bread, oleo, butter may be kept in the freezer. In some areas, you may save 20 cents on a gallon of milk by buying in bulk instead of by the quart.

THERE ARE many ways to cut the meat bill.

Buy meat on sale for two or four weeks at a time. In the beginning this sytem may dent the food budget, but you will get ahead eventually.

If pork is on sale, buy a loin or more and have it cut into chops. Package the number of chops needed for each meal separately and put the extra packages in the freezer.

A leg of lamb, cut in half, should make two Sunday meals. Or you might have one end cut into chops.

BUY STEW veal in quantity. Your cookbook will provide any number of yummy dishes in which it can be used. Try it with tomatoes and peppers, with sour cream, in curry sauce, with vegetables. Divide it for future meals, put it into plastic bags and store.

Enjoy the challenge of making less-expensive cuts of meat taste good. Chuck steak may be marinated and pan-fried or broiled. A thick cut may be pot roasted. Slow cooking is best for chuck.

She offers these pointers for selecting a chicken:

A whole chicken always costs less than cut-up sections, but many people prefer breasts and legs. The following price comparison will help you decide whether to buy chicken parts or the whole chicken.

IF THE WHOLE chicken costs 45 cents a pound, the breasts are a good buy at 63 cents or less a pound, drumsticks 55 cents, wings at 36 cents a pound.

If the price per pound of the whole chicken is 55 cents, you can get equal value by paying 78 cents a pound for breasts, 68 cents a pound for drumsticks and 44 cents a pound for wings.

If you find it makes dollars and cents sense to buy the whole bird, use the less meaty parts for broth, in a casserole, in chicken pie or chicken curry.

One last bit of advice: if you've never before cut up your own chicken, ask your butcher if you can watch him do this chore. Otherwise, you can make a real mess.

FRENCH STYLES IN THE CAPITOL

It weighs next to nothing. Won't wrinkle. (We mean Never.) And when soiled, you simply wash and drip dry. It's the little silk-seeming knit of international fame, and two such (one covered, one bare) can take a girl around the world and back again. In fact, we believe in this kind of dressing so much (and that goes for city life too) that we have it in a whole pack of groovy colors and prints and styles. His Friends Speak Of Marriage As Something To Stay Out Of

DEAR HELEN:

I too would like to comment on the knock your mate syndrome. I have many married friends, mainly guys, as I belong to a judo club which seems a mecca for unhappy couples. Maybe they take out their aggressions here?

Most of my friends speak of marriage as something to stay out of, and they do a lot of playing around. Discontent runs the gamut in age, from young to middle-aged and older. They almost consistently downgrade their mates.

The wives are extremely distrustful of their husbands, but they don't do much to make them prefer home life. If you're single and even half way attractive, they close you out. I have no designs on their men, but they'd never believe me.

I'm lucky. I come from a very happy home. My parents care about each other and say so. But I'm beginning to think they're unusual. If it's this abnormal for a man and woman to keep on loving after marriage, then I'm like "Swinging Single"—I'll be one too. DISILLUSIONED TEENAGER

DEAR HELEN:

I've been married seven years to the most wonderful man alive. But none of my friends seem to have this same blessing. So when we girls get together and they start complaining about their mates, I feel guilty about saying good things about my husband. From their looks, they imply I'm not telling the whole truth, or maybe my husband has a good thing going on the side and that's why he's so nice to me. Moreover, it sounds like bragging.

Mostly I just sit quietly and leave early, but sometimes I'm drawn into the nit-picking. You start telling the things that bug you, just to be in the swim.

I hope its this way with my friends—maybe they exaggerate the bad or annoying so they'll have a good story to tell. Surely I couldn't be the only one around with a great guy. — ONE IN A MILLION?

DEAR ONE:

Why don't you start a "Praise your Mate" hour? It might go over big. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

"Swinging Single's" friends have undoubtedly kept chores and responsibilities — perhaps they're a bit envious of her freedom. But what they can't tell her are the little things that make it worth while: The surprise on your husband's face when you've spent all day cooking his favorite meal, or maybe you polished his golf clubs in your spare time. Or the look in his eyes that says "I'm lucky I married you": a wink, a kiss, a touch—signs that say something only you and he understand.

No, marriage isn't all a bed of roses. There are many times during they day when I don't feel like singing its praise. With four loads of wash to do, a stack of ironing staring at me, a dinner to cook and a seven-months old daughter who wants attention, it's not hard to find yourself thinking of your carefree, self-centered single days.

But at night, with the baby tucked in bed and John and I the only two people in the world, somehow I can't remember all the chaos of a few hours earlier. Lying beside him, protected in his loving arms, and soothed by his gentle voice—there is no substitute for this kind of happiness.

Trapped? Yes I'm trapped—in my feelings for my man. I love him, need him, want him. I can't escape these feelings. Thank God they are mutual. — MRS. J.W.S.

P.S. No, I'm not an outdated romanticist. I'm 21, with a lot of happy years ahead.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

"People think that having aides is easy, but I have to plan a program for each one of them so that her time is spent to the children's and to my advantage. I have to see that every one has enough work to keep her busy all day.

"Before we had teacher aides every child used to do the same thing at the same time and on the same page. Those children not ready simply became failures and the bright ones become bored."

"There are about 200 aides working the eight Mill Valley schools," Mrs. Keiler says, but many more are needed. If you are curious about the schools, tours are fine. But if you really want to find what is happening, be a teacher aide," she suggests.

"ONE OF THE successful changes in the system is that parents may work in the schools their children attend, formerly not permitted. I find that the advantages of this are "far more interest, enthusiasm and support from parents."

Dominic Bobbio, principal of the Alto School, gave the strongest argument of all for the teacher aide program.

"Our present program of individualization and personalized education could not be done without teacher aides," he stated.

Water District Plans Southern Marin Move

The Marin Municipal Water District board yesterday made clear its determination to get into the Southern Marin waste disposal business when it ordered a resolution prepared declaring its intention to form an improvement district for the trunking and treatment of sewage.

The board had previously put itself on record as favoring such a move, but yesterday's action followed a request from district Gen. Mgr. William R. Seeger that the board formally indicate its intention prior to a March 5 meeting of representatives of the 10 sanitary districts which would be affected.

The districts are Tamalpais Valley, Homestead Valley, Mill Valley, Alto, Richardson Bay, Tiburon, Belvedere, Sausalito-Marin City, Almonte and Kay Park.

The March 5 meeting will be at 8 p.m. at Strawberry Point School.

Seeger told the board that the district should tell the meeting that the district is either in or out as far as sewage is concerned.

"For good government and for Marin County, we should go," he said.

He said the proposal was in line with recommendations of the Brown and Caldwell report on a Marin master sewage plan released last year, and that previous objections should not arise because the district has no intention of getting involved in internal collection systems.

The Marin Water District Board Also:

RELOCATION—Approved an agreement with the state to relocate 820 feet of 12-inch pipeline on the Shoreline Highway, near Richardson Bay Bridge. Directors approved Seeger's recommendation that the pipe be upsized to 16 inches. The state will pay relocation costs and the district, the $5,885 cost of upsizing.

A pipeline extension agreement which the board entered into Jan. 28 with Joseph Pell for the water facilities required to serve the Hilltop Apartment complex, provided that Pell construct a 150,000 gallon tank. The board yesterday agreed to spend the $15,775 necessary to increase the tank capacity.

REFUND—Was advised that a $25,317 refund due the district from the county department of public works in connection with the construction of the Nicasio Road in 1962 would be paid shortly. The money had been held by the state pending settlemen of an unsuccessful claim filed against the county by the contractor, Stecker Co.

The club presently pays $500 a year for the 160 acres of district land.

FIRELINE EXTENSION—Approved a 250-foot pipeline extension agreement with the City of Fairfax. The $4,730 cost of the extension along Laurel Drive will be split evenly between Fairfax and the district. The board decided on eight-inch, rather than six-inch, pipe and will pay the additional $515 required.

Sides Still Split About Road's Safety

Developers of the Marin View Subdivision and Tamalpais Valley Parents have failed again to agree on the safety of an access road to the development.

The parents, backed by a petition containing more than 300 signatures, told a meeting of about 100 persons at the Tamalpais Valley Improvement Club hall Tuesday night that the road is too close to Tamalpais Valley School. Suggestions ranged from closing it to installing strict traffic controls, according to Gloria Spencer, president of the Tam Valley Parent-Teacher Association.

Representatives of Allan-Marin, developers of the projected 900-unit subdivision, defended the safety of the street called County View Road, intersecting at Bell Lane and Enterprise Concourse.

They said the road, to be outfitted with various traffic controls, would be among the lightest travelled when compared to streets near other schools in Marin.

The Tuesday meeing was also attended by county and Mill Valley School District officials.

Driver Swoons; Riders Halt Bus

6OAKLAND (UPI) — Three men were credited with averting a possible Bay Bridge tragedy Wednesday when they successfully brought an AC Transit bus to a halt after its driver had suffered a fainting spell.

"I was sitting six seats away when a few of us noticed something peculiar about the driver," said Kern Brice, one of the passengers. "Suddenly, he just fell over on the wheel."

Brice, a UPI teletype operator, said he "grabbed the wheel while another man kicked the driver's foot off the accelerator."

A third man, Joel Brooks, steered the bus, which was westbound in the centerlane,to an outside lane and parked it.

The passengers were then transferred to another bus and driven into San Francisco.

The driver, L.F. "Lou" Bone, 58, was taken to Kaiser Hospital where he was reported in good condition.

Freedoms Foundation Honors Marin Man

Chester C. Vargas Jr., of 18 Eucalyptus Road, Belvedere, was among nine California individuals and organizations cited this week by the Freedoms Foundation for patriotism.

Vargas, a San Francisco management consultant, received the George Washington Honor Medal for a letter to the editor. Freedoms Foundation is a non profit organization in Valley Foreg, Pa.

Mark Rothke Found Dead In His Studio

NEW YORK (UPI) — Pioneer abstract expressionist Mark Rothko died of apparently self-inflicted wounds in his Manhattan studio Wednesday. Rothko, 66, was considered by many one of the greatest artists of his generation.

Rothko, whose name was Marcus Rothkovitch, was born Sept. 25, 1903, in Russia and immigrated to the United States with his father, a pharmacist in 1913, and settled in Portland, Ore.

He went to Yale in 1921, but left after two years and finally wound up in New York, where he began taking formal artistic training at the Art Students League. His paintings were first shown in a group exhibition in 1929.

It wasn't until the 1940's his work began to absorb surrealistic influence. His first one-man show was at Peggy Guggenheim's Art of This Century Gallery.

By the late 1940's his art had assumed the completely abstract forms it followed until his death.

Rothko also taught art for most of his life. From 1929 until 1952 he taught children at the Center Academy in Brooklyn and in the summers of 1947 and 1949 he taught at the California School of Fine Arts in San Francisco.

Although his early career was marked by struggle and lack of recognition, his fortunes rose as abstract expressionism became better known in the works of Jackson Pollock, Willem de Kooning and Robert Motherwell.

Rothko had a heart attack a year ago and friends said he had been despondent since then. He was found dead in his studio Wednesday with his wrists slashed and the Chief Medical Examiner's office listed his death as suicide.

Cotati School Area Change Hits Snag

New petitions for boundary changes must be circulated because of a legal technicality, the Cotati School District board has been told.

Petitions for the district boundary to include allof the City of Rohnert Park had been circulated by Maruice Fredericks, a board member. Board secretary Miriam Horne said they will be ruled illegal because they should have been circulated by a resident of the new area and not a board member.

The proposed area, which is laregly uninhabited, is now in the rural Bellvue School District. A chief petitioner from among the property owners or residents will be sought.

The Cotati School District also:

AIRPLANE — Heard a report that the proposed airplane ride for kindergarten students has been dropped because of high costs.

Shriver May Run For Governor

WASHINGTON (AP) — R. Sargent Shriver, a member of the politically potent Kennedy family, is giving up his job as ambassador to France and apparently setting his sights on a race for Maryland's governorship.

Sources disclosed Wednesday night that Shriver, brother-in-law of the late President John F. Kennedy, is relinquishing the diplomatic post he has held since the administration of former President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Shriver, contacted at the French Embassy where he was attending a dinner for French President Georges Pompidou, said he submitted his resignation several months ago but declined to say whether he had recently urged Nixon to accept it.

The 54-year-old former director of the Peace Corps and the Office of Economic Opportunity has been under pressure from some Maryland Democrats to seek the nomination for governor and reports have circulated for months that he would make the move.

Shriver, who has a home in Maryland, said last November he would "continue to gauge the situation" in the state and decide by March whether to seek the governorship. The incumbent is Gov. Marvin Mandel, a Democrat who is serving the last two years of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's term as governor.

Mandel is expected to run for re-election but Shriver already is on record as saying he is prepared to fight a primary battle. "One doesn't consider party harmony or serenity in matters of political decisions," Shriver said earlier in Baltimore.

State College Tuition Vote Off Until March

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The State College Board of Trustees Wednesday voted to take up the issue of tuition or increased student fees for the 19-campus system at the board's March meeting.

The vote to delay any action until next month came after the board heard a strong appeal from Gov. Ronald Reagan, an ex officio member and backer of tuition. Afterward, Reagan said the delay came as no surprise to him but said he was "satisfied" to take up the matter at the March 25 meeting.

Last week, the University of California Board of Regents voted the first tuition ever for the UC system. The UC plan called for $150 next fall and $300 the following year.

In other action, the board voted unanimously to continue year-round operations at four campuses.

The board also voted to assign a team of auditors to investigate the possibility of land speculation by consultants hired by the state colleges.

In other action the board:

—Named Dr. Bernard L. Hyink, a professor of political science at Cal State Fullerton since 1960 and vice president for academic affairs since 1964, as president of Sacramento State College.

—Approved use of student fees to pay for draft counseling services, as long as the counseling is done under the auspices of the colleges.

—Increased the materials service fee for part-time student from $27 per semester and $18 per quarter to $54 per semester and $36 per quarter equal to that paid by fulltime students.

—Asked the Coordinating Council for Higher Education to permit the trustees to proceed with a new college in San Mateo County, to handle the enrollment overflow from San Francisco State and San Jose State.

Plank Seeks Shorter Day Once A Week

San Rafael elementary schools will have one school day each week shortened to the state minimum next year if a proposal by Supt. John F. Plank is approved.

In school newsletters sent home by pupils this week, Plank proposed that one day each week be set apart for teacher in-service training, with the school day shortened to provide time for this.

"Monday morning, for example would be designated as teacher in-service time, and school would begin for the pupils at 10 o'clock," he wrote. "The two morning hours would be used for planning, attending workshops, discussions, and the like."

State law requires a minimum school day of four hours 40 minutes to qualify for state education funds. The shortened day proposed for once each week would meet this minimum requirement.

Such shortened days already are used for teacher training institutes twice each year, and occasionally for other purposes.

The proposal has not been discussed by the San Rafael Board of Education.

Firm Hired For Library Needs Survey

The San Rafael Library board last night voted to hire the Consulting Organization of San Francisco, headed by Donald R. Hegstrom, to make a survey of San Rafael library needs.

The survey would precede engaging an architect to design whatever additional library facilities it finds to be needed.

Eleanor G. Murray, library board president, will present the recommendation to the city council at its Monday night meeting. The council has $3,000 for the study in this year's budget.

The board acted after hearing a presentation by Neill Smith and Associates, which also sought the contract. Arthur B. Little Co. advised that the $3,000 was insufficient for such a survey under its schedule of fees.

The vote was 4-0, with Hanlon B. Tharp absent.

Missile Fired Into Pacific

VANDENBERG AFB (UPI)— A Minuteman I missile was successfully launched Wednesday by a Strategic Air Command missile combat crew as part of a series of operational test launches selected at random.

A missile wing from Ellsworth AFB, S.C. launched the missile at 5:25 p.m. and it successfully traveled on course down the Air Force's Western Test Range.

A 'Sanctions Alert' Sounded By Teachers

I-J Special Report

SONOMA — The Valley of the Moon Teachers Association has voted a "sanctions alert" against Sonoma Valley Unified School District.

The "sanctions alert" was approved by 84 per cent of the membership of the California Teachers Association chapter, according to John W. Trace Jr., president.

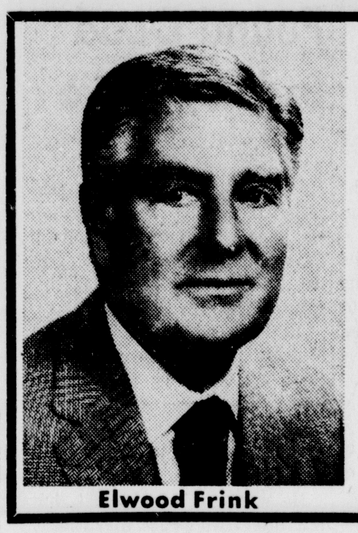

A "sanctions alert" puts the district on notice that unless it rectifies conditions the teacher organization finds objectionable, the CTA will put it on an employment "blacklist," thereby seeking to dry up its source of teachers.

Trace said problems in the district include maintenance, supplies, salaries, class size, and inadequate funding. The organization urged an election to increase the district's operating tax rate, claiming Sonoma Valley is spending $100 less per pupil per year than comparable school districts.

THE LAST NAME — John D. King, director of personnel, reads the last name handed to him by Dorothy Brown. Of the 38 teachers in the lottery, 17 or less will receive letters of intention to dismiss. King's black eye was caused by a household accident.

THE NUMBERS GAME — Dixie School District teachers seem apprehensive at the start of their job lottery. But they soon relaxed yesterday when told actual dismissal was unlikely. A mimeographed list of the teachers involved made it easy for the audience to follow the drawing.

(Independent-Journal photos by Jim Kean)

LOTTERY SYSTEM

Dixie's Teacher Crisis

By GEORGE NEVIN

Stressing that the Dixie School District probably won't have to discharge any teachers, district officials held a lottery yesterday to determine the order of dismissal in case any is necessary.

Supt. Clifford W. Campbell told the 38 teachers affected by the drawing that declining enrollment will force the elimination of 12 teaching positions next fall, and that failure of the April 14 tax rate increase election would bring that figure to 25.

"But we ordinarily have 25 or 30 vacancies because of resignations," he said. "If this happens, and we think it will, no one will lose his job."

Campbell said the district already has received eight resignations, so the maximum number of dismissals would be 4 or 17, depending on the fate of the election.

"Let me do the worrying," said John D. King, district personnel manager, and the teachers, most of them young and female, seemed content to let him.

The waited patiently and seemingly unconcernedly while Dorothy Brown, senior member of the Dixie School District board, drew names out of envelopes to establish the list.

Three teachers hired this year were the first names on the list, but a drawing was necessary for the fourth and fifth names, because both teachers were hired Dec. 15. Most were hired Sept. 2.

King said the district would do everything it could to aid dismissed teachers "to get jobs in neighboring districts."

"Your job is of concern to us," he said. "We have an obligation to you and we want to support you."

The next step, Campbell said, will come March 15 when the district will send reduction of force letters to the affected teachers. The number of letters will be determined by the number of resignations in the district by that date.

"We'll mail 17 letters or less," King said. "If two more teachers have resigned by then, we'll send out only 15 letters."

He pointed out that these letters are not the actual dismissals, but only notice of intention to dismiss.

Final action will be taken May 15, as required by law.

"But we're expecting, and past experience tells us, that this lottery is just a formality," Campbell said.

Four Accused In Shooting Scrape

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A "pot-shot" safari in the San Bruno Mountains has resulted in detention of four San Francisco youths.

The targets of the hunt Tuesday were a University of San Francisco professor and two students who were on a field trip.

Prof. Theodore F. Niehaus, 32, and students Daren M. Bowers, 22, and William M. Trainor, 20, were fired upon with a rifle and a pistol, according to San Mateo County Deputy Sheriff John C. Cooper.

The victims said they were forced to walk down a trail while bullets pelted the ground around them. None was injured, however.

THIRD SECTION SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 26, 1970 15

Marin Delegation Joins Murphy In Calling For Seashore Funds

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON—Marin's three-man delegation testified today before a Senate subcommittee, urging members to approve a $38 million appropriation to complete the purchase of the Point Reyes National Seashore.

Of 54,000 acres originally designated as seashore boundaries, almost 31,000 acres still remain in private ownership.

Supervisor Louis H. Baar, rancher Boyd Stewart, and County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney presented their prepared statements to the parks and recreation subcommittee of the Senate Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs.

"Marin is one of the last major open-space areas readily accessible to the entire San Francisco Bay Area," said Baar. "But it is directly in the path of enormous population pressures and intensive urbanization."

Stewart said ranchers recognize that their lands can no longer remain theirs to enjoy exclusively, and "its beauty and grandeur must be shared with all Americans."

Maloney pointed out that Marin County supervisors, ever since 1935, have been supporting the creation of the Seashore "at every opportunity and in every way possible." He joined Baar and Stewart in urging approval of the appropriation bill.

Also joining the Marin trio in calling for "prompt action" the authorization was Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif.

In his prepared statement, Murphy said speedy action is needed because land values" continue to escalate dramatically with each passing day."

Murphy warned against amendments that might result in "undue delay" as the committee opened hearings on a bill to raise authorized spending from $19 million to $57 million.

"If this subcommittee should decide, in its wisdom, that certain proposed amendments should be added, and if definite assurances could then be obtained in advance that these amendments would be acceptable to the House, I would not object to the inclusion of proper amendments," Murphy said.

"On the other hand, if the addition of certain amendments would plunge the Point Reyes issue into dispute and delay, it is my feeling that they could well be considered at some later date by having them introduced as individual bills after the passage of a Point Reyes measure that is mutually acceptable now to the Senate and the House."

President Nixon, in his budget message to Congress, said he would seek a supplemental appropriation of $7.5 million in this fiscal year if Congress passes the legislation. Additional funds are to be requested in the fiscal 1971 budget.

Teachers Uphold Grand Jury Report

Sausalito School District teachers have rejected, by a narrow margin, a resolution condemning the Marin County Grand Jury's report on the district.

The vote, at a Tuesday meeting of the Sausalito District Teachers Association, was disclosed today by James E. Pockrus association president. The SDTA is the district chapter of the California Teachers Association.

Pockrus said a resolution calling the grand jury report not objective and based on misinformation was voted down 16 to 14 by teachers at the meeting.

District Supt. Phillip W. Schneider has claimed the grand jury report "points up the jury's monumental ignorance of the Sausalito district's problems" and was based on "rumors, innuendo and unsubstantiated charges."

The district board of trustees at its Monday night meeting declined to take up the grand jury's 15 recommendations — one of which was that the district do away with its administrative structure and put its schools temporarily under administration of the county superintendent.

Sidney F. Walton, principal of Martin Luther King School, suggested to the Sausalito Parents' Club Tuesday night that the six administrators be reduced to three who would operate as a troika.

Attending the teachers' meeting at which the vote on the resolution was taken was Quentin Mason, Bay Section field representative of the California Teachers Association. With Richard Watson, CTA Marin-Sonoma representative, and James Lewis, CTA human relations executive, he has been conducting an investigation of teacher complaints in the district the past two weeks.

Pockrus said the investigation was requested by "a number of members" of the CTA local. It was begun before the grand jury's report, he said.

"I only get called in when there is a communications breakdown" between teachers and administration, Mason told the Independent-Journal. "We're working with the board and the administration." He declined to give the nature of the complaints.

Pockrus said one concern of teachers is that they have so far been unable to learn how much staff reduction is planned for next school year. He pointed out that, under state law, teachers who are not to be rehirred must be notified by March 15.

He said the teachers whose complaints resulted in request for the CTA investigation were "principally but not entirely" at Martin Luther King School, where Pockrus is a science teacher.

Free Skiing Trip Slated For Teeners

Sixty teen-agers from low-income or welfare families in Marin will get a free ski trip to Alpine Meadows this Saturday.

Three busloads of youngsters will leave San Rafael High School parking area at 5 a.m. and plan to be back at 9 p.m.

Transportation, use of all ski equipment, expert instruction, and lunch will be given free to the youngsters.

The all-day snow trip is sponsored jointly by the Marin Volunteer Bureau, Marin YMCA, Marin County Economic Opportunity Council, and Hamilton Air Force Base.

Mrs. James C. Hobart of Ross is chairman of the camp-recreation committee of the Department of Public Social Services, a volunteer group which is coordinating the snow trip.

Mrs. Hobart said the owners of Alpine Meadows offered its facilities free of charge. Hamilton Air Force Base is providing two buses, complete with drivers and counselors, and Marin EOC is providing a third bus. So many youngsters wanted to go that the buses are full, and there is a long waiting list, said Mrs. Hobart.

The moon is approaching its last quarter. The morning stars are Mercury and Jupiter. The evening stars are Venus, Mars and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1919 Congress established Grand Canyon National Park in Arizona.

In 1935 Germany began operation of its air force—the Luftwaffe—under Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering.

A thought for the day: Ralph Waldo Emerson said, "The reward of a thing well done is to have done it."

Big Park Crowd During Holiday

Using traffic countres placed at entrances to the park, and then multiplying by four, they determined that 37,032 people used the park over the three-day weekend.

During the same weekend in 1968, only 11,428 people entered the seashore park, and 10,178 in 1969. However, there was rain on the holiday the previous two years.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Quick Play Does Not Always Bring Home A Winning Trophy

One of my close friends grudges the time spent planning the play when the dummy is first put down. He prefers to barge right ahead, thinking now and then as he goes. He saves a few seconds on some hands but spends several minutes on other hands, explaining just how he managed to go down.

Opening lead — ◇ Q

TRUMP ROUNDS

My friend ruffed the second diamond and drew four rounds of trumps, quick as a wink. East discarded the queen of clubs and a small diamond on the third and fourth trumps.

South then led three top hearts and stopped for thought when West discarded a club on the third heart. By this time dummy was down to K-8 of diamonds and K-10 of clubs, and South didn't know how to proceed.

If South had decided to lead a heart, discarding a diamond, he would have gone down only one. East would have taken one heart, one diamond and one club but would have yielded the jack of clubs to dummy's king.

It would have been no triumph, but South actually led a club and went down two. Then he spent a few minutes refuting North's contention that any butcher's apprentice would have played the hand better.

FEW SECONDS

South could choose the right play if he spent a few seconds examining the dummy and thinking.

The odds are almost 2 to 1 that the six missing hearts will not all fall on the three top hearts. South should therefore take precaution against the normal heart break.

AFTER RUFFING

After ruffing the second diamond South should cash two top not all fall on the three tafter ruffing the second diamond South should cash two top hearts and then lead a low heart with the intention of ruffing with dummy's eight of spades. This plan is safe if the hearts are evenly divided since both opponents will follow suit. It will also work if the opponent with four hearts has the ten of spades. After ruffing the third heart, declarer returns a trump to draw all of the missing trumps, and he can then take his last two hearts to make his game.

DAILY QUESTION

S- 10 5
H- J 9 8 3
D- A 7 6 2
C- A Q J

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two diamonds. Most experts consider the hand not quite worth a response of 2-no-trump (but some would prefer that bid). If you bid the diamonds, you plan to bid no-trump at your next turn.

Mill Valley Hears Land, Wildlife Tie

The City of Mill Valley has been told that a marshy area on Richardson Bay planned for the Miller Avenue extension to Highway 101 is of apparently high value to wildlife.

Conservationists have urged the city in recent months to block development of the marshland areas in East Mill Valley, particularly questioning the city's plans for a small boat harbor.

In a letter to Harvey E. Bragdon, director of Mill Valley's Community Development Department, a Bay Conservation and Development Commission official quoted a BCDC consultant as saying that the Bothin marsh areas planned for the Miller Avenue extension are "much the most valuable" in the area.

The planning commission had asked for BCDC opinion on the ecological value of marshlands in the region as a result of persistent debate over the small boat harbor. Last week, the BCDC consultant, Dr. H. Thomas Harver, professor of biology at San Jose State College, visited the area.

"Dr. Harvey believes that Bothin marsh area to be much the most valuable of those described on the map you sent us." wrote Joseph E. Bodovitz, BCDC executive director. "Cord grass was growing, in reasonably healthy condition . . . indicating that the area receiving tidal flow. . ."

Bodovitz said it was unclear, however, whether BCDC, which must approve any development within an area subject to tidal action, had jurisdiction over the Bothin portion. He said commission staff sought to determine whether the marshland was subject to tidal action when BCDC was created in 1965.

The Mill Valley Coalition, a conservation group which opposes filling in the harbor area, has indicated it will also oppose the Miller Avenue extension because of planned filling.

The BCDC letter was presented to the city planning commission Tuesday night, although not discussed in connection with the Miller Avenue extension.

However, the commission was presented with statements and a petition containing 1,200 signatures urging preservation of East Mill Valley marshlands.

Ecology Becoming The Thing

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Notes to watch television by:

The programs: Video's current absorption with matters concerning the environmental crisis is indicated by NBC-TV's announcement of a whole layout of broadcasts on the subject ... A new half-hour Sunday series, "In Which We Live," is one example, and begins May 3 with Edwin Newman as host ... In addition, the network will offer an hour special on the topic April 7, and the "Today" series will devote the entire week of April 20-24 to a study of the environment.

Furthermore, NBC-TV's "Frontiers of Faith" series will present a series of four discussions about "The Quality of Life" starting March 8 ... And, with all the networks giving considerable time to the state of the environment, NBC-TV adds that "our regularly scheduled news programs will continue to place heavy emphasis on the subject as they have in recent months."

At ABC-TV, meanwhile, there will be an hour March 10 special, "Those Incredible Diving Machines," that examines man's efforts to "Probe the Ocean's Depths" through the centuries ... This hour is part of the distinguished occasional series entitled "The Undersea World of Jacques Cousteau."

And from CBS-TV comes precautions offered by the Eastman Kodak Co. on how persons interested in the March 7 total solar eclipse should watch the remarkable event if they insist on seeing it in person rather than on the broadcasts of all three networks ... says Eastman Kodak:

"Looking at the sun, either directly or through the viewfinder on your camera, can burn your eyes and cause blindness. Never look at the sun without adequate protection ... Always use a filter that will absorb equally and sufficiently the ultra-violet, visible, and infrared energy of the sun ...

"Medical authorities indicate that a neutral density filter of metallic silver, such as developed photographic film, of at least 6.0 density will provide adequate protection for visual use only. Such filters are not suitable for photographic use. Place the filter in front of your eyes before facing the sun. Such a filter can be made with two thicknesses of black-and-white (not color) photographic film which has been completely exposed and developed to maximum density."

The first practical internal-combustion engine using gasoline for fuel was produced in France in 1860.

Indian Valley Sewer Idea Is Revived

The movement to get sewers in the Indian Valley section of West Novato is being revived, Engineer-Manager Charles A. Joseph has reported to the Novato Sanitary District board.

In 1966 an attempt to get a $450,000 project along Indian Valley Road, Wilson Avenue and Mill Road areas failed. Some residents are now interested in connecting to the sewers, Joseph said.

The sanitary board agreed Tuesday to provide the property owners with petitions and a list of former property owners who favored the sewers years ago, Joseph said. No cost estimate or area to be included were discussed by the board, he said. They will wait for the residents to return the petitions, he said.

The Novato Sanitary District board also:

EMERGENCY — Approved a $2,700 expenditure to relocate a portion of a 15-inch trunk sewer on Hamilton Air Force Base property that had been undermined by the winter rains. It also approved the base relocating 160 feet of the same sewer to get it out of the place where the new commissary is to be constructed.

ANNEXATION — Approved the annexation of approximately an acre on the north side of Vineyard Road East of Sun Lane for Robert Hune.

CREEKS — Heard a report from Joseph that high water had exposed several sewers where they cross the creek. This condition must be corrected before the next rainy season, he said.

ABAG — Approved joining as cooperative member at a cost of $100, the assciation of Bay Area Governments.

EASEMENTS — Accepted an easement from Western California Telephone Co. for a main easement across the company corporation yard to Franklin Avenue.

MEETINGS — Set March 16 and 30 for meeting dates next month.

Honor Music Festival Is Set Saturday

Royal Stanton, chairman of the fine arts division of De Anza College at Cupertino, will be guest director at the Petaluma City School District Honor Music Festival Saturday at 7:30 p.m. at Petaluma Senior High School.

Honor students representing the three junior high schools and two high schools in the district will perform as the all-district honor orchestra and 120-piece honor band, according to Elaine Gillespie, general chairman and music teacher at Kenilwroth Junior High School.

Directing the honor band will be Ernest C. Thompson, instructor of wind instruments and director of bands at Diablo Valley College, Pleasant Hill.

Dennis De Cateau, music director at California State College at Hayward, will direct the honor orchestra. He is also director of the San Francisco Chamber Orchestra and the Alameda County Adult Orchestra.

Archery dates back about 25,000 years and at one period or another has been found in every country of the world.

Cities Group Elects Transit Delegates

The Marin Council of Mayors and Councilmen last night elected two new cities' representatives on the Marin County Transit District Board, unseating veteran member Corte Madera Mayor Edward W. Colthurst.

With each city voting for two candidates by secret ballot, the results were Anderson, 7, McAskill, 6, Tiburon Councilman Denis T. Rice, 5, and Colthurst, 4.

Colthurst had served on the transit board since Sept. 1965, and was one of the two first cities' representatives on the board.

The cities' other incumbent on the transit board, Mill Valley Mayor Dean N. Meyer withdrew from the race because he isn't seeking reelection to the Mill Valley City Council.

Council President J. Wayne Womack of Novato reminded the group that it also will have the task of nominating a councilman to succeed Meyer on the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District Board.

The monthly session was held at the Officers Club at Hamilton Air Force Base, and Col. Lee Sarter, base commander, welcomed the group.

Councilmen viewed color slides with narration relating the history of the First Fighter Wing and the operations at the base, which Col. Taylor described as Marin's largest employer with 4,000 civilian and military personnel.

Council Of Mayors, Councilmen Also:

Reed of San Anselmo, Robert R. Souza and Frank J Egger of Failrfax and San Rafael Mayor C. Paul Bettini.

HEALTH COUNCIL — Received a request form county supervisors to recommend someone to represent supervisors on the Comprehensive Health Planning Council of Marin. Nominated were Reed and Bettini, with a vote expected at the next council session.

ABAG BOARD—Received a request from the Association of Bay Area Governments to recommend candidates for appointment to the association's Regional Criminal Justice Advisory Board.

NEXT MEETIG—Adjourned until 6:30 p.m. March 25 at the San Geronimo National Golf Course, with San Anselmo to be the host city.

Novato was the host city last night.

Cotati Planners Seek County's Help On Guide

Assistance from the Sonoma County Planning Department in detailing guidelines for architectural control has been requested by the Cotati Planning Commission.

The commissioners said Tuesday that a specific set of rules of what to study was needed. They said that in the past, many delays were created because companies have presented plans without knowing specifically what the commission would want to study.

The Cotati Planning Commission also:

SERVICE STATION — Reviewed the architecture of a proposed Fastgas service station to be built at 7898 Redwood Highway by the Douglas Oil Co. Study was continued to the March 10 meeting to get an opinion from the county planning staff.

O'Doul's Angels Very Much Alive

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A year before Frank "Lefty" O'Doul died he started a Little League team in Vancouer, B. C., called "O'Doul's Angels of San Francisco."

Wednesday night, at O'Doul's restaurant here, about 100 persons paid $30 apiece to do just that. Charlie Finley, Oakland A's owner, was one of the bigger single contributors, sending a check for $150.

Proceeds from the dinner will go into a savings account and "O'Doul's Angels of San Francisco" will have their expenses paid from the interest the account draws, expected to be $175 a year.

O'Doul died last Dec. 7 at 72. He played for five major league teams, starting out as a pitcher but moved to the outfield when he had arm trouble.

He led the National League in hitting with .398 for the Philadelphia Phillies in 1929 and with .368 for the Brooklyn Dodgers in 1932.

O'Doul had the highest lifetime batting average of any living major league, .349 for 10 seasons, and on his death the honor passed to Ted Williams, whose lifetime average was .344.

In 1931, he was influential in getting baseball started in Japan.

For the next 30 years, he managed the San Francisco Seals, San Diego Padres, Oakland Oaks and Vancouver Mounties in the Pacific Coast League.

He opened his restaurant on Geary Street 12 years ago.

Among those attending the dinner were O'Doul's widow, San Francisco Supervisor Jack Ertola and former New York Yankee and Brooklyn Dodger star Andy Carey.

About 20 Canadian sports writers came down, along with 13-year-old Craig Svalestuen, catcher and captain of "O'Doul's Angels of San Francisco."

Carey, active in Little League work, reminded the audience that "The easiest thing you can do is give money.

STANFORD SCHEDULES GAME WITH ARKANSAS

STANFORD (UPI) — Stanford and Arkansas have scheduled an "11th" football game at Little Rock on the night of Sept. 12.

"The 11th game was added only after considerable study," said Athletic Director Chuck Taylor of Stanford. "Our players and coaches had a lot to say on the subject. They wanted it only if we could get a major opponent. Arkansas is certainly in that category."

This will be the first football game ever between the two schools and the agreement does not provide for a return game at Stanford.

JIM GILMARTIN

Wilkins Has Reason To Pop Some Buttons

JIM SHORTS:

Paul Wilkins, the young old pro of tennis coaching, has reason to pop a few buttons these days after his San Domenico School for Girls team of San Anselmo won its 37th consecutive match last week. The team hasn't lost since Paul became coach. His current crop includes Pam Winslow, Darby Auerbach, Bee Kilgore, Ann Balcom, Jane Hueber, Winnie Hamilton, Mary Ellen Yates, Mary Ann Dohn and Sandy Stockton.

PRO GRID star Elmer Collett of Mill Valley, who usually jumps at John Brodie's cadence with the 49ers, is hup-tup-three'ing it these days to the tune of a sergeant's baritone in reserve army duty at Fort Ord. Elmer is a very offensive guard and while the Army uses him as a reserve, he's still first string in Coach Dick Nolan's book.

DON'T YOU think it was rather sporty that golfer Bob Pomeroy's recent hole-in-one at the Meadow Club was witnessed by John Hunter and Jim Bowler?

SPEAKING OF aces, Jules G. Prizant of 160 Lower Via Casitas, Greenbrae, holed his tee shot on the 134-yard fifth hole at Mill Valley Muni Sunday. The perfect seven-iron shot was witnessed by Tom Hughes of San Rafael and Barney Power of Daly City.

AND SPEAKING of Washington's Birthday golf feats, John Kleinman of San Rafael won low net honors at Rohnert Park Sunday. His prize was cherry tree, and that's no lie, unplayable or otherwise.

Other San Rafaelites who fared well in the Washington Golf festival at Rohnert: Ted Jones, third, and Loren Olson and Don Klassen, tied for fourth, in the Callaway Flight.

SOMEHOW A "9" became an "0" and San Rafael High School scholar-athlete award winner Dan Jordan was slighted in the publicity accompaning last Friday's Hall of Fame banquet in San Francisco.

A's One Jump Ahead

THE OAKLAND A's already are one jump ahead of the S. F. Giants and the season hasn't even started yet. I mean, the A's have their 1970 Press, Radio and TV Guide published and distributed while the Giants apparently still are waiting for the ink to dry on theirs. But don't hurry, Horace, the season's long enough as it is.

OH, BOY, am I in the canine condominium again, and I just ain't a-woofin'.

Last week the I-J published a photo of San Rafael's Kramer Herzog finishing second in a ski race at Heavenly Valley while the Chronicle ran a pix of Gloria Kelly of Lake Tahoe winning a ladies' event in the same competition. No mention of latter in the I-J.

Gloria Kelly is well-known here in Marin. Has several friends and relatives here. Including me. She's my sister-in-law.

"Not even a picture . . . or even a mention. Fine brother-in-law you are!!!"

Which is why I've been dieting the past week on milk bones. And cold shoulder.

Not only did they lose their final game of the season, 68-50 to DeAnza College in Cupertino, but their bus broke down in Fremont on the way home and they didn't get back to Kentfield until the wee hours.

Soccer Referee Reaches Top Rung Of The Ladder

BY RALPH CHATOIAN

For Henry Landauer of San Rafael, and anyone else involved in soccer, it is called reaching the top.

It's the summit, the pinnacle, the goal. In just about every country in the world it is THE thing. People in other countries show more interest in it than Americans do when it comes time for the World Series.

It's the World Cup, which comes about only every four years. It will be in Mexico City June 1 through 25, and one of the 30 referees will be Landauer, a German born resident of San Rafael.

A TRIBUTE

To be chosen to referee in the World Cup is a tribute to your talents. He's the only one chosen from the entire North Central American region. Of the 150 countries in the Federation International Football Association (FIFA), each nominate seven referees, making a total of 1,050 nominations. The 30 refs are chosen from this list.

"It's the biggest thing that can happen to me," said Landauer from the other side of the bar at Pier 15 tavern near the San Rafael canal. He spends a lot of time at the bar, but not drinking the merchandise. It's one of two taverns in which he is a partner, the other is Paterson's in Sausalito. That's his partner, Bill Paterson.

A native of Stuttgart, Landauer has known the game of soccer since he was 10. He played soccer in Europe and later in San Francisco until he was 27, then got out of actual playing. Landauer, now 41, became a soccer referee in 1957.

Frank Woods of San Rafael, a past president of the U. S. Soccer Football Association, talked Landauer into going to referee school, a move that has paid off tremendously.

Landauer came to the United States in 1947, then a youngster of 18. He went to night school in San Francisco when he arrived, and got a job with American Can Co. as a tool and dye maker, a trade he learned in Germany. Later he became a meat salesman and didn't move to San Rafael until 1964. Two years later he went back to Europe to watch the World Cup matches being played in England.

HONORED

"I was hoping someday to be able to be a participant in the World Cup," Landauer said. "It is really an honor."

Still with relatives and friends in Germany, Landauer made a trip back to his native land in 1957, not expecting to stay three years and come back with a bride. Henry and Katrin have one son, Jeffrey, 2. Landauer also has a 20-year-old daughter, Vicky, by a previous marriage.

Soccer officiating has taken Landauer all over the globe, as well as throughout the United States. He has been in Honduras, Canada, Costa Rica, Germany, Panama, Mexico.

In explaining what it's like to be a soccer official, in a sport in which fans can become wild and unruly, Landauer said: "You are the timekeeper, policeman. You are all alone out there. You have two linesmen to assist you, but you are responsible."

CLOSE CALL

His only close call was about six years ago while refereeing a game in San Francisco's Balboa Park. Someone jumped out of the stands and started chasing him, "but someone got to the guy first and he never caught me," Landauer laughed.

A very serious man on the field, Henry hits the opposite line behind the bar at his tavern, sporting an unending sense of humor and wit. He's a funny man with a German accent. He's also one of the best soccer referees in the world.

NIT Showcase: Maravich

The floppy-haired sharpshooter from Louisiana State University, the leading scorer in college basketball history, is the only "name" player guaranteed to sell tickets and television exposure for the NIT this year.

The NIT Selection Committee Wednesday named four of the 16 teams—LSU, St. John's, Marquette and Georgia Tech—for this year's tournament, but LSU and Maravich are the main attraction.

The tourney opens on March 13, but LSU is sure to be saved for a national television contest on Saturday afternoon in its opening game. If Maravich could propel the Tigers (17-3) to the semifinals or finals, the NIT will be guaranteed a lot of excitement. Without him, the NIT could lose a lot of luster since tenth-ranked Marquette (19-3) is the only team in the top ten likely to be in the NIT this season.

While Maravich may be good for the NIT, it's also true the NIT could be good for Maravich. The senior has never had a chance to showcase his talents in New York with all the resulting exposrre to be national media. One or two 60-point, record-breaking performances at Madison Square Garden might boost his price in the bidding war between the NBA and the ABA.

"I've always dreamed of playing in Madison Square Garden," Maravich said, "the people in New York really appreciate basketball and I think we can really put a show on for them."

Marin Loses Finale

College of Marin stored away its basketball gear for another season last night, ending Coach John Panagakis' first year as head coach on a sad note.

Marin thus closed the books with a 17-11 won-lost record on the season and 8-6 in league play. DeAnza, 21-9 on the season, finished with an 11-3 conference mark behind champion Contra Costa of San Pablo, 13-1.

Marin had an upset in sight through the first half last night and trailed favored DeAnza by only 31-28 at half. But then the Tars lost the range on the basket, connecting on only 19 per cent of their second half field goal attempts to fall hopelessly behind.

Marin Scoring—Pat Schafer, 2-3-7; Tom Seidenberg, 5-0-10; Bob Tait, 4-4-12; Daryl Ravani, 4-3-11; Tom McCart, 2-1-5; Chip Tyson, 2-0-4; Joe Smith, 0-1-1. Totals: 19-12—50.

DeAnza Scoring—Korte, 6-4-16; Mitchell, 6-2-14; Tarbonovic, 3-4-10; Dwyer, 5-2-12; Van Hoy, 3-0-6; Bishop, 1-0-2; Dunning, 10-2; Nebozak, 2-0-4; McKay, 1-0-2. Totals: 28-12—68.

Warriors' Third Loss This Week

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The way things are going for the San Francisco Warriors, the three weeks before the National Basketball Association's regular season ends will be a long, long time.

For the third time this week the Warriors bit the dust Wednesday night, losing to the Chicago Bulls, 112-104. San Francisco now has lost eight of its last nine games, with 14 to go.

1½ GAMES

Seattle downed Atlanta 120-112 Wednesday night and now holds fifth place in the NBA Western Division by 1½ games over the Warriors. The Sonics play San Francisco at the Oakland Arena Friday — the third encounter of the two clubs this week. By winning Sunday and Tuesday the Sonics evened the series at 3-3.

The Bulls got off to a 32-30 first-quarter lead Wednesday night, with Bob Love getting half of his individual high point total of 32 in that opening period.

WITHIN FOUR

The Warriors got within four points of the Bulls in the final period, but reserve Shaler Halimon came off the bench to score nine of his 10 points in that quarter and safeguard the Bulls' lead.

Jerry Lucas led San Francisco with 20, and Joe Ellis had 19 for the losers.

Namath Joins Philharmonic

NEW YORK (AP) — Quarterback Joe Namath, director of the New York Jets attack, will will team with conductor Andre Kostelanetz and the New York Philharmonic, the orchestra announced Wednesday.

Namath will narate a New work, specially written for him and the Philharmonic, at its world premiere performance May 29 and 30 during the 1970 Promenades Concerts, Philharmonic said.

The late Carl Sandburg and New York Mayor John V. Lindsay have been guest narrators with the Philharmonic in the past.

A's Magic Number Now Down To Four

MESA, Ariz. (AP) — The magic number for the Oakland Athletics now is four, but No. 7 is still the big one.

Athletics' owner Charles O. Finley, dealing from his La Porte, Ind., home, came to terms with two more of his players Wednesday and that left him with four to go. The latest to sign were Don Mincher and Diego Segui.

WEARS NO. 7

The top holdout, of course, is Reggie Jackson, who wears No. 7 and who hit 47 home runs last season. He is seeking more than the estimated $40,000 that Finley has offered.

Others still unsigned are infielders Dick Green and Ramon Webster and pitcher Juan Pizarro.

Mincher and Segui were obtained during the winter from Seattle. Both are believed to have signed for substantially more money than they earned last season.

FIRST BASE

Mincher, 31, is expected to take over fulltime first-base duties since Danny Cater was traded to the New York Yankees. Last season, Mincher hit .246, but slammed 25 home runs and drove in 78 runs.

Segui, was the ace of the Athletics' relief corps in 1968, but went to the Pilots in the 1969 expansion draft. Finley has said he believes the A's would have won the American League's Western Division pennant with Segui.

With the Pilots, the 32-year-old right-hander appeared in 66 games—fourth in the league—and had a 12-6 record with a 3.36 earned-run average and 12 saves.

A Lecture On Speed, Contract For Power

By Associated Press

That's what happened in baseball Wednesday when Jesse Owens talked about running at the Orioles spring training camp, slugger Frank Robinson signed with Baltimore and slugger Harmon Killebrew signed with Minnesota.

Robinson, who batted .308 last season, drove in 100 runs and belted 32 homers, received an estimated $125,000 for his 15th major league year. Killebrew, meanwhile, signed for a reported $90,000 after batting .276 with 140 RBI and 49 homers in 1969 when he was voted the American League's Most Valuable Player.

Owens, a winner four gold medals at the 1936 Olympics who now works for the American League, lectured the Orioles on the art of running and conditioning.

"He can do nothing but help some of our players," said Manager Earl Weaver whose Orioles already are known as a team with better than average speed.

Owens is available to any AL team, and the Orioles were quick to accept his services.

Besides Killebrew, the Twins signed outfielder Bob Allison and rookie Herman Hills, leaving three players still unsigned —outfielder Cesar Tovar, first baseman Rich Reese and relief pitcher Ron Perranoski.

Baltimore also still has three unsigned players. They were pitcher Dave McNally, first baseman Boog Powell and second baseman Dave Johnson.

HIS LAST CHANCE

Stoneham Gives Hart A Warning

COMBINED AP & UPI

Owner Horace Stoneman of the San Francisco Giants said Wednesday the likeable utility man, who owns a lifetime batting average of .282, would be shipped to the minors unless he shapes up. However, Hart would hang onto his $35,000 salary this season whether he plays with San Francisco or Phoenix.

FINAL CHANCE

Stoneham announced during the Giants workout that Hart, who is slow in coming around from a painful shoulder injury that sidelined him for most of last season, is being given a final chance to make the varsity this spring.

The boss of the Giants explained that Hart became expendable when the Giants acquired Steve Whitaker and Jim Gosger from Seattle last winter.

"It's hard to believe but we've got waicers on Jimmy," said Stoneham. "We put him on the waiver list this spring and nobody claimed him."

MAYS BACK

Meanwhile, Willie Mays got into the swing of things Wednesday by clubbing two balls over the leftfield fence off Don McMahon.

The day was not as fruitful for another Giant, though. Rookie pitcher Jim Moyer became the first casualty of the training camp by doing nothing more dangerous than sitting on a bench along the first base line.

A batted ball by Japanese college player Takahashi Arakawa sliced down where Moyer was sitting and hit him in the left shoulder, raising a nasty bruise. Moyer will be out of action for a day or two.

Arakawa is one of several Japanese players in the Giants' camp for a couple of weeks to pick up pointers prior to the club's exhibition tour of Japan later next month.

Really A Challenge In Schussing Slope

For me, there's a real challenge, a special thrill, in going straight down a ski slope. You don't make any turns, you just go all out in a sort of power dive. Skiers call this schussing. It's a German word and it is quite appropriate for it means to shoot.

Of course, schussing a slope can be dangerous, but only for the foolhardy. And I would call foolhardy anybody who exceeds his capabilities by too much. For those who go about schussing with care and consideration rewards are there in terms of improved skills, greater confidence and thrills.

For me, schussing is easiest and safest when I keep my feet and skis apart about the same width as my hips. When I go really fast — over 45 miles per hour — I don't try to ski with perfect form. Then I am too busy concentrating on balance, keeping my weight as evenly distributed as possible on each foot. My ankles, knees and waist bend and unbend constantly, compensating for changes in snow and terrain.

As a beginner, learn to schuss on very gentle slopes even if you go no faster than 5 miles per hour. Look for obstacle-free slopes which have a flat runout so you will come to a natural stop. Stand on your skis in much the same fashion you see me doing here.

If you're an intermediate, seek out a similar slope. Of course, it should be pitched at a steeper angle.

To become an advanced or expert skier you must develop the confidence and ability to ski fast. Once you have mastered the basic christies, then by all means seek out places to practice fast skiing. An excellent place is at the bottom of a steep slope. First, practice schussing the last 10-20 yards of the slope. Then gradually work your way into starting higher and higher up-slope. I am sure this will enhance your skiing enjoyment as you learn to enjoy the taste of more speed in your skiing.

A Confident Bonds Not Looking Back

CASA GRANDE—Bobby Bonds took a long stride towards top stardom last season in his first full major league campaign. But the 23-year-old rightfielder of the Giants and Willie Mays' centerfield understudy is not looking back on past accomplishments.

Bonds is looking ahead to the new baseball season with quiet confidence. He isn't disturbed by the fact that he set a major league record in 1969 when he struck out 187 times. He hasn't lightly dismissed the strikeout problem either. Indeed, he has evaluated it carefully and worked hard during the winter to improve his hitting against curves.

IN BATTING sessions this spring I'm going to ask for nothing but curves," he said. "I firmly believe if you work hard enough to correct a weakness you can make it a strength."

Bonds has no trouble whatsoever with the fast ball as indicated by his total of 161 hits last season, including 32 homers, 25 doubles, six triples and 90 RBIs. His 161 hits were more than any other Giant in 1969.

This spring Bonds can concentrate almost evclusively on the curve because he will not find it necessary to devote as much time as he did last spring on other fundamentals, such as the art of playing the outfield properly and mastering a classic slide into second bass on steals.

THE HOURS spent in the sliding pit last spring paid off handsomely when Bonds stole 45 bases in 49 attempts in 1969. At 23 Bonds became the youngest player and only the fourth in baseball history to hit more than 30 homers and steal more than 30 bases in a season. The others were Ken Williams of the St. Louis Browns in 1922, Mays of the Giants and Hank Aaron of the Braves.

Bonds' 45 thefts last season were the most by a Giant since 1921 when Frankie Frisch stole 49, a mark that he very well could top this year.

Doing spectacular things seems to come naturally to Bonds whether he is setting a strikeout record or hitting a homer. His first major league homer was as spectacular as they come. It was a grand slammer off the Dodgers' John Purdin June 25, 1968, for his first big time hit.

NO OTHER ROOKIE since the turn of the century hit a grand slam in his debut. And there was only one other in all baseball history who did it. He was a fellow named William J. Duggelby who did it for the Philadelphia Nationals April 21, 1898.

Bonds comes from an athletic family. His sister, Rosie, was United States women's hurdle champ and a member of the 1964 Olympic Games team.

IN HIS SENIOR year of high school at Riverside Bonds was California state broad jump champion at 25 feet 3 inches, second best in the country, and was named to the High School All-American track team. He ran the 100-yard dash in 9.5 and the 220 in 21 seconds flat.

In football Bonds was southern California's high school "Athlete of the Year" and led his league in passing and running as a tailback.

Whatever he does he does well and he has a deep desire to excel.

BOWLING TIPS

By MARION LADEWIG

The approach is very much like a rather fast walk. It should come more or less naturally. To get started, I think it's best to have the left foot slightly ahead of the right at address for the four-step delivery. Then it becomes natural to move the right foot into that slow, first step.

Seals Will Need Faster Start Against Detroit

Against the Toronto Maple Leafs on Wednesday, the Seals gae up three goals in the first period and lost by 4-1.

Bob Pulford, Britt Selby and Mike Walton scored the first Toronto points.

Oakland's only tally came in the second period on a shot by Carol Vadnais and Toronto's Dave Keon scored in the last period.

Raiders Complete 1970 Home Exhibition Schedule

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Oakland Raiders completed their home exhibition season schedule yesterday by announcing a game against the Pittsburgh Steelers in the Oakland Coliseum Saturday night, Sept. 12.

Previously announced home exhibition games were against Baltimore Colts on Aug. 8, Los Angeles Rams on Aug. 22 and the Green Bay Packers on Aug. 29. All four are National Conference teams.

Other professional football news yesterday involved coaching staffs.

From Miami, it was announced that Howard Schnellenberger was hired away from the Los Angeles Rams to coach the Miami Dolphin receivers.

The former Kentucky star was the second aide named by new head coach Don Shula, who left the Baltimore Colts to become a part owner, vice president and field boss of the Dolphins. Bill Arnsparger was signed to coach the defensive line of the NFL team. All three men coached at the University of Kentucky in 1959.

From Pittsburgh came the announcement that the Steelers had added former pro star Lionel Taylor to their coaching staff. Taylor, 33, will tutor the receivers, the mob formerly held by Max Coley who has been switched to back field coach.

Taylor played seven seasons for the Denver Broncos and two for the Houston Oilers, during which time he set the American Football League all-time pass reception record with 5676 reception record with 567 in 1968.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL

Some Specifics Concerning Alimony, Separate Maintenance

Alimony and separate maintenance payments are deductible by the husband and must be included in the wife's income if:

1. The payments are made under a decree of divorce or legal separation, or they are made under a written separation agreement made after August 16, 1954, or under a court decree for support made after March 1, 1954, and for payments made after August 16, 1954, under such decree.

2. The payments must be made after such decree or agreement.

3. The payments must cover a legal obligation arising out of marital or family relationship.

4. The payments must not be for the support of children. Child support does not count.

5. Only periodic payments count: Lump sum payments do not count.

Periodic payments are those which extend over a period of time greater than ten years, or where it is impossible to figure the total amount that will be paid, such as where the payments cease on death or remarriage.

LUMP SUMS

Lump sum payments are those where a fixed definite amount is payable immediately following the decree, or where fixed amounts can be figured from the terms of the decree that is payable over a period of ten years or less.

Temporary payments pending divorce or legal separation do not count. Neither do payments intended to repay loans received previously from the wife, or to induce her to turn over community property. Payments for attorneys' fees or court costs do not count.

Provided that all payments qualify, a husband can deduct all payments made to all previous wives during the year, regardless of the number of such previous wives.

The husband cannot deduct attorneys' fees.

NOT TAXABLE

The wife can deduct the cost of collecting taxable alimony.

However, attorneys' fees which might be for getting child support would not be deductible.

Any child support received is not income to the wife.

There is a new rule for determining who gets the dependency credit for children of divorced parents.

It applies only to people who are divorced, legally separated or separated pursuant to a written agreement and who file separate returns. Also, the parents together must furnish more than one-half of the total support of the child for the year and the child must be in custody of either or both parents for more than one-half of the year.

CHILD CUSTODY

Generally speaking, the parent having custody of the child for the greater period of the year will normally be entitled to the dependency credit.

There are two exceptions to this:

1. If a parent who does not have custody of the child contributed at least $600 towards the child's support and the decree of divorce or separate maintenance or written agreement between the parties states that he is entitled to the exemption, or

2. If he contributed more than $1,200 in child support regardless of the number of children for the year and the parent having custody for the greater period during the year does not clearly establish that his share of child support was greater.

If thec hild lives with you and you do not furnish over one-half of the child's support, you still may be accorded treatment as the "head of household" which would give you a tax advantage if your net income is over $500.

Alimony, separate maintenance, child support and divorce are tricky questions. You and your spouse should be in agreement as to who is going to pay the taxes and claim the dependency on your tax returns. An amicable agreement between you can save you both a great deal of trouble and misunderstanding later.

Poultry, Egg Outlook Fair

WASHINGTON (AP) — Poultry and egg producers will find rougher going this year after some of the best prices in years during 1969, says an Agriculture Department economist.

William E. Cathcart of the Economic Research Service told the National Agricultural Outlook Conference recently that rising production costs and indications of some reduction in prices for poultry products may rip profits from last year.

The cost of producing poultry and eggs this year will likely rise," Cathcart said in a prepared talk.

Thus, he said, if prices received by poultry producers average near or slightly less than a year earlier, net returns will be lower.

Egg production last year was down slightly but large consumer demand helped push prices to the highest marks since the early 1950s. Cathcart said broiler chickens increased 9 per cent last year but prices were more than in 1968.

Over-all, he said, combined gross cash receipts from poultry and eggs increased 15 per cent last year. Another rise in total marketings is expected for 1970, but not as much as last year's, he said.

Growth Of 'Go-Go' Funds Seen

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. - We bought Eaton & Howard Special Fund during 1968-69 at prices of $16 to $18 a share. Its performance has been one of the worst. What should we do now?—J.C.

A. Try to be patient. In 1968 Eaton & Howard brought out two new growth funds, the Special being the more speculative of the two. Two other funds have been under Eaton & Howard Management since 1932, and within the limits of each fund's stated objectives they have performed well.

Since the Special Fund is relatively new, no assessment can be made on the basis of past performance. A study of the fund's portfolio reveals a diversified list with emphasis on office equipment, mortgage investment trusts, Canadian oils and technology issues. Recent purchases have been somewhat more conservative than those of a year ago. Speculative go-go funds, because of the basic nature of their holdings, are highly vulnerable in a bear market. However, in an extended bull market their portfolios usually move far faster than their more conservative counterparts. Now trading about 45 per cent below its high, Eaton & Howard Special Fund could offer interesting appreciation possibilities in an up-market.

Q. - It seems I have lost or mislaid my stock certificates. I have the certificate numbers and I know I have to put a stop order on them. Who do I write to for new certificates? — T.K.

A. Your broker will supply the names and addresses of the transfer agents for each security. Write to these agents stating the name of the companies involved, the number on each certificate and the name in which they are registered. Wall Street On The Low Side Again

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks finished lower today despite a good comeback late in the session. Trading was moderately active.

Analysts said much of the list attracted profit taking following Wednesday's big rise in the closing minutes after a small Philadelphia bank cut its prime interest rate to 8 per cent from 8½ per cent. They noted that investors generally were disappointed that major banks had not followed the prime rate reduction.

Shortly before the close, the UPI Marketwide Indicator was off 0.30 per cent on 1,596 issues traded. Declines topped advances, 743 to 572.

CORDOVAN NATIONWIDE TIRE GUARANTEE

TREAD LIFE GUARANTEE AGAINST ROAD HAZARDS

All CORDOVAN PASSENGER TIRES are guaranteed against failures due to road hazards or defects for the life of the original tread. If tire fails, we will — at our option — repair it at no charge or, in exchange, we will replace it, charging the current retail exchange price, plus Federal Excise Tax, less a pro-rata allowance for the unused tread.

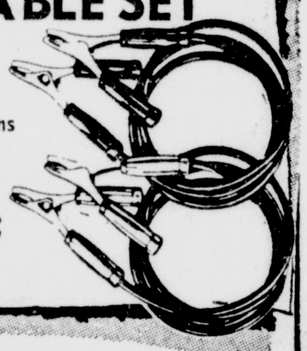

TREAD WEAR MILEAGE GUARANTEE
